

TWINAME HOLDS LEAD FOR PLACE WITH SCHOOLS

Will Be Named Business Director to Succeed Douglass, Claim.

BOARD MEETS TONIGHT

It is now considered a practical certainty that Walter J. Twiname, examiner for the State board of accounts, will be elected business director to succeed Ralph W. Douglass at the special meeting of the board of school commissioners tonight.

W. D. Allison, member of the board, at whose request the meeting has been called, admitted last night that the matter would be discussed at the meeting tonight and said that Mr. Twiname was under consideration. Commissioner Allison, who is believed to be a strong supporter of Twiname, insisted at a special meeting of the board Monday that another special meeting be held tonight for the ostensible purpose of considering the installation of additional walks at Arsenal Technical High School. Other members of the board were in favor of a short meeting tonight, but Mr. Allison insisted that the real reason for the meeting is not any great amount of mental agony on the part of board members but the youngsters of Tech get buried in the mud while walking from the shops to the main building, and to provide a successor to Mr. Douglass.

LOWRY HOPES IN ECLIPSE

Until recently it was believed that James H. Lowry, former superintendent of parks, was in line for the job, but his hopes are now in eclipse before the superior claims of Mr. Twiname.

It was Mr. Twiname who, as examiner for the State board of accounts, caused so much trouble for the old school board last year and afforded the present board so much campaign material. There are many who say that rewarding him with one of the best jobs at the disposal of the board is only a delicate tribute to the yeoman service he rendered the new members in their time of need.

Mr. Allison's interest in the Twiname family is said to date back to 1920, when he was barely failed to put over John J. Twiname, father of Walter J., as superintendent of buildings and grounds. The story, as told by friends of the old board, which went out the first of this year, is that Mr. Allison lined up Commissioner Bert S. Gadd for Mr. Twiname by telling him Commissioner Clarence E. Crippin wanted him. Then he told Mr. Crippin that Mr. Gadd wanted Mr. Twiname in the place. By these means he lined up a majority vote for Mr. Twiname and everything was lovely when, by accident, so the story goes, Crippin and Gadd got together, compared notes, and, blooey, went the Twiname beans all over the place. After a public row at a board meeting O. W. Euton was elected over Mr. Twiname.

TWINAME REPORTS BASIS OF SUIT

It is said that from this minute dated the big battle between the county and the State board of accounts, which has found fault with about everything the school board did all through 1921. One of the results of this hostility was the filing of a suit today by U. S. Lech, attorney general of Indiana, against Snider & Rote, engineers for the school board, to recover more than $41,000 claimed to have been paid to the firm illegally by the board. The basis of this suit is reports made by Walter J. Twiname.

It also has come to light that John Heikman, generally regarded as an especial protégé of Mr. Allison, and who was bodily fired from his job as janitor at Arsenal Technical High School by C. W. Euton several weeks ago, was restored to duty yesterday.

It was this fight between Euton and Heikman which occurred before the firing of Mr. Allison, who even refused at the board meeting last week, to permit Euton to stay the additional four days asked in his resignation, but demanded that he be removed immediately.

ROBERT E. LEE ENDS CAREER

Well-Known G. O. P. Leader Suicides.

Special to The Times. Terre Haute, Jan. 18.—Fear that he was slowly losing his mind and might harm his family today was ascribed as the reason for the suicide last night of Robert E. Lee, known throughout the State as a Republican party leader and real estate dealer. Lee ended his life at his home by shooting himself through the temple. Lee's wife and two children were in an adjoining room when the shot was fired. He suffered a severe breakdown some time ago and was returned from a sanitarium. He had been slated for the Terre Haute post-office ship.

JAP YOKE FOR CHINA, RUSSIA REAL DANGER

powers imagined the United States would let the Far Eastern branch of the Harding-Hughes agenda "slide" because success was achieved on national limitation they reckoned without their host. Secretary Hughes envisages the original conference agenda as a California big tree. He is going to saw it through. It may not be easy sawing. Knots will be encountered. But he has buckled to the job.

Clearly, to understand and follow impending developments, two major facts and dates need to be borne in mind. On May 15, 1915, a week after Japan imposed the twenty-one demands upon China concerning Manchuria and Mongolia, the United States filed a vigorous formal protest against them. They were assailed as a violation of American treaty rights, of the integrity of China, and of the open door principle.

ON 21 POINTS.

America stands in relation to the twenty-one demands where she stood in 1915. It is evident Secretary Hughes purposes to attack the demands from the flank rather than frontally. That is the plain influence of his proposal.

In relation to the inalienability of Russian territory, America's stand is what it has been since the Russian revolution. Administration and has been during the Harding-Hughes regime. It now is plain that if anything is to be done at Washington to loosen Japan's grip on the mainland of Asia, America will have to go to bat. Japan, for obvious reasons, will do only what extreme exigencies require her to do. Great Britain, to date, professes complete detachment from either the Manchurian-Mongolian or Siberian question. China can only lean on the United States. Russia is helpless and powerless. France may see an opportunity to rehabilitate her diplomatic fortunes in Washington by siding with the American policy.

As your correspondent has indicated in previous dispatches the Administration, American delegation and Congress have been urged from many quarters of the public to see justice done to China and Russia before the conference adjourns. Rightly or wrongly, an impression is widespread in the country that Japanese diplomacy has scored a disproportionate share of victories here. Many Americans see Japan's grip on Asia relaxed only "in principle." They want it really loosened.

