

NAVAL LEADERS TRY TO PREVENT AN AGREEMENT

Shantung Issue Threatens to Be Skeleton in Closet of Nations.

PARLEY PROGRESS SLOW

Special to Indiana Daily Times and Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—American naval opinion is working to prevent agreement by the United States to the five-power naval reduction treaty pending developments of the highest importance to peace in the Far East. The Shantung issue is threatening to become the skeleton in the closet of the nations here assembled. Another Chinese political crisis of such serious import as to threaten disruption of any Far Eastern conference of the Washington conference appears in prospect.

The heads of the five delegations late yesterday went over details of the naval treaty. They made progress, but not enough to consider the treaty. Their discussions were continued today. Several issues are in dispute. Some of them may have to be referred to home governments. American naval officers were pointing to a possible menace in full approval by this Government to the naval treaty in advance of adjustment of matters pressing to the fore in the Far East. There was a disposition to withhold assent to some detail of the treaty until such time as the Chinese political atmosphere showed definite signs of clearing.

NEW POLITICAL MOVE IN CHINA

Wu Pei Fu, tuncan of the province of Hupah, and Inspector general of Hupah and Hanan, is the center of a new political movement in China. Although allied nominally with T'ao Kun, super tuncan of the Chind group, and one of the military triumvirate which established the existing ministry at Peking, appeared to have had the political astuteness to grasp the possibilities of the situation offered by the action of the Peking officials in entering into a Shantung agreement with Japan in the terms of the Tokyo government. He proposes to trade on the intense unpopular feeling on that issue. An effort to throw the present government and set up a new cabinet committed to irreconcilable opposition to the decisions of the Washington conference was not at all unlikely. The Chinese student movement in this country and in China is believed to have arrived at a point of religious fanaticism relative to Shantung. A popular uprising is not at all improbable. Such an eventually might carry Wu Pei-Fu to power, but leave a wake of serious political consequences, upsetting the best laid plans of the men attending the Washington conference.

A nine-power far Eastern treaty would become a virtual impossibility. The Chinese delegation in Washington would have abundant excuse for not signing it. The prospect is not entirely remote that the delegation must lend a certain influence to a popular repudiation of the Peking ministry which undertook direct settlement with the Japanese minister, Mr. Ochiai, at Peking, at the moment Chinese spokesmen in Washington were holding out against the Japanese terms as impossible of acceptance.

HUGHES AND BALFOUR ACTIVE

Secretary Hughes and Arthur J. Balfour were represented as having been quietly and informally active in the Shantung matter, but their efforts were believed likely to be productive of results very shortly. Announcement was made that at the request of the Japanese delegates, the conversations with the Chinese delegation would be resumed tomorrow for a discussion of "collateral issues." Those exchanges, it was said, would relate to mines along the Shantung railway and other properties not disposed of thus far in the negotiations. There were many rumors of the imminence of a full agreement on the whole question. In some quarters it was stated an announcement might be forthcoming within forty-eight hours.

The statement was made by responsible spokesmen that China has received effective notice her request for a consideration by the conference of the Sino-Japanese treaties of 1915 based on the twenty-one demands was not possible of granting.

The position taken by Eltho Root, approved by the American delegation and known to be concurred in by the British and other delegations respecting the sanctity of treaties was held to offer adequate forecast of what may be expected of the conference.

NO WHITE HOUSE MEDIATION. Occasion was taken in executive quarters to say there had not been any suggestion of White House mediation in the Shantung squabble, but it is known President Harding regards a settlement as one of the vital tasks of the conference.

The powers represented in the conference, it was learned, have called on the Chinese delegation for a list of the instruments which the Chinese government would like to have altered and for information as to how it would have them modified. The request grew out of the situation respecting spheres of influence in China. Most of the delegations desire to abandon the obsolete system of spheres of influence but it is contended the burdens China wishes to be rid of must be defined by China herself.

HUNT FOR SATISFACTORY FORMULA

Dr. Wang, one of the Chinese plenipotentiaries, said: "We have not yet found a formula satisfactory to both China and Japan, but we hope a solution will be found. Chinese public opinion on the Shantung question is much more intense and stronger than it was at Paris. Then it was acute. Now it is chronic. It is a political issue now, it may become a religious issue later. So it is also with the twenty-one demands."

The text of the pronouncement by Wu Pei-Fu, as received here by the Chinese delegation, applied the term "traitors" to

Man, Seeking Wife, Takes Method Used by Book Peddlers

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Jan. 11.—J. J. Moreland, matrimonial Diogenes, has been making a house to house canvass for a wife here. Moreland put this question to every woman who opened the door when he knocked: "I'm looking for a good wife. Could you tell me where to find one?"

