

TALKING CURE FINE REMEDY FOR TROUBLE

Tell Your Tale of Woe to
Some One and Get Away From Worry.

CURES MENTAL TROUBLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Have you a multitude of troubles? Are you worried?

Get out from beneath the load of your troubles by the oral remedy. Tell your tale of woe to some one. Take the talking cure for the blues.

This advice comes all the way from Berlin and from one Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, who advocates this "cure" as an audible ventilation for the pestiferous tenants of the human mind.

According to Dr. Hirschfeld, your fanciful troubles will vanish and the real ones will diminish if you will but talk them off. However, do not pester friends. Talk to some one especially trained to listen to your woes and give you the advice you need.

All this may be well enough, but it will seem to the average person that Dr. Hirschfeld's theory has a flaw in that it excludes one talking to one's friends. Confiding in real friends is a sweet relief. It has always been a boon for the worried man or woman who had a real friend to go to.

Dr. Christine P. Munn-Recht, dean of women at New York University, a graduate physician and a lecturer on psychology, believes the talking cure for the blues is practical and beneficial, but that one should carry troubles to friends rather than to a paid listener.

DR. MUNN-RECHT'S OPINIONS.

"The element of friendship is vital," she insists.

If one has two or three friends to listen, no one need carry a load of petty mental cares which, accumulating from day to day, destroy morale and break us down completely.

"I can find that many, and so can any one else."

"Of course, this seems to be one development of the mental catharsis of Freud, and it comes in agreeable form because it places the emphasis on everyday worries and not on sex troubles."

"It is a safe and sane panacea. Of course, the deep hidden complexes require more profound study. They need a psychoanalyst."

But this "hot-air treatment," which the Berlin doctor advocates, will prevent new complexes from being formed through constant repression of the emotions and will leave no unpleasant effect.

"Emotions expressed through conversation before they take on the element of time are not dangerous."

"Let me explain: Suppose some one is worried because he has a hard time getting along with some one in an office or in a class. He talks it out to some friend. That puts the worry in the past immediately. It is not bottled up for a long period of time, seething and fermenting in the mind from the day the trouble began till the person breaks down from thinking about it."

"Talking it out will make no grooves in the brain from the worry, as Freud would have it. It never takes it in."

"I won't say that it is a cure for cause insanity. That is caused by two things—change in brain structure and change in ideas. Disorders in which ideas change are benefited by some cases of psychosis and in others by talking it out."

"As for telling things to people, some of them are like vegetables. State anything to them and they never take it in. Often people not leading strenuous lives cannot understand these trials of a busy day."

"On the other hand, if two active women, political leaders for instance, should ever begin to tell each other their troubles the day would not be long enough. Both would break from the strain."

"It is the petty affairs of life that break folks down. It is no effort to tell some one to listen to a recital of them. Ever since that time when I was a student at Johns Hopkins University, and sick in a hospital bed, there, and cried out at night something which had bothered me during the day, I have told my worries to people. It will come out in some form, anyhow."

"The sympathetic ear is imperative, through."

"A wife whose husband gets angry because he wanted toast for breakfast, when she gave him rolls, can tell that to another wife who unsuccessfully served toast to a man who desired pancakes. And so on."

"Bad coffee and hard-boiled eggs that should have been soft are the little worries of many women's days."

"But when this Dr. Hirschfeld says that there should be more sex enlightenment, I believe he is at sea. There is undue stress on sex in these matters. In the life of the normal average person it plays a slight role."

Company Would Sell Its Surplus Energy

Approval of a contract to sell all surplus energy manufactured by the Lake Shore & South Bend Railway Company to the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company was passed today.

The contract will be with the public service commission today.

According to the petition, the gas company has agreed to pay the railway company $4,250 a month for the service.

The current will be transmitted to the gas company over high-tension wires, the petition said.

The petition also asks the companies be allowed to consolidate their steam plants, and this, according to the petition, would eliminate a large unnecessary expense. The Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Company operates a number of plants in northern Indiana.

The contract will be for twenty years, the petition states.

comes up for hearing. In view of the fact that Rickers has the backing of the majority faction of the board it is considered a practical certainty that he will be upheld in his action.

ARSENAL TECH.

Following the special meeting of the board, with the exception of Bert S. Gadd, made a trip to inspect the shops and power plant at Arsenal Technical High School, which have just been completed.