JAP AGGRESSION NOT REMOVED.

There is no violation of confidence in saying the basic American idea is that Japan is encouraged to continue her forward policy in Asia because she feels it is countenanced by Great Britain. There is no evidence the British are any less inclined to sanction Japanese activities.

D. H. Helmer, Brooklyn, N. Y., injured in automobile accident.

The Mars Hill street car overturned while attempting to round a curve. Shell Loudon, 45, 517 Woodlawn avenue, a trolleyman, told the police that he attempted to set the brakes on the curve and because of ice on the tracks they refused to work. He said he then threw the car into reverse and it turned over. The car was almost completely demolished, both trucks being torn off and the interior wrecked.

The passengers were taken into the home of Charles Schaffner and attended by a physician. All were able to go to their homes.

Miss Grant was injured when an automobile driven by her father crashed into one of the supports of the elevated tracks at the Belt Railroad and East Washington street. Miss Grant was thrown through the windshield and suffered severe injuries.

Dr. Esplenlaub and Mr. Helmer were injured slightly when a city ambulance and a taxicab of the Frank Bird Transfer Company collided at Massachusetts avenue and Delaware street. The ambulance was driven by Herbert Okey, a city ambulance driver, and the taxi by Byron Deer, 2131 South Meridian street.

Leo Stanley, 60 South Denny street, drove into a team of horses owned by Earl Frye, 1401 Garfield avenue, at Sherman drive and East New York street. Frye had left his wagon and horses standing on the corner while he went after a lantern to put on the wagon. Both the wagon and the automobile were damaged, but no one was injured.

CHICAGO WETS ASK REFERENDUM ON WINES, BEER

Ohio Also Active in Nation-Wide Campaign for Volstead Act Repeal.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—State referendum on light wines and beers was planned today by Chicago wet leaders. Hundreds, working under the command of Alderman Anton J. Cermak, started an invasion of Illinois with referendum petitions. It is necessary to have 210,000 signatures. These are the questions which will be voted on.

1. Shall the Legislature amend the State prohibition law to permit manufacture, sale and transportation of light wines and beers.

2. Shall Congress amend the Federal laws to permit the manufacture, sale and transportation of light wines and beers?

Cermak said campaigns for the modification of the laws would be started in other States.

"Let us find out what the people want," he said.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 18.—Beer and wines will be the paramount issues of the next Congressional elections in November.

Mr. Fred W. Marcella, assistant to William H. Clayton, Baltimore director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Inc., made this prediction today, in telling of the Nation-wide campaign planned to force repeal of the Volstead act.

"The association, with a membership already greater than the total number of prohibition votes ever cast in a national election, is prepared to fight every congressional candidate in America who opposes 2½ per cent beer and light wines," said Marcella who is in charge of activities in Ohio.

"We need only fifty more members in the House to assure repeal of the Volstead act," he declared.

"The first fight will be in Ohio—home of the drys."

With victory in Ohio—dryest State in the Union—Congress will be forced to heed the warning and pass favorable on our demands," he said.

As soon as 220,000 signatures are secured to a petition now circulating the association will ask referendum in Ohio on the liquor laws.

INFLUENCE OF HOME STRESSED

Rotarian Speaker Warns Against Diverting Impulses.

That the home is one of the most essential factors in the building of a man was the burden of a talk made by Byron W. King of Pittsburgh, Pa., orator and instructor in public speaking, in a talk to the Rotarians at their weekly luncheon at the Claypool yesterday.

He said that the home should be so attractive that nothing could coax the boy in the family away to the street corner to loaf. Only the home can surround youth with the proper influences, he added, and home in the real sense means a lot more than a suite of parlor, bedroom and bath.

"I have never seen any one who with nerve enough to weave a motor 'God bless our boarding house,'" he said.

"Work is another grand thing. Don't take too seriously the friend who says you on the shoulder and tells you that you have worked hard enough and now is the time to retire and take life easy. If you wish to get into an asylum or come quickly, by all means retire from work."

The next meeting of the Rotarians will be addressed by John W. Sibley of Birmingham, Ala., for twenty-five years treasurer of the National Association of Brick Manufacturers, and Frank Mulholland of Toledo, Ohio, past international president of the Rotary Clubs.

LUMBERMEN ASK CHANGE IN RATES

Represent Shipping Charges Favor Southern Territory.

A delegation of the State Lumber Association called on the public service commission yesterday and asked that the commission take action to urge the Interstate Commerce Commission to remove the discriminatory log rates which are charged in the northern part of the United States.

According to members of the delegation the rates from the southern portion of the United States are much lower than those charged in Indiana and other northern States.

Members of the committee, according to the commission, will in the near future present a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission asking that the rates be lowered.

The Indiana commission assured the lumbermen that they would investigate the situation and ascertain the difference in the charges between these two sections of the country.

Members of the delegation Southern lumber companies can ship lumber into Indiana cheaper than it can be bought in Ohio and adjoining States. Among the members who met with the commission were: G. H. Barnaby of Greencastle; Ernest H. Atkins of Columbus; William S. Partington of Evansville and R. J. Grant of Columbia City.
