

BURGLARS PUT IN DULL NIGHT IN QUIET CITY

One Bunco Game and Few Petty Thefts Reported to Police.

Criminal activity, which has been growing with startling speed in Indianapolis in the past few months, fell off to almost nothing last night following reports taken by Mayor Shank and the police department to make a thorough clean-up of the city.

Nothing more serious than petty thefts and the working of an old bunco game on a negro woman was reported to police headquarters and Desk Sergeant Otto Simon said it was the quietest night he had spent on duty in many years. For an hour and twenty minutes, he said, not a light flashed on the telephone switchboard.

Joseph E. Hills, 1435 English avenue, had the experience of having his pockets picked, recovering his purse and losing nothing. The purse, which contained nothing but receipts and papers, was taken from Hills at Virginia avenue and Maryland street. A few hours later a mail carrier found it in a mail box at Noble and Bates street and returned it to its owner.

Frank Brockings, 1401 North West street, was walking across the Vermont street bridge over the canal when a negro grabbed her purse, but fled when she hung on and set up a series of yells that brought the entire neighborhood to the scene.

Sneak thieves obtained tools valued at $12 from an automobile belonging to Alfred Cline, 3112 Broadway, while it was parked on the Circle.

Dr. H. Wheeler, 2236 North Illinois street, reported his medicine case stolen from his car.

Tillie Gurnell, nee R. F. D. F. Box 28, was the victim of the police in the "old pocketbook game." She was standing at Ohio and Pennsylvania street when a well dressed negro asked her to recommend a bank where he could deposit his money. She told him where she kept her own account and at this point, a second negro, who said his name was Johnson, appeared. While he was talking, he stooped, suddenly and picked up a purse containing what appeared to be a large amount of money.

The first man, who gave the name of Clark, then said he would call the police and Johnson agreed to this, provided change could be obtained. It was then suggested Mrs. Gurnell make the change, but in order to show good faith she put up $100 as stake.

She agreed and Clark went with her to the bank, where she drew out $100. The three then walked to Illinois and Vermont street to make the division and all the money was put together. Clark and Johnson then went into an automobile saloon to get a bill changed. Mrs. Gurnell waited outside.

After she had waited fifteen minutes or more she decided she had been deceived and notified police headquarters. No trace of the two negroes was found. Julia Duncan, 1334 1/2 Cornell avenue reported a purse containing $25 and a gold pin had been taken from a shelf at the Hotel Linden coffee shop.

NEEDS $300,000 TO PAY DEBTS

Street Railway Company Must Have Still More.

Revenues of the Indianapolis Street Railway Company must be increased $300,000 to prevent a deficit, but even this will not be sufficient to restore the company's credit, officials of the utility told the mayor's committee investigating the books of the company at a conference Monday afternoon. The traction men would not be led into saying that a high fare must be granted to rehabilitate the company, but in response to a question, Robert I. Todd, president and general manager, said that if a higher fare were granted for a time it might be possible to go back to a fare of less than 5 cents.

Dr. Henry Jameson, chairman of the company's executive committee, said the company wants to regain the confidence of the people and to that end desires that there be clear thinking on the part of all persons considering the utility. It is to clear thinking, he said, that the company submitted to the committee's eleven questions.

The questions were so framed as to bring out the contention of the company that it is not earning a fair return on the value of its used and usable property and that there is no water left in its capitalization.

The committee took the questions under advisement. Harry Boggs, accountant for the public service commission, whose service has been loaned to the committee, started on his survey of the utility's records.

MULE KICKS FUN INTO CIRCUS

Meet T. N. T. but stay away from his feet. His front ones can't be trusted either as all four of 'em are made of dynamite. This mule kicks up lots of fun at the Yankee Circus now on view twice daily under the auspices of the Marion County Council of the American Legion in the Coliseum at the Indiana State fairground.

Stick-to-it-iveness Is Required to Jockey T.N.T.

Temperamental Mule Provides Entertainment at Yankee Circus.

By WALTER D. HICKMAN.

TNT. Sounds like a new radio call. "Taint that at all, but a pesky mule with dynamite feet and a disposition like Everett True."

TNT is so particular who rides him even an ordinary house fly knows better than to flirt with the back of this dynamite mule.

TNT is the frisky critter who causes children in their teens and those in their sixties to yell with joy at the American Legion Yankee Circus.