Awarding of the ash-hauling contract for the schools and libraries was postponed until a committee consisting of Mr. Gadd, Adolph Emhardt and W. D. Allison can consult with the city attorney and Albert Baker, attorney for the board, as to the possibility of making arrangements for the city to take care of the matter for the board. Both Mr. Emhardt and President Barry doubted the legality of such an arrangement.

The lowest bidder for this work is Andrew Morris, negro. His bid is $14,800 a year for a period of three years.

The contract for building a retaining wall at School No. 21, Lincoln and Alabama streets, was awarded to the A. V. Stackhouse Company on a bid of $12,175.

Joseph C. Owens was awarded the contract for building the playground at School No. 22, Arizona and Chestnut streets, on a bid of $22,775.

The board will hold a special meeting Monday morning at 11 o'clock, after which it will visit the new gymnasium, lunchroom and auditorium at Emmerich Manual Training High School.

THE MODERN MOTHER

faces problems far beyond those of her forbears. She herself must be a much more competent person, combining in one individual the duties of nurse, cook, teacher and moral instructor. It is no wonder that many conscientious women break under the strain, and that others drag out a miserable existence; always tired, and yet unable to take a day's vacation. Such women will find themselves benefited and their burdens made easier by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which was made for suffering women, and does not fail to relieve them.—Advertisement.

TO DARKEN HAIR

APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not stultic, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.

MURDERED MAN IS IDENTIFIED AS HORACE DAW

Authorities Investigate Past Life to Find Motive for Crime.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—Police today were probing the past life of Horace Daw, formerly of Janesville, Wis., who was found murdered here last Saturday in the garage on an estate on which he worked as gardener, in an effort to ascertain the motive for the crime.

Daw was known here as "Harry Donelson" but his body was identified last yesterday by his wife, who came from Janesville. Mrs. Daw, a little woman, gray-haired and careworn, said her husband disappeared April 28, last, and that she had never received a word from him.

His brother, the Rev. E. R. Dow of Wheaton, Ill., is a widely known evangelist in Wisconsin and other mid-western States, she said.

For several months Dow had been working as a gardener, living alone in quarters above the garage. So far as is known he had no enemies.

He was shot by a .45-caliber bullet. A bloody print of a hand on the door of the garage was a clue left by the slayer upon which the police are working.

"It is understood changes will be made in the 'dirt farmer' bill offered by Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, that the men will not apply to the next appointment to be made to the board."

Several prohibition authorities will address the meeting. Among those who will speak are Bert Morgan, Federal prohibition director of Indiana, who will speak on "Take Time to Be Patriotic," and C. P. Rogers, a member of the national prohibition flying squadron, who will speak on "Law Enforcement."

"The enforcement of the prohibition law should be the chief concern, of not only the United States, but of the entire world, but every law-abiding citizen," declared Mrs. M. N. Bronson president of the Marion County society. "This is a good opportunity for the law-abiding element to be heard."

The Newsboys' Band will provide music, and the audience will sing "America," followed by the reading of scriptures and the fourteenth Psalm. Prayer will be led by the Rev. E. H. Eberhart, assistant superintendent of the Wheeler Rescue Mission.

The agreement was reached in the private conversations between the delegations over the proposed return of the Shantung province to China and is regarded as a victory for the Chinese as the reopening of the area is to be carried out under the Chinese supervision.

CHINESE PORT WELCOMES ALL

Agreement Is Regarded as Japanese Defeat.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The port of Tientsin and the entire leased area of Kiaochow, in Shantung province, will be opened to equal entry for all nations on a basis of equality, under an agreement reached here today between the Chinese and Japanese delegates in the armament conference.

The agreement was reached in the private conversations between the delegations over the proposed return of the Shantung province to China and is regarded as a victory for the Chinese as the reopening of the area is to be carried out under the Chinese supervision.

On May 20, 1920, Mayor Jewett approved an ordinance amending an amendment to section 2, purporting to reduce the salaries of the chief engineer and day fireman to their original figures of $109 and $80. Despite the fact this ordinance was passed, the city had maintenance pay rolls continued to allow the chief engineer salary at the rate of $125 per month and the day fireman at the rate of $60 per month until the close of the administration last month, the board of works was informed.

City Attorney James M. Ogden and City Civil Engineer John L. Elliott recommended the board, in assessing property for street pavements made under the connecting link law, base the computation of 50 per cent of the assessed valuation, beyond which the law does not permit assessment for such improvement, directly on the assessed valuation of the individual properties. The plan of lumping the assessed valuations and then figuring the 50 per cent on a front foot basis, had been considered. The board approved the recommendation of Mr. Ogden and Mr. Elliott.

