

DAVIS TO CALL CONFERENCE IN MINE TROUBLE

Secretary of Labor Will Direct Attention to 1920 Stipulation. PROVIDES FOR SESSION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The Government's first move to prevent a nationwide coal strike on April 1—the calling of a conference between coal operators and miners—will be taken within a day or two, it was learned officially at the Department of Labor today.

Secretary of Labor Davis will call to the attention of the two groups in the present controversy that the bituminous wage award of 1920 stipulated that an interstate joint conference be held prior to April 1, 1922, to discuss any differences that may exist between employers and the workers.

Inasmuch as there is no super-organization existing among the operators, it is probable that Secretary Davis will informally call the attention of individual operators to the existing pact between them.

Officials were confident that there would be little difficulty in bringing about the conference between the operators and miners.

Special to Indiana Daily Times and Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Announcement has come from the White House that President Harding will call a conference of coal operators and miners to a conference prior to the expiration of the present wage agreement.

The Administration's decision to intervene in the impending controversy in the coal industry was based upon Mr. Harding's belief that the parties to the existing contract should abide by the clause pledging them to the conference. It represents the first move on the part of the Government to avert a strike in the unionized coal fields as a result of the failure of the miners and operators to get together.

The present wage agreement covering the mine operations in the central competitive field, involving Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, expires on March 31. Under the terms of the contract, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has twice invited the operators to send representatives to a meeting of the joint scale committee.

The last invitation was sent out less than a week ago, but again met with refusal on the part of the representatives of the operators in the Ohio and western Pennsylvania fields. The representatives in the other fields accepted the invitations conditionally.

ATTENTION DIRECTED TO INDIANAPOLIS CONFERENCE.

Since the convention of the United Mine Workers in Indianapolis it has become increasingly apparent to the Administration that some action on the part of the Government would be necessary to avert a strike in the coal industry. From representatives of the Department of Labor, the reports were that neither side were disposed to get together on their own volition.

The decision of Judge Anderson in Indianapolis bearing upon the use of the "check-off" system in the central competitive field and the contract generally is not regarded by the Administration as invalidating the obligation of the parties concerned to confer in an effort to arrive at some agreement.

President Harding has received from the Department of Justice an opinion bearing upon the effect of this decision on any action the Government might take toward bringing the operators and miners together. He is convinced it offers no objection to the course the Government now proposes to pursue.

The time of the meeting has not been set, but it is presumed that it will be called before the end of March in ample time to give the miners and operators an opportunity to get together. The meeting possibly will take place in Washington.

DAVIS AGENT OF GOVERNMENT.

President Harding has made Mr. Davis the Government's agent in dealing with the coal controversy, but possibly will not be Secretary of Commerce Hoover in the event to avoid friction. The refusal of the Administration to that there would be no strike.

For several months the situation has been followed by the Department of Commerce, whose advice on industrial questions is known to be held paramount by the President. The Secretary of Commerce not long ago predicted a break in the coal industry.

In the meantime there has been gathered by the Department of Labor and the Department of Commerce adequate information with which to deal with the controversy. The position of the Administration's officials has been that a strike would injure the public interest and make imperative interference on that account.

Hope that the miners and operators would get together without the efforts of a third agency have been lost with the miners' decision at the Indianapolis convention and the operator's unwillingness to meet them. The refusal of the operators to meet with the miners followed by the call of the miners' leaders for a referendum on a strike is understood to have brought about the Administration's decision. ANTHRACITE OWNERS TO MEET MINERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 25.—The deliberations of the policy committee of the anthracite coal operators ended today with the announcement that a committee representing the operators would meet a committee representing the miners in New York March 15.

WISHES NO MONEY FROM FIREMEN

Original South Side Club Explains Its Stand.

The Original South Side Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Charles Werbe, 1415 South Meridian street, yesterday passed a resolution to the effect that the Original South Side Woman's Club wishes the city firemen to know that at no time has this original club solicited funds from firemen for the organization's relief fund.

The Original South Side Woman's Club, formerly known as the South Side Woman's Club, did have an active part to play in the group of women who helped to put over the two-platoon system for the firemen of Indiana. It is announced.

A resolution was passed and a committee was appointed to visit the mayor and the board of safety, asking that Miss Laurel Thayer be retained as probation officer.

Another resolution of the board of safety was that the matrons at the Kentucky avenue comfort station be placed on the same salary as the custodians of the station.

