

PRISON REFORM IS DAUGHERTY'S FAVORITE HOBBY

Believes Convicts Could Be Made Useful Citizens.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty has a lot of hobbies.

He likes to drag away on a rusty-looking pipe. He's a pretty fair fisherman. He turns a wicked tenor in an impromptu barbershop quartette. When not engrossed with official cares he enjoys a card game, a horse race, a billiard game, or any one of forty other varieties of pastimes.

His real hobby, though, is making good men out of bad ones. It's not a new hobby for him. He's been doing it for years. Taking the helm as head of the Justice Department, and the President's right-bower in legal problems, Mr. Daugherty jumped into a field of activity genuinely to his liking. Possessing "human" qualities in a rare degree, the Attorney General within one year has extended his humanness into the dark recesses of the Federal prisons.

Within the Federal penitentiaries Mr. Daugherty has introduced moral and educational advantages calculated to make real men out of the convicts, so that when their terms end they may go into different fields of activity and again become useful citizens—free from the temptation to repeat their old and dangerous ways.

At the three penitentiaries maintained by the Government at Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeill Island, Cal., Mr. Daugherty has seen remarkable results from the operation of prison schools. In Atlanta Prison over two hundred illiterates, some native and some foreign born, after a few months' study were able last Christmas to write intelligent letters to friends and relatives.

PRISONERS MAKE GOOD.

More than one thousand prisoners were paroled and their earnings were about $1,000,000. The Attorney General gave that number another chance to make good and they are making good. Besides, they are contributing their share to the country's productive output—production that would be lost if they remained in prison.

The success of industrial enterprises at Atlanta, so conducted that there is profit both for the Government and for the prisoners themselves on a bonus basis, according to their output, had led Attorney General Daugherty to urge Congress to pass a bill authorizing the installation of similar industrial features in the prisons at Leavenworth and McNeill Island.

A cotton duck mill operated at Atlanta Prison brought a net profit to the Government of $153,000 and earned for the prisoners, in bonuses of two cents a yard on their output, about $45,000. About 550 prisoners are employed in the Atlanta Prison cotton mill. The product is not sold in open market, but is disposed of to Government departments needing such supplies.

"IDLENESS PERNICIOUS."

Because of industrial methods and other measures to establish prison reform, the Attorney General said recently that, although there are now 645 more inmates at the three prisons named, the expenses of operating them will be about $70,000 below the amount appropriated by Congress.

Mr. Daugherty's opinion is that idleness is dangerous both to the idle and to society.

"Idleness is pernicious," he said—"pernicious both morally and physically to all men, especially to prisoners. If men in prison are to again fill places of usefulness in society it is imperative that constructive labor be furnished them during their confinement."

"No record of merely material accomplishment can give such satisfaction as comes from the re-establishment of a man as a useful member of society. The period of a man's incarceration for an offense against the State need not necessarily be destructive of the man's present or future worth to society nor of his self-respect or immediate earning capacity."

DENTIST WINS.

LONDON, April 28.—Mrs. Eleanor Caning lost her suit against Dr. Henry Ide, a dentist, when she admitted she told him to use his own judgment as to what teeth to extract. She claimed he pulled good ones.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It
Brings Back Its Beautiful
Lustre at Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

I say you will achieve success quicker if you wear good clothes than if you don't. I know a man who, at 50 years of age, is still a clerk in a big department store. A man, far less capable, was made department manager; simply because he looked the part. If I were out of a job or wanted advancement, I would spend every dollar I could afford on clothes—not the flashy kind; I'd wear clothes of good style, but not extreme; of good quality, but not extravagant.

A PERSONAL NOTE

In a little more than two years I have built up the largest direct-to-wearer tailoring business in Indiana.

My first salesroom was a corner in my shop. Next I put a display of woollens in a ground floor room on Massachusetts Avenue directly under my shop. I am now opening an additional up-town display room on Illinois Street. Here I expect to more than double my output. By doing so I will not only be able to pay the additional rental, but can also maintain my high standard of tailoring without any increase in prices.

Jack Sunderland has been appointed manager of the new store. Jack is an Indianapolis boy who knows merchant tailoring from the ground up. He will not allow any suit to go out of the place that is not right in every detail.

Sam P. Lamm is still my chief designer. He is the man to whom I give much of the credit for the high record I have attained as "a tailor who fits the hard to fit."

Whether you wish to place your order or not, I will be more than pleased to have you drop in Saturday and look us over.

LEON, THE TAILOR.
