

MINING DROPS
IN IMPORTANCE IN COLORADO

meral and of actual improvement in conditions here. The recovery has come since the first of the year, and particularly since the first of February. Bankers, merchants, ranchers, farmers, all say they are 50 per cent better off now than they were ten weeks ago. But they are not jubilant as the farmers are in Iowa now as confident of the immediate future as the cattle men in Kansas and Texas. They still own their cattle.

Breeding herds are on the ranges and on the ranches, and this means both cattle and sheep, are 25 per cent below normal. The cattle men make it plain that they will need continued funds from the Cattle Loan Company from the War Finance Corporation or from the banks to restore their herds. It may turn out to be all through the cattle country that the man visited on this trip the same story is told of depleted herds on the ranges. The stock raisers had to sell their calves last year to pay their debts. It was a period of forced liquidation that broke into their capital. It depressed them to this day to talk about it.

LAMBS AND LAMB CHOPS.

One sheep raiser said:

"Last year I had to sell a bunch of lambs for 75 cents a piece, when the bank called on me to pay what I owed. I had to sell practically every one I had. Then I started to borrow some more money. I tried my own State and then I went east to see what luck I would have in New York. The first meal I had in New York I paid 90 cents for a lamb chop. This just about knocked me out. I could not pretend to understand a condition that had me selling lambs for 75 cents a piece, while you folks back in the East were paying 90 cents for a chop."

Cattle men have similar tales to tell. It has come to be a stock saying out in this country that during the hard times last year there was no man in the State strong enough to carry on his back enough money to buy a pair of shoes at the then prevailing prices. Since that time prices have gone up a little and shoes have come down a little.

The cattlemen in Colorado, as in other States, are harder hit than the farmers, and it will take them longer to recover. In the same way, it will take hold of a stronger hand last winter than would be two months further advanced in their recovery than they are now. At least, they make this contention and adduce a great wealth of facts and figures to support it. They are all agreed that they needed help, and that they should have had it sooner, and will continue to need it for a year or more—that is, financial help—extended loans.

FINANCE CORPORATION ARRESTS SLUMP.

The downward program was arrested, they all testify, when the War Finance Corporation began sending money into the State. More than $800,000 had been advanced to the farmers and cattle raisers in the State by the corporation, and demands still are coming in. A new Livestock finance corporation was organized in Denver to handle a part of this money. A move is now under way to increase the capitalization of this cattle-loan company and extend its usefulness by relieving the strain on the smaller banks in the State.

The farmers of the State have been helped by the circumstance that they diversified their crops. When they could not make money on corn or wheat or the other grain staples they have been able to keep things going with sugar beets, melons, potatoes, lettuce, fruit and such truck-farm products.

The State has recovered from the great depression it felt six months ago, but it does not count itself over its troubles yet, though there are some who declare that the better off the State is to the West and Southwest. That remains to be seen just now. The single interest of the State is in procuring a continuance of aid in the shape of borrowed money and a maintenance of the present level of prices. There is a great diversity of opinion as to how long it will be before times are again as prosperous as they were in 1920. Some say three years and some longer. In fact, Colorado is a patient on the road to recovery, who does not feel strong enough yet to discharge the doctor or the nurse or cut off the supply of reviving tonic. Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company.

Civic Bodies Offer Remedy for Traffic Congestion.

Widening of Massachusetts avenue northeast of Tenth street from twenty-two feet to one hundred feet in order to take care of traffic between Brightwood and other northeastern points and the commission has been asked to consider the matter. The commission is composed of representatives of three civic organizations, who appeared before the city plan commission Tuesday afternoon. President Edward B. Raub of the commission said the plan is one of the things which the commission has under consideration in its formulation of a general scheme for relief of traffic congestion throughout the city.

A. E. Cotey of the Brookside Civic League, J. H. Paxton of the Spades Park Protection Association and Mrs. Theresa Shelly and John Miller of the Brightwood Civic League, formed the delegation.

After Lawrence V. Sheridan, executive secretary of the commission, had spoken at the monthly dinner of the John Chestnut Club of the Meridian Heights Presbyterian Church, endorsement of a zoning ordinance and granting of power to the commission to enforce it was voted unanimously.