Police who interfered with his activities said he did not appear insane, but merely wanted a wife badly and was using the only method he knew to get one.

Moreland sold his farm at Medford, Okla., recently and distributed the proceeds to the poor.

the members of the Peking cabinet. After restating the story of Shantung, the tuncan on Hupah added: "Liang Shi Yi (the new premier) has injected himself into the scene, working secretly with Japan to reverse the arrangement already tentatively agreed upon. In this time of great national peril, Liang Shi Yi, indifferent to the dangers confronting his country, and unmindful of public opinion, without going through the foreign office, personally agreed to the Japanese terms with the Japanese minister in Peking, for a loan on the Kiaochow Railway, and went to the length of actually ordering the Chinese delegation in Washington to accept it."

"Liang Shi Yi is willing, working with his clique, to sell out China and be subservient to the interests of foreign powers, and be a traitor to his own country."

"The cry of our people for the past few years and the fight put up by our delegates in Washington is regarded by Liang Shi Yi as unworthy of serious consideration. He has now sacrificed the artery of the province of Shantung and abandoned the railroad to Japan."

CONVICT'S VISIT SAVES LIFE OF HIS SICK WIFE

Physicians Assert Presence of Husband Better Than Medicine.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 11.—Permission from Attorney General Daugherty for William C. Grant, former cashier of the First National Bank of Santa Rosa, to leave San Quentin Prison under guard and come to the bedside of his wife at Merritt Hospital here, has saved her life, physicians announced today.

Grant was sentenced two years ago to a five-year prison term for alleged implication in the wrecking of the Santa Rosa bank. His wife went to work in a restaurant to support their two children, spending all her spare time at work in her husband's behalf. Finally she became ill and was in a dying condition when permission was granted for her husband to visit her bedside. His presence did what medical science had failed to do—turned the tide towards life instead of death.

Grant sits constantly at his wife's side, a prison guard just outside the door.

Simply wet the scalp a few times with Kloria. Wonderful for skin ailments or itching anywhere. Free trial proves it.

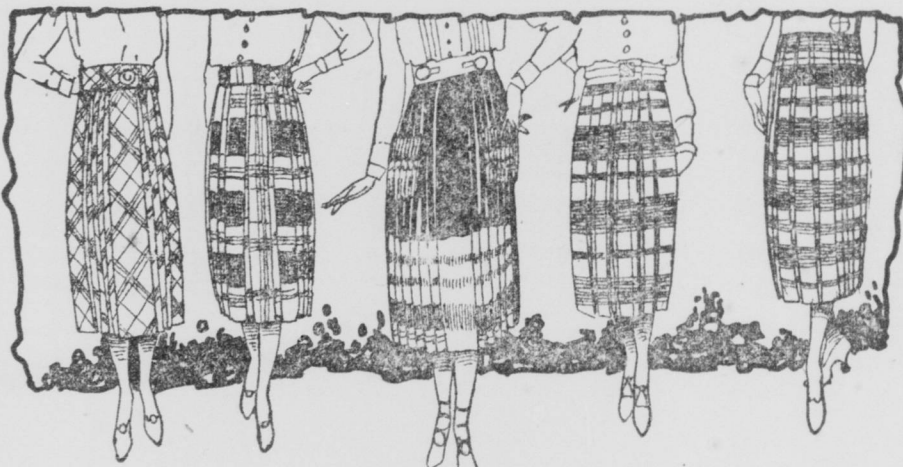

NOTHING could be simpler than wetting the scalp a few times with Kloria. And the results from the very first application will show how easily this scalp annoyance can be ended by a few of these simple treatments. It stops the itching almost immediately and is as harmless as water to the hair. Kloria is the new and wonderful antiseptic, discovered in the world war, which, by scientific test, is over 40 times more germ-destroying than carbolic acid. This great germicidal power is what makes it so effective. Yet Kloria is not poisonous, doesn't burn or irritate, is soothing, pleasant, safe, and more healing than anything else ever known. For eczema, itching skin, eruptions and irritations, Kloria has an almost magic effect. Wounds, sores, boils and burns often heal in one-fourth the usual time. Test it for psoriasis (scaly, bleeding gums) and notice how promptly the soreness and bleeding disappears—usually in one week. As a mouth-wash, it really destroys the acid-forming bacteria, thus preventing tooth-decay. As a gargle, it relieves sore throat most promptly. Harmless, yet far more effective than any poisonous antiseptic for personal hygiene. Dissolve a few Kloria Tablets in water, and instantly you have, at a cost of a few cents, a large bottle of liquid antiseptic which is clean, colorless, stainless and virtually odorless.