STATE TESTS CREDIBILITY OF WITNESS

"J. H. Hartman and wife on the hold, also the man who signed his name as 'J. Herbert Hartman' on a motion asking for a change of venue in this case were one and the same person. He also identified various persons as 'J. Francis' and 'Frank Howard' as written by the same person.

Prosecutor William P. Evans has literally flooded the courtroom with testimony after witness has taken the stand to relate losses following a visit of Francis to his home. Some testified they received their stolen property at the home of Hartman and others received their property from the Indianapolis and Louisville police.

Dr. Edward H. Katterhenry testified when he returned Feb. 1, 1921 from a trip to Florida, he discovered his home had been robbed of household goods valued at about $200. Francis admitted robbing the Katterhenry home during the doctor's absence. The doctor said he had treated Frank Moore and later Moore told him prior to his trip to Florida and had told both he was going to Florida.

PHYSICIAN GIVES LIST OF PLUNDER

He testified that three rugs, an Indian blanket, a bedspread, three sheets, four pillows, towels and several other of the stolen articles were found at the Hartman home. He valued the goods recovered at about $200. Francis admitted robbing the Katterhenry home during the doctor's absence. The doctor said he had treated Frank Moore and later Moore told him prior to his trip to Florida and had told both he was going to Florida.

When Francis was on the stand he testified Dr. Katterhenry had purchased a sash for him. Dr. Katterhenry said Francis at one time in his office gave him a bottle of whisky.

Mr. Holmes asked, "The only liquor received from Francis was one bottle?"

"I think so. Memory not sure," the doctor replied.

Riley room of the Claypool Hotel.

An item of foremost interest will be the "Glee of Military Music," a series of tableaux, accompanied by music of the periods pictured, depicting the origin and development of military music from the time of the Pharaohs of Egypt to George M. Cohan's "Over There" of 1918. The first group of tableaux will represent the warriors of Egypt, Rome and the Crusades. The second will show the soldiers of the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and the third will picture "The Spirit of '76," "The Blue and the Gray" and "Over There." The tableaux were designed and the music arranged by Capt. W. J. O'Callaghan, head of the music department of Culver, who was for twenty-two years leader of the famous Sixth Cavalry Band.

Grissold, Detective Herbert Fletcher testified of the two coats being recovered at the store, where they had been placed in storage.

Detective Jess McMurtry and William Mellon, a police officer, testified regarding the recovery of a Rex top Buick touring car which Francis stated he abandoned on Foll Creek boulevard in a vacant lot after Hartman had wrecked the car.

Charles A. Huff, owner of the Huff-Bulch Sales Company, at Eastman, while she was confined to her bed and Mrs. Francis (who was known then to the nurse as Mrs. Frank Moore) gave Hartman a diamond ring.

She testified Hartman asked her if there was whisky in the house and when being informed that there was, told her to "bury it" in the basement. She said she did as instructed. She was not positive whether it was whisky or wine she buried. Mrs. Corbett testified of Francis having eluded Detective William Ruggens by escaping from the rear of the house while the detective was waiting for Francis. She also corroborated the testimony of Francis Hartman, supervisor of the household goods to the residence of Hartman. She also testified Hartman, on one of his visits, told her to "pull down the blinds" and the police were watching the house.

Mrs. Corbett testified that she arranged to buy a quilt for $10 from Mrs. Moore. She said she paid Mrs. Moore the $10 for the quilt on the Saturday morning that Hartman supervised the moving of the household goods of Francis to the Hartman home. Mrs. Corbett testified she gave the quilt to a detective after the exposure against Francis and Hartman was made public in the papers.

Mrs. Corbett testified that she saw the goods were being moved from Francis' flat, said Moore owed him some money and that he (Hartman) was going to keep enough furniture to cover the loan on the mortgage balance in the basement of the Hartman home.

The State has introduced evidence tending to substantiate the testimony of Francis Hartman and the police in the Ninth precinct of the Fifteenth ward on primary day and voted side by side with J. Herbert Hartman under the name of F. Francis of 306 North Mount street, the daughter of Robert F. Brown, a former member of Hancock County, was a member of the Methodist Church.

Wayne G. Newton, 200 North Bellevue place, a city freeman, who was clerk at the polls on primary day at 296 North Adams street, in the Ninth Precinct, testified that he saw Francis Hartman and Francis arrived together at the polls, entered the voting place the same time and Francis, with Hartman nearby, gave him a name as F. Francis, 306 North Mount street.

