Boilermakers Trough Northwestern Easily and Pagemen Nose Out Notre Dame.

Purdue last night did just what was expected of it and Northwestern dropped its fourth Conference game while the Boilermakers were winning what many Purdue followers hope is only the first of a long string of victories in the Big Ten. The game ended, 31 to 14. Lauder's squad ran true to form with white playing his usual brilliant game and Gullion, the lanky sophomore center, counting four from the field. The fast four guard threw nine out of ten fouls and found the net for four field goals. Masters cut in with three two-pointers.

The Lafayette team got the lead at the start and was never headed, the initial period ending with the count, 17 to 8. The Purple fought hard, but could not get very far. Sanders was their outstanding star. The Indiana college athletes and coaches who were at Lafayette at a meeting were guests at the game.

Going into the second half, Butler did not find the going any too easy against Notre Dame and was forced to fight hard in the last half. The Irish outplayed the Purple in the last half. The final score was 23 to 23. With Butler holding a twelve-point lead the South Bend squad got together and counted four times from the field. The last few minutes was a desperate fight by Butler to hold the lead. Each team made eleven field goals throughout the contest. Captain Hooker's foul goals won the title for the Purple. The game was the best performance of any Irvington player.

Michigan and Illinois clashed in a Conference battle and the Suckers came out on top in their second victory in the Big Ten. The contest was close throughout and the final verdict was 29 to 17. It is Michigan's third defeat, all of which have been by very close scores. The Wolverine held the Illinois scoring machine better than any team has done this season, but could not find the basket themselves.

O'Hara, who is at present a candidate for the United States Senate, proposes to organize sport followers of the United States into one great club regardless of their sport.

Fans have never before been permitted a voice in the world of sport, O'Hara said, and he proposes that they start something for themselves. He has received assurances of support in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and New York, and has come East to spread the idea.

Eastern State Normal
Launches Basket Drive

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 17.—Coach Williams' basket tossers of the eastern division, State Normal, have just launched their winning strike, and he expects them to annex the long end of the score during the major portion of the remaining games. Starting with the win over Dayton University last Friday, with a score of 25 to 14, the team seems possible. For six weeks the basket schedule has two games a week on for the Red and the White players and some of the combinations will make hard games for the local Normal team. The game with the Terre Haute Normal will be of particular interest because Coach Burch of the latter team and Williams of the Muncie outfit were for some time teammates.

West Side Star

PAT WELSH.

Pat Welsh has challenged Mexican Joe Rivers, who is regarded as one of the best middleweight boxers in the State. Welsh and Rivers will be matched to box Jan. 23. Ed. Fluday, an Indianapolis boxing promoter, has arranged for Welsh to appear in bouts at Peoria, Terre Haute and Cincinnati next month. Welsh is the Auburn-haired battler from the west side and he weighs in at 155 pounds. He started in the boxing game as an amateur. However, since he entered the ranks of the professionals Welsh has not lost a decision. Jack Mitchell of Louisville stayed ten rounds with Welsh in their bout at Crawfordsville, but he is one of the few opponents that Welsh has failed to stop with a sleep punch. Welsh hurt his hand more than a month ago when he defeated Jack Phillips at Peoria, but his injured hand is now in shape and Welsh wants to meet Rivers.

Zupke Plans Football
Contests East and West

URBANA, Ill., Jan. 17.—Transcontinental football games, during the regular playing season, is the plan of Robert Zupke, University of Illinois coach. "Within the next few years," he said, "I hope to take my team from coast to coast during the regular season for games with representative teams in each section."

California already has been listed for a series starting in 1923, and an Eastern team may be booked for the same season.

"Provincialism and commercialism are the greatest dangers," Zupke asserted. "Transcontinental games will break down the antagonistic sectional barriers, and will develop a better understanding of the other sections, which will assure increased popularity, not only among colleges, but with the general public."

Zupke also believes that brains not brawn, make the player.

"In these days of open plays and trick formations, victories are won by outmaneuvering the other team, and this requires intelligent, alert men. Brains will win every time."

American Tennis
Association Stays
Clear of Alliance

U. S. Governing Body Declines
Invitation to Join International Federation.

By HENRY FARRELL.
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Ententes and national alliances may be the vogue of the day but American sport is showing a tendency to steer clear of any international combinations.

Especially is this true in the case of tennis, the only universal international sport.