Am told by those who know a porous plaster couldn't stick on TNT's back. If I were a weak little porous plaster that would be one sticking job I would pass up. Daisies will never grow on this mule's grave 'cause he would kick 'em off. Old age never will light on him.

TNT certainly puts a terrible kick into the legions circus. The more he kicks, the better the audience likes him. I was given a chance to interview TNT, but that is one job I passed up because I feared the interview would be too impressive.

ELEPHANTS HAVE NICE MANNERS. Speaking of animals, the circus has three well-mannered elephants. These beasts can be trusted by Patterson, a trainer, because he threw himself down in the sawdust ring and permitted one of the largest elephants to kneel over him.

Just think," said a man near me, "elephants eat only hay. Hunny how hay and water makes 'em grow so large."

Oh, gentle tip! I never have tipped the scales over 113 pounds in my life. He for some gotten boxes of shredded wheat and two gallons of water.

One can get a pointer ever from an elephant these days. Patterson's elephants are well trained, but I am sure they will never become household pets.

One can't go to a circus without eating peanuts and candy, can he? The more peanuts one buys, the more successful he is. A sack of peanuts makes the whole world brighter. And the money this time goes to a worthy cause.

That is just my way of telling you the legions circus is a sure enough circus with peanuts, candy, crackerjack, balloons, elephants, horses, clowns and all the rest of the gang.

And the clowns are "pinched." They sure are 'cause Lorette, the policeman clown, got it in his head Mayor Shank wouldn't approve of fighting. So Lorette called the patrol wagon. Gosh, it came!

"If I don't pinch you, Mayor Shank will," yelled Lorette as he bundled the offenders in the burry-up wagon.

And Mayor Shank was there last night at the coliseum at the fairground helping the legions boys and the circus performers out.

"I know this is a good circus because I saw it this afternoon," said the mayor. "It is a worthy cause, a great cause, and needs all the support we can give it."

The mayor introduced Orrin Davenport, noted circus performer, to the audience, and the night performance was off to a good start and a glorious finish.

The Beckman-Todd Trio leaped into favor by their stunts way up in the air. These acrobats make a splendid impression as they go through their act way up over the heads of the audience. They make you hold your breath, and when they fall, you breathe a sigh of relief as they drop into a net.

DAVENPORT ACT REAL THRILLER. Snow-white horses are used by Orrin Davenport and his troupe of lady bareback riders. Here is a real circus act. It will give you the real circus story and the desire will come over you to buy some more peanuts and candy from an ex-servant man.

The legions circus makers haven't slighted the slack wire either, as the Jack Moore troupe dance, jump and even slide on the wire. The Aerial Patts are present on the trapeze.

No circus would be a circus without the comedy acrobats and the legions circus has 'em in Lester, Bell and Griffin.

There is music and everything else that goes with a real live circus. To be serious for a second—the American Legion circus is real entertainment. More than your money's worth is given at the coliseum. Thoroughbred and standard circus acts have been engaged. Proof of that is the splendid Orrin Davenport troupe.

Everybody is going to the Legions Circus.

fun at the Yankee Circus now on view twice daily under the auspices of the Marion County Council of the American Legion in the Coliseum at the Indiana State fairground.

Two performances daily will be given with the exception of Sundays.

All streets point to the American Legion circus.

RUSSIA WILL INSIST UPON RECOGNITION

Soviet Government Makes Clear Economic Demands.

ROME, April 4.—Russia will insist upon complete recognition at the Genoa conference, according to a statement made today by Vatslav Vorovsky, a member of the Russian delegation, who is in Rome. In an exclusive interview Vorovsky said the allied governments decide at Genoa to enter Russia with credits they will have to recognize the Soviet government.

"No one of us expects much from the Genoa conference, however. The most we hope for is agreement for other conference of trade experts for discussion of programs."

"But to tell the truth we are no longer worrying very much about the trade agreements, because we are already trading with nearly every country in Europe."

"We do not expect hostility from Italy in the Genoa conference and we believe that if Italy had only herself to consider she would recognize the Moscow government, but Italy probably will have to follow the lead of her ally, France."

"The whole matter eventually will resolve itself into the necessity of commercial arrangements between Russia and the governments of other nations. The solution is through a friendly attitude, through which credits and recognition of the Moscow government are extended in return for Russian concessions."