Records were produced to show Newton, as clerk, had written both names down on the voters list and Hartman's name was just above that of F. Francis. The addresses of Francis and Hartman were the same.

Newton identified a picture of Francis by saying it looked like the man who was with Hartman on primary day.

Alonso Standfield, 200 North Holmes street, inspector for the board of health, who, on primary day, was Republican precinct committeeman, testified to having seen Francis and Hartman together at the polls together in an automobile. He testified that Francis gave him a name to Standfield as Francis.

On cross-examination Mr. Holmes attempted to show Standfield was "booked up" with the Howe or Shank wing of the Republican party at the recent primary. The witness appealed to the court and asked that he be allowed to state the facts and the court sustained the objection.

Mr. Standfield positively identified a picture of Francis as the man who accompanied Hartman to the polls on primary day.

Today is the sixth day of the trial, and in addition, Judge Bain held night sessions Thursday and Friday nights.

Indications are the trial will last all of next week.

FINE DISPLAY OF ART DESIGNS

Exhibit of 275 Specimens Are Shown at C. of C.

An interesting collection of cover designs, comprising 275 specimens selected from many noteworthy designs submitted in the recent Sunburst prize-competition conducted by the Hampton Glazed Paper and Board Company of Holyoke, Mass., is on display at the Chamber of Commerce in charge of W. S. Fowler, representative of the company.

The designs brought forth more than 3,500 entries including interpretations by successful commercial artists from every part of the United States and a number of foreign countries. Among the 275 designs selected are several by Indianapolis artists. The Indianapolis men are Christian T. Housh of the Edward Mason Company, Hal Morris of the Hollenbeck Press, J. S. Rupp of the Bookman-Well Printing Company and Edward Mason of the Edward Mason Company.

The first prize of $1,000 was awarded to Maurice Day of Danvers, Mass. Mr. Day is a resident of the Danvers, Mass. Club of Indianapolis recently, speaking on "Cover Design as Applied to Catalog and Magazine Covers."

BRITAIN HOLDS UP ACTION ON IRISH MEASURE

Awaits Result of Election Before Passage of Free State Bill.

FEARS REPUDIATION LOSSES IN MILLIONS

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The British government plans to delay final passage of the bill finally constituting the Irish free state until after the Irish election, it was learned in Downing street today. The bill already has passed in the House on Feb. 14, and is now in the hands of the Lords.

It was pointed out that if the Republicans win the election, the present bill probably will be useless as the Republicans are opposed to it. With Ramsden, the Valera tack in power in Ireland it would be necessary for the British cabinet to open new negotiations entirely, in the opinion of British officials.

Events in Ireland in the last week make it unlikely that the Irish free state bill on the statute books because of the loss of prestige if it is repudiated by the Irish election.

It is probable, however, Britain will continue to retire troops from Ireland and to turn over Irish administrative affairs to the provisional government at Dublin.

James Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann (Irish parliament) and E. G. Duggan, formerly chief liaison officer of the Irish republican army, conferred at length with Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill, who is chairman of the government committee working out the details of the Irish settlement. Griffith and Duggan were among the signers of the Anglo-Irish peace treaty. All the signers were invited to London to explain the agreement reached by the hostile factions in the Ard Fheis, but only two of them attended.

Churchill said it was important the agreement should have a clear understanding with the Sinn Fein on Irish matters. It is likely Griffith will remain in London until next week, so he can confer with Premier Lloyd George, who is expected to return to London. Irish officials say they were anxious to avoid a hitch with the Irish in view of the progress made in working out a settlement. They declared Griffith is a member of the Ard Fheis and will explain the provisional government to establish itself firmly the British government will not oppose postponement of the Irish election for the time being.

Griffith and Churchill were closed for three hours. They will meet again tomorrow. Neither would issue a statement. Later in the day Griffith conferred with the British ambassador, the evacuation of British troops from Ireland.

Mrs. John H. Masters Dies From Pneumonia

13 DEATHS TOLL OF BIG STORM IN NORTHWEST

Report of Other Casualties Expected When Communication Resumed.

FEARS REPUDIATION LOSSES IN MILLIONS

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—With abatement of the fury of the storm that has raged through five States during the past four days, leaving virtually the entire Northwest buried under snow, reports of damage suffered, and lives lost are slowly filtering into Chicago. These reports picture the death toll at thirteen, and losses that will aggregate millions.