For years, England has been bringing pressure on the United States Lawn Tennis Association to affiliate with the international federation, but the governing body of the game in this country declined and it is unlikely that the policy will be changed this year.

America had nothing particularly to lose by association with the international federation, and likewise she had nothing particularly to gain.

The one obstacle, however, was the demand of England that America subscribe to the plan of giving international championships to club players, a plan which the United States officials maintained that the only fair way would be to alternate the championships between the countries affiliated with the federation.

Obviously it is true that the American game could not be made to fit under any arrangements whereby the American players would have to make the trip every year to England. Not only would the expenses of transportation keep the American entries at a minimum, but the change in climate and conditions would be a great handicap.

American opposition to this plan was voiced again at the recent meeting of the British Lawn Tennis Association and again the British would not agree to imbedding in the United States.

It was pointed out that England could hardly force the right to stage the championships every year because the British association had entered into an agreement with the All-England club to play the championships for twenty-five years. On the strength of this agreement $50,000 was expended to build and equip the new stands at Wimbledon.

It seems that the championships will be continued to be held at Wimbledon and that Europe will continue to regard the Wimbledon championships as the only American refusing to recognize a world's title.

In this regard, the position of the United States Association has been consistent. Twice William W. Goetz, American star, has won the singles championship at Wimbledon and in Europe he can wear officially the title of world champion, but in America, the governing body of the game refuses to recognize him as the world's champion.

Another act of interest taken at the recent meeting of the British association was the approval of a rule giving the referee the power to "qualify" any player who "stalls for time" after being warned once.

With this penalty over them, players "stall for time" cannot stop to wipe their glasses, dry their hands or satisfy a sudden thirst during the play.

Some of the Zip Will Be Missing From Balls

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The war has been blamed for almost everything, but this is the latest charge against the baseball ball. The lively ball in the major leagues last season, however, was exactly what Ban Johnson, American League president, desired in dealing with the war. The lively ball in the major leagues last season, however, was exactly what Ban Johnson, American League president, desired in dealing with the war.

The New Yorks featured the Star loop Monday by defeating the leading Pirates three straight. It took some time to get the ball, but what was needed the New Yorks had. Their scores of 88, 83 and 97 were worthy of victory.

Pressmen No. 2 and Mailers were other winners. They took two out of three from the Pressmen No. 1 and Stereotypers, respectively.

The best individual counts were posted by Rubin and Benjamin of the News-Herald. It took some time to get the ball, but what was needed the New Yorks had. Their scores of 88, 83 and 97 were worthy of victory.

In the Broadway League the Wildcats and the Bears won the odd game from the Tigers and Wolves.

Indiana Colleges
Plan New Athletic
State Association

Recommendations Passed and Constitution to Be Drawn for Next Meeting.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 17.—At a meeting here yesterday of the athletic directors, coaches and other representatives of thirteen Indiana colleges recommendations were passed for an alliance of all State colleges into an athletic organization. Coach Page of Butler offered the scheme, which met with approval from the other representatives. Coach Rockne of Notre Dame moved that a committee be appointed to draft a constitution and bylaws for the organization. Coach Selp of Franklin seconded the motion. A copy of the rules and regulations drawn up will be sent to all members so that all will have an understanding of the proposed new governing body at the next meeting at De Pauw in March.

The recommendations that were passed are as follows:

1. That every college and university of Indiana that participates in any kind of intercollegiate athletics may become eligible for membership in this organization.

2. That the purposes of this organization is not to replace in any way any other collegiate organization, such as the Big Ten or the I. C. A. U., or the rules governing members of such other organizations, but to supplement those and to provide a common standard for intercollegiate athletic relations in Indiana; that rules governing eligibility of athletes, participating in intercollegiate athletics, migrant students, scholarship questions, and all other standards, which pertain to the betterment of athletics shall be made and adopted by all members of the conference.

3. That the annual meeting be held in May, at the time of the State track meet, and the annual meeting in January, following the Big Ten and I. C. A. U. meetings.

4. That the making of schedules and listing of officials be regular as a part of the work of the semi-annual sessions of the conference.

Among other things, the State college track meet was awarded to De Pauw on May 27 after Coach Walker had invited the schools to Greencastle. De Pauw was also awarded the State cross-country run on Nov. 17. At the end of the meeting the coaches got together and arranged many games to be played during the winter and track meet dates were agreed upon.

Following the meeting a banquet was given the representatives by the Purdue Athletic Association and the Purdue Northwestern basketball game was attended.
