

CLEAN UP CITY CAMPAIGN HAS GOOD BEGINNING

Wagon Trains Haul Trash
From Three Sections
First Day.

Getting away to a good start yesterday in clearing collected trash from Norwood and the section north of Fall Creek to Twenty-Fourth street, city wagon trains today covered much territory in the "Let's Clean 'Er Up" campaign which the Fire Prevention Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the city departments are sponsoring.

Three large sections of Indianapolis, besides several smaller areas, were cleared of collected rubbish by city wagon trains. Three units, each consisting of a motor truck with ash wagon body, and six trailers, manned by eight men, cleaned up that part of the city between Martinville avenue and the canal and Twenty-First street to Fall Creek. Other units covered the section from Sherman Drive to Keystone avenue, between East Michigan and East Tenth street, and the section from the Big Four Railroad tracks south to Prospect street, between Shelby street and the Big Four.

Tomorrow these sections of the city will be cleared of collected rubbish by city wagon units, sent out by the board of sanitary commissioners. From Sixteenth street north to Twenty-First street, between Martinville avenue and the canal; from Keystone avenue to the L. E. & W. Railroad tracks, between East Michigan and East Tenth street, and from Prospect street to Pleasant Run, between the Big Four Railroad tracks and Shelby street.

The "Let's Clean 'Er Up" campaign is resulting in a bigger spring clean-up of the city than in any previous year, members of the board of sanitary commissioners declare. The fire prevention committee expresses the opinion that every day up to the close of the clean-up period, April 25, will keep the trash collecting wagons busy, as the majority of Indianapolis people are following the request of the committee to clear away all trash.

HERBS USED IN MEDICINES
A Manchester, England, paper urges the renewed cultivation of old-fashioned medicinal herbs in English gardens. In the United States they have also come out of fashion as a feature of the small garden, although they are imported in large quantities from Turkey, India and China, where they are grown purely for commercial purposes, as their medicinal value is recognized by many leading physicians. Tons of medicinal herbs are used annually in the preparation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most successful medicine for women's ills. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and women afflicted with such ailments should try it. Advertisement.

Every Monday Blue for Tired Pupils

BUFFTON, April 5.—Every Monday is a blue Monday in the Buffton High School.

Many pupils make Monday a day of rest and those who do attend usually are apathetic.

Prof. P. A. Allen, superintendent of the schools, characterized the disease as "Sundayitis."

"It may be attributed to several causes," he said, "overeating, exposure and loss of sleep."

Proceeding on the theory that the latter was the most general cause he requested parents to keep their children home on Sunday nights.

bounds, still I think that basic conditions are much better than they were six months ago and better than they were thirty days ago. I do not think there will be a complete return to prosperity until the farmer has harvested at least two crops more. The farmer is buying only from hand to mouth, by necessity, and the public in general is doing likewise. There is some improvement in manufacturing, from the reports that come to me, but it is not startling.

The automobile business, he said, is some better and that ought to relieve the unemployment situation, which, in turn, should relieve somewhat the tension of the entire situation.

There is plenty of loanable money, according to Mr. Stalnaker, for the carrying on of the manufacturing industries, as well as other lines of general business, but there is no demand for it, due to the fact that there is no great demand for the output of such industries.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE.
The fact that the people are buying only what they really need, Mr. Stalnaker said, will result in benefit for everybody concerned in the end, although at the present it is a drawback.

Tellers, he said, are not taking in the money they were this time last year, but this is due to the economy program the people are carrying on through necessity.

Howard C. Binkey, president of the Bankers Trust Company, entertains optimistic views. He not only said business in general is now much better than it was thirty days ago, but he also said he feels the country is much nearer "normalcy" than many people think.

The fact that the Government has cleared itself of some of its last indebtedness seemed to be a very pleasing and impressive matter with several bankers. They feel this is not only a step forward, but it is a thing that should inspire confidence in the general public.

VOLUME OF BOND BUSINESS GOOD.
Bond dealers, and securities and investment brokers all say the volume of business is good and they can see a gradual betterment.

The manager of one of the largest investment houses in the city said for the past three months the volume of the business carried on by the house had been increasing. January, he said, was the record month. Sales during March were better than those of February. With the opening of this month business came in with a rush, he said. Sales of stocks, bonds and securities during March were above those of February in spite of the fact that during March there has been almost always, in the past, a temporary slump in business.

"We have passed, financially, through the valley of the shadow of death," according to the views of Gilbert B. Clippinger, secretary of the Fletcher American National Bank, "and we are all well on the way to that normal condition that existed before the war."

BETTER PRICES.
The recent releasing of the tension of the condition of the agricultural industry by better prices for grains, stock and other farm products has done much to further progress, Mr. Clippinger stated.

Farmers have sold some of the grains they had stored and held and cattle they had been feeding and holding for better prices and with the proceeds have liquidated loans at very banks, which in turn have paid obligations at the larger financial institutions. This, Mr. Clippinger said, has lessened to a great extent, the tight condition of loanable money and has aided in providing some industries with much-needed capital.

Asks $25,000 for Alleged Damage

Judgement of $25,000 is asked of the Postal Station Company, the Hall Construction Company, Raymond D. Brown, Cassie C. Pierson and T. C. Pierson, in a suit for damages filed in Circuit Court by Nellie Graves. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant moved all of the property of the Lighting Transfer and Storage Company, of which the plaintiff is the head, from a building at Illinois and South streets on which she had a partial lease and caused her the alleged amount of damages.

on the ranges, in which thousands of head were lost. Cotton, the third great staple, went to less than half the cost of the previous year's production, and thus completed the down-grade movement of the best three resources of the State. During the period just before the financial slump and the restriction of credit the agricultural communities in Arizona, particularly the Salt River valley, had had the same experiences as other farming communities. Pima cotton had sold the year before at from 70 cents to $1.32 per pound. Money was plentiful and land prices were inflated. Visioning dollar cotton, every body bought, and rented high-priced land and put in all they could. Labor went to twice its regular price, and the money flew.

Before the cotton was picked the bottom had dropped out of the market, but picking labor was twice as high as normal and ginning rates were way up. Then began a long-continued effort to hold the crop until it would bring something better. Money was borrowed on it, and it was carried month after month until, when the last crop was picked, a large part of the crop was still there.

REAL ARIZONIANS.
NEVER LOST GRIP.
Meanwhile, however, the Arizonians—the real ones—never lost their grip. The copper men got together and agreed not to sacrifice by underbidding the market down further. The cattle men held on. The cotton growers got together and organized a cooperative. Then things began to get better. Copper improved, and the mines began to reopen, late this winter. Cattle loans were secured, some from the War Finance Corporation, some elsewhere; the bad season was succeeded by a good one and hope seemed justified.

The cotton cooperative, called the Arizona Pima Cotton Growers' Association, is modeled after the Oklahoma Growers' Association, which has been described in these dispatches. It markets

Automobile Fans

Try to imagine the entire surface of the Fletcher American National Bank Building—four walls and roof—covered with automobile fans, and you will picture just two per cent of the yearly output of such articles in this city.

The retail value of the yearly output of this product is eight and one-quarter million dollars. Every state in the Union and most all foreign countries are shipping points for Indianapolis made automobile fans.

Each year there are over four thousand tons of steel and over two thousand tons of grey iron used in the manufacture of this product, in addition to various other fittings and attachments which go to make up a complete fan. In manufacturing fans over 110,000 square feet of floor space is occupied.