At Minneapolis an investigation into the wreck occurring on the Great Northern Railroad, in which five were killed when a speeding passenger train crashed into a snow pile, is under way.

FOND DU LAC BURIED UNDER SNOW

Fond du Lac, Wis., buried almost completely in the avalanche of snow, is slowly digging itself out. Rail transportation there is at a standstill. Hundreds of passengers marooned by the storm are being cared for in hospitals. Taxis and every other means of transportation are being pressed into service by the travelers in an effort to reach Milwaukee.

SUIT INCLUDES UNBORN HEIRS

Fletcher Trust Company Asks Court to Construe Latham Will.

The Fletcher Savings and Trust Company, as trustee under the will of Charles Latham, deceased, today filed suit in Probate Court against heirs under the Latham will and included among the heirs unborn children of the testator. The suit has to do with the construction of the Latham will to determine whether a trust fund of approximately $80,000 should be distributed to heirs now or be held until a future date.

A paragraph from the complaint said: "Plaintiff further alleges that all the parties in being who have an interest in said trust fund are parties to this action and that the sale of said real estate is advantageous to the parties concerned and that the defendants, Charles Latham, Jr., Henry Latham Bruegg, William Harris Bruegg, Leroy C. Bruegg, Jr., and Charles Bruegg are made parties hereto, not only for the purpose of answering as to their own interests in said trust and the property thereof, but as representatives of the class to which they belong, namely, the issue now or hereafter born to the defendants, Charles Latham, Lydia Latham Bruegg, Florence Latham or Eleanor Smith, who are co-contractors of the class to which the unborn children of the class to which the unborn children might belong."

Snow and Rain Predicted for Princess Mary's Wedding Day.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Snow and rain were today predicted for Princess Mary's wedding day by the British forecaster.

Wedding guests who have procured gorgeous costumes for what promises to be the most colorful pageant of modern times are disappointed by the announcement that the wedding will be held indoors and drizzles will strike London next Monday or Tuesday. The royal wedding will be in Westminster Abbey Tuesday.

A magnificent semi-private display of part of the wedding gifts received by the princess was held yesterday in Buckingham palace. Jewels valued at more than $5,000,000 were on display and there were only a small part of the total gifts which have been received in spacious rooms at the palace was crowded with rare treasures. Diamonds, sapphires, emeralds, rare pearls, silver and gold articles and priceless antiques vied for attention.

36,000 'HINKY' MODEL GLASSES OF BEER FOUND

Federal Dry Agents Seize 18,000 Gallons of Brew at Michigan City.

Enough real beer to float a schooner, 18,000 gallons to be exact, was seized at the plant of the Zorn Products Coal Storage Company, Michigan City, in a raid by Federal prohibition agents yesterday.

The raid, which was made on orders of Bert Morgan, Federal Prohibition Director for Indiana, resulted in the seizure of the beer, the sealing of the brewery, and the arrest of Frederick Zellman, president of the company, and Herman Zerwek, brewmaster and manager. They were placed under bond of $5,000 each to appear in city court at Michigan City for trial on March 5.

Mr. Morgan said the permit of the company expired Jan. 1, and since that time the company had been under suspicion. It is believed the Zorn products of the beer made by the company found its way into the Chicago market.

Those taking part in the raid were G. J. Simons, U. S. Marshal, O. S. Manlove, Edward Berwanger and D. W. Moore.

Mr. Morgan said the admissions of the company would make it possible to levy a tax of as much as $150,000 on the company for manufacturing beer without a permit.

House Warming at Manual Training

The Manual Training High School "house warming" for the new building was celebrated yesterday by three athletic exercises. The first was an assembly of all the girls, addressed by Mr. Ammerman, teacher in the commercial department, about the opening of the building. INFLUENZA IS HERE

From Atlantic to Pacific Coast Reports Show Alarming Increase.

Influenza and influenza-pneumonia are again prevalent and care should be used by all or death toll may run into the millions, say all Health Boards. During the epidemic of 1918-1919 one hospital reported 497 cases and another 385 cases without a death. The only medication used at these hospitals was Balmaca, a western discovery. In thousands of cases Balmaca was used and no fatalities occurred from the influenza or its running mate, pneumonia. Balmaca was used at the beginning of the disease in most cases.

Take it at the first sign of influenza or cold and prevent the deadly pneumonia. Formerly Balmaca was sold only on physicians' prescriptions but now you can buy it at any first class drug store.
