

CHILDREN SEE MOVIES WITH KIWANIS CLUB

Orphans Are Entertained at Loew's State Through Courtesy of Management.

About 1,500 children from the various orphans' homes of Indianapolis and from the poor families of the city were the guests of the Indianapolis Kiwanis Club and Herbert Jennings, newly appointed manager of Loew's State Theater, at a special performance given at the theater today and from the manner in which they received the two comedies presented on the screen, they were more than pleased with their entertainment.

The event was one of the regular Kiwanis Kiddies Parties and Mr. Jennings, who was recently elected a member of the Indianapolis Kiwanis Club, joined with the Kiwanians in making the event a success. They were also assisted by the Paramount Motion Picture Company, whose officials, which donated two special comedy pictures for the event, the pictures being "Sheriff Neil's Tussie" and "The Kitchen Lady." The Indianapolis Street Railway Company dominated the use of its cars to bring the children from the orphans' home to the theater and return, the Indianapolis police department distributed tickets among the members of the Indianapolis and the Boy Scouts, under direction of F. O. Belzer, scout executive, assisted the regular ushering force at Loew's in handling the crowd. All employees of the theater were in their regular places and donated their services to make the event a regular Kiwanis success.

The Indianapolis Colored Orphans' Home, the Indianapolis Orphans' Home, the Lutheran Orphanage, the Day Nursery, the Board of Children's Guardians Home and the General Protestant Orphans' Home were the special guests and occupied space immediately in front of the stage and the children to whom the police had distributed tickets were given the remainder of the audience. The children first had their picture taken in front of the theater and were then conducted to their seats. For about two hours they laughed at the comedies presented for their approval.

President Walter T. White of the Kiwanis Club was on hand early to assure the members of the orphans' club he would assist by other members of the club's orphan committee, these being Frank Flanner, L. B. Klein, Joe Moeslein, Sam Miller, Homer Wiegand, F. O. Belzer and Paul Donald Brown. Other members of the Kiwanis Club also were present as they "just had to leave business less time" to see that the kiddies had a good time" as one of the Kiwanians expressed it.

President White stated that the Kiwanis Club always took an active part in helping make the lives of the orphans of the city as pleasant as possible and to aid the other less fortunate in enjoying some pleasure. He said the event donated giving many such parties for the children and to take special care of the Boy Scouts, whom he terms "wards of Kiwanis."

CITIZENS FROM CARMEL PROTEST REFORMATORY

If those who made up the delegation knew of the reformatory it they would ask for it.

"The reformatory is not a prison. It is an educational institution," he said. "It will be one of the most beautiful of communities."

Mr. Dailey spoke of his trip to the east where he with others inspected reformatories. He pointed out that in most of the institutions are towns or adjoining towns and that the towns are proud of them.

"You have the wrong idea if you think the reformatory will damage your property," he said. "It will increase the value of your property."

Following the charging Governor McCray said he did not believe a site would be decided by Monday.

It is understood the Carmel delegation will be at the statehouse at the invitation of the commission, which had informed them some time ago that if the selection ever narrowed down to Carmel they would be heard before a decision is made. It is understood also that the Monon railroad has offered to haul coal to Carmel at the same rate it is brought to Indianapolis as an inducement to having the institution on its right of way.

MARRY TO GIVE CHILD A NAME

Indictments Follow Leaving of Baby in Home.

A sequel to the mysterious abandonment of a baby a few weeks ago at the home of Charles and Mabel Burgess, avenue, came today when Dr. Bradburn and the mother, Jessie Bradburn of Wisconsin were married in order to give the youngster a name.

When it was shown to Judge James A. Collins of Criminal Court where the pair were arraigned on charges of child neglect, the mother, who had been held in an orphanage by the Juvenile Court, he insisted that they should be married.

The marriage ceremony was pronounced by Justice of the Peace L. J. Kiefer and immediately afterward Deputy Prosecutor Sidney Miller announced that he would dismiss the charge against the couple.

The pair told the court officials that they would not live together.

The abandoning of the baby caused a police search for the mother which ended when she was located in a little Wisconsin town. Breathauer at first denied knowledge of the affair, but was indicted by the Marion County grand jury along with the mother.

Call for Lewis and Howat to Engage in Six-Round Bout

Just before the miners' convention adjourned at noon, Vice President Murray announced that a boxing bout would be staged in Tomlinson Hall for the entertainment of the delegates. He planned the bout in several six-round bouts, but before he had finished there went up a mighty chorus from all parts of the hall. "Match Lewis and Howat for a six-round scrap," and others shouted. "We won't come unless Lewis and Howat are in tight and ready to go to it." Then another crowd took up the shouting. "Get them in the ring for a six-round fight."

DORSEY DENIES KILLING PIKE COUNTY FARMER

Accused Man Is Rushed to Daviess County Jail for Safety.

Special to The Times.
WASHINGTON, Ind., Feb. 18.—Otho Dorsey, Pike County murder suspect, was rushed to the Daviess County jail here late last night for safe keeping.

John W. Thornton, county marshal, accompanied by the Petersburg town marshal, left there quietly last night and it was not known until late this morning Dorsey had been spirited away.

Dorsey denied any knowledge of the murder of Lute Benement and Turner Willis, saying, "let the authorities prove all they claim."

At the request of Sheriff Bryan, Hugh G. Faith, sheriff of Daviess County, submitted Dorsey to severe questioning today. He was to be questioned again this afternoon.