Virgil West, 804 Lexington avenue, was appointed heavy truck driver and Ernest Cyrus, 1202 East Georgia street, was given a contract to paint city insignia upon municipal automobiles at $8 per car.

SHANK TO GIVE HIGH CHAIRS TO BABY NAMESAKES

Mayor Limits Number to 100—First Claim Comes From Official Family.

"I'll give a high chair to each of the first hundred babies named after me," remarked Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank today as he marked down the name of Samuel Lewis Shank Kenworthy for the honor. Young Kenworthy, aged 1 day, has the added distinction of being the first youngster born to a member of the how official family. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick Kenworthy, 315 South Emerson avenue. Mr. Kenworthy is track elevation auditor for the board of public works.

To add to the official character of the Kenworthy's heir's appearance on earth the attending physician was Dr. M. J. Spencer, Democratic member of the board of public works.

Mr. Shank also announced that he is going to start the organization of a widows and widowers' society with the mayor's office as headquarters.

"I want all the widows and widowers who are interested in the society to send their names to my office. When we get enough we'll call a meeting of them and let them look each other over. The mayor will marry free any couple that pairs off. I never did think a fellow did any good running around single and the widows all would be better off if they were married again."

The treasure, Fenninger says, was buried by a party of settlers to keep it from falling into the hands of Indians. The settlers later were murdered by the aborigines.

"A party of native Arkansians is supposed to have discovered the tunnel to the cache ten years ago," Fenninger says. "They abandoned an effort to reopen the shaft, after one member of the party was killed by a slide."

Several prominent Denver men have signified their intentions to accompany Fenninger on his search next spring.

COOPERATION EFFECTS SAVING

Railroad Head Explains to U. S. Body.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Savings amounting to thousands of dollars have been effected on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad through the cooperation of employees and officers, H. E. Byram, president of the line, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today in its investigation of the transportation problem.

Economies have been practiced in many directions, Byram said. Among the savings he called attention to was the conservation of fuel whereby the average number of pounds of coal required to move a locomotive one mile in the freight service was 230 pounds for the first ten months of 1921, compared with 250 pounds for the year 1919.

OZARK WILDS SPANISH GOLD HIDING PLACE

$2,500,000 Reported Secreted In Arkansas White River Country.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 12.—In a charted cache in the wilds of the Ozark Mountains of Arkansas there is buried some $2,500,000 in Spanish gold.

So says Anthony Fenninger, who is organizing a company in Denver to search for the hidden treasure.

Fenninger professes to have discovered the key to the hiding place of the gold, which, he says, was buried in the White River country more than 150 years ago.

The key to the location of the cache was discovered by accident, says Fenninger. "I knew nothing of the buried treasure until I went to Eden's Bluff on a squirrel hunting trip last fall," says Fenninger. "Across the river from the bluff I stumbled over a stone covered with strange hieroglyphics. I scraped the dirt and moss from the inscriptions and called the attention of a native to the find. This native told of an extended search that had been made by the Spanish Government for the buried bullion twenty-two years ago. Searching parties, he said, had been covering the country every year since the Spaniards left."

The treasure, Fenninger says, was buried by a party of settlers to keep it from falling into the hands of Indians. The settlers later were murdered by the aborigines.

"A party of native Arkansians is supposed to have discovered the tunnel to the cache ten years ago," Fenninger says. "They abandoned an effort to reopen the shaft, after one member of the party was killed by a slide."

Several prominent Denver men have signified their intentions to accompany Fenninger on his search next spring.

LAWYER JURORS TAKE 5 MINUTES On Verdict.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12.—A jury, made up of twelve local attorneys, decided a will contest here.

When the case involving a contest over the will of the late George W. Digo was taken up Common Pleas Judge Daniel Sowers found the regular jury-men had left the courthouse.

The judge ordered his bailiff to impress into service any dozen men he found inside the courthouse. The bailiff found twelve lawyers in the corridors.

Although the law exempts them from jury service, they waived their rights and were sworn in.

Deputy Probate Judge Frank E. Howell was the only witness. He identified the will.

The jury then retired. Nearly an hour had expired when the jurors informed the court of their inability to reach a verdict and asked for permission to go to dinner.

When informed they must forego eating until they returned a verdict the dozen attorneys consumed just five minutes in agreeing that the will is valid.

Judge Sowers then instructed his bailiff to pass the cigars.