The accused man is confronted with the fact that his wife had surrendered the clothing Dorsey is said to have worn at the time of the murder. Officers claim there are bloodstains on the coat.

Benement and Willis were killed with a sledge hammer as they stood over a cross-cut saw, falling a tree in the Willis woods near Petersburg last Monday.

COMMISSION WILL ASK FOR WIDER BRIDGE

City Plan Body to Exercise Its Right in Delaware Street Improvement.

A step was taken toward the first exercise of its right to pass upon all plans for public buildings and bridges by the city plan commission, which yesterday was decided that John L. Elliott, city civil engineer and ex-officio member of the commission, should confer with the board of park commissioners and county commissioners relative to the width of the proposed Delaware street bridge over Fall Creek.

Indiana county commissioners, in previous discussions, have expressed inclination to build a bridge with forty-foot roadway and six-foot sidewalks. Members of the plan commission, who believe that main thoroughfares, in general, should be 100 feet wide do not believe forty-feet is sufficient width for a crossing of the creek on so important a highway.

President Edward T. Rahn of the commission recalled the section of the city plan law requiring the commission's approval of all public structures before they can be erected in Indianapolis, which had been almost lost sight of since the commission was established.

President Rahn was re-elected for a second term as Vice President Emerson W. Challe and Executive Secretary Lawrence V. Sheridan.

The commission sent its report to Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank. The report shows that preliminaries have been cleared up and that the first step in the problem of zoning has been begun of the $60,000 appropriated for the commission's use in 1921 only $2,870.57 was spent. The commission expects to present a zoning ordinance to the city council this year.

WISH PUBLIC TO ASK HIKE IN CARFARE

Upon one, by the railroad labor unions not members of the C. L. U. and one representative each of the twenty-two civic societies to meet next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to dig into the Hike's problem and see what can be done.

The meeting, convened at 11 a.m., referred a proposal, offered in the conference by representatives of the Southeastern Civic Improvement Club, that the city guarantee a bond issue of not more than $3,000,000 by the company with which to make the needed improvements, such as to be made, expended and retired under supervision of an advisory committee.

The club will be welcomed by Miss Elsie Green, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The first session will be given over to the business of the convention, when reports from the president, secretary and treasurer will be heard.

"Club Mechanics" will be discussed by Miss Ethelwyn Miller of Franklin, who will talk on program work.

The meeting was marked by a slight clash between Dr. Jameson and A. W. Lyday, one of the delegates from the Central Labor Union to the conference. Labor unions, civic and business clubs were invited to send one representative each to the meeting.

Miss Nina L. Cox, State president of the federation, will preside at the session.

The program committee is composed of the following members: Miss Alice Anderson, chairman; Miss Mary Forhs McDonald, Miss Lena M. Meacham, Miss Mabel L. Larson, Miss Isadore Kessler and Miss Dora C. Merleth.

The banquet committee has Miss Sue Stewart as chairman, with Miss Florence Coffin, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Mary Feller, Miss Nellie Hays, Miss Maude Canfield and Stellie Colman as the other members of the committee.

suggestion was made. Summer Clancy, secretary of the Northeastern Civic Improvement Association, pointed out the fact that the great bulk of the people are neither so-called capitalists or laborers, and it would be manifestly unfair to leave them out of the committee. Mr. Gekner agreed to attend his suggestion to the Indiana Civic Organization.

Mr. Clancy said that as a representative of his body he was prepared to state that if upon proper inquiry it is shown that the company needs an increased fare and that such increase will be for a specified time only, that transfers shall be free and that the increased revenues will be used for betterment of services such as to be arranged in exchange for a reasonable time his organization would not be opposed to a higher fare. Several other representatives of civic organizations agreed with him.

Then representatives of railroad labor unions pointed out that they would be glad if it could at a good price, to sell a part of their railroad property and the property that the Shirley street barns already belong to the city; that the gravel pit in White River cannot be part of it because it gives money, and that the Louisville street barns are the most important in the system.

Dr. Jameson took the floor from Mr. Todd and said he personally opposed the Shirley street barns as a beauty spot. But he always has felt that it should be preserved as a beauty spot.

Mr. Shanks suggested that he give it to the city. Dr. Jameson replied that the interests of the stockholders prevented that.

Mr. Todd continued, explaining that the city should be able to sell the property just north of the Terminal building, which is fifty-five feet on a line of directors of the company, but has not been able to find a buyer with the right price.

The pair told the court officials that they would not live together.

The abandoning of the baby caused a police search for the mother which ended when she was located in a little Wisconsin town. Breathauer at first denied knowledge of the affair, but was indicted by the Marion County grand jury along with the mother.

Women's Clubs Give Real Opportunities in World

MISS NINA L. COX.

State President Business and Professional Women's Club.

By JULIA C. HENDERSON.

Perhaps no organizations of women are as near to the front and receiving the recognition they deserve as are the clubs of business and professional women.

Coming from a business life full of activity and a demand for efficiency, they enter club life that they may have intimate contact with representative women engaged in the different occupations and discuss the things which shall enable them to meet the demands of business problems and responsibilities of business life, at the same time realizing the value of coming together in a social way, which means much to an active business woman.

The friendships formed in these gatherings are enduring and will stand the test of time. Club life is a point which is being emphasized by this group, fellowship taking its place along side with service.

The coming convention of the Indiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be held at the Hotel Indiana March 15 at the Hotel Indiana.
