

CHICAGO BURGLARS ESCAPE FROM ROOFS OF SKYSCRAPERS, CHASED BY 250 POLICEMEN

CHICAGO, April 29.—Burglars surprised while looting department stores before dawn today won a race with 250 police across roofs of skyscrapers. While shouts of pursuers and the crack of revolvers and rifle shots echoed and re-echoed through the empty canyons made by the huge buildings, the thieves, taking desperate chances, leaping from building to building, made their escape. Every available policeman in the downtown district was rushed to the scene.

G. O. P. CANDIDATES GROW ANXIOUS.

Reaction of candidates for Marion County nominations anxiously awaited final decision of leaders in the Shank and anti-Shank factions as to which would be endorsed on the respective slates. It was regarded as settled that there would be two or three big slates distributed to voters at the polls Tuesday. William H. Armitage, captain of the mayor's police, and his lieutenants are preparing one, which is understood to be on the press. The Coffin-Dodson and Jewett-Lemcke factions, which have combined against Armitage and the mayor, will have another. Much interest was displayed in whether Beveridge's name will appear on the Shank slate. It is understood there is no doubt New will be put on the anti-Shank list, since this crowd is working for him.

Jewett-Lemcke said they would be openly slanted by the Shank forces, or if he was thought both Beveridge and New would be included. This because the Shank forces are anxious to get precinct committeemen pledged to support William H. Freeman and William E. Kelley for county and seventh district Republican chairmen wherever they may

The thieves scurried down the long, empty alleys of the stores and by breaking skylights and windows, reached the roofs.

Their dim forms made poor targets as they raced across the roof tops and traced hiding places. Every nook and corner of the block was searched without finding further trace of the robbers. The theory that the robbers had a secret den near by in the block, chased as "rats" hustled to the world, was advanced by police.

and will trade Beveridge to do so, the anti-Shank leaders said. The Shank leaders described such rumors as Coffin-Dodson and Jewett-Lemcke smoke screens to cover up the fear anti-Shank forces have over the outcome Tuesday. They said they do not believe the anti-Shank leaders even will openly announce candidates for county and district chairmen in opposition to the Shank slates. If such candidates are announced, it is thought George V. Coffin, county clerk, or present County Chairman Harry C. Hendrickson, will be proposed for county chairman and New would be included. Charles O. Koenig chosen to succeed himself.

SIZE OF VOTE CAUSES CONCERN

ship in the state, the size of the vote on the Republican side was a matter of interest among Republican politicians. The Democratic vote Tuesday will not be a test of strength which the party will muster in November, leaders say.

The supporters of Beveridge maintain the larger vote Tuesday the better for his candidacy, while it is conceded a small vote will indicate New's renomination. The organization strength will be mustered in any event.

The full primary voting strength of the Republican party was without the women voting, somewhere in the neighborhood of 200,000 and is decreased according to the interest in the fight, records in the secretary of State's office show. In the 1916 primary contest for the Senatorial nomination which was a three cornered affair with Senator New leading Senator Watson by about 9,000 first choice votes and Arthur Robinson trailing, there were 200,000 first choice votes. While the present fight between Beveridge and New has developed considerable interest, there have been few notable primary contests that that of 1916, when Marion County decided the issue by an overwhelming vote for New when Watson had gained the decision in the outside voting.

VOTES IN RECENT ELECTIONS COMPARED.

In 1920, when Senator Watson was unopposed in the Republican Primary, the vote dropped to 128,831, more than 50,000 less than the contest of four years' previous. In 1920 the contest for Governor on the Republican side developed interest and the vote cast was 214,064 with McGraw getting more votes than Feeler and Toner combined, although Toner's vote was negligible.

There is little basis for calculation on what the increase resulting from the participation of women will be. Clarence R. Martin, manager for Albert J. Beveridge in a recent statement made a prediction of a 100,000 majority for Beveridge if 500,000 votes are cast. That 500,000 votes will be cast in the primary seems to be beyond the pale of possibility, observers say now.

Allowing for an increase in population it is not regarded likely that the ratio will be about 2 to 1, which would mean that somewhere between 200,000 and 350,000 votes will be cast.

Basing their hopes for victory on a big vote, Beveridge supporters declare there is a tremendous contest in the contest and the fact that local fights in the township trustees' races will bring out a big vote in the rural districts.

Bandits Get $5,500 From Messenger

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 29.—Three armed bandits today held up a messenger of the McElroy-Sloan Shoe Company, and escaped in an automobile with a $5,500 payroll. The messenger was en route from the First National Bank to the firm's office, a half block away.

Our First Year

Chapter XXIX—Mrs. Herrod Intrudes

BY A BRIDE.

Every time I decide that I must show my bills to Jack, something pops up to make me postpone the ordeal.

When it seemed that I could delay the exhibit no longer, I prepared the latest dinner, all Jack's favorite dishes. It had rained all day, we had been out every night for a week, I felt sure that my darling husband would love to settle down and read a magazine alone while I embroidered.

And at some psychological moment, I would produce the bills.

But Jack upset my plan that night. "Let's run over to Mrs. Herrod's," he suggested at dinner.

"It's raining—torrents," I objected. "But she called me up today. She's leaving this week for the mountains. And she has discovered another two-mover she knows I'll want to file."

"That seems to settle it," I laughed pleasantly. Why should Mrs. Herrod call up Jack at his office instead of me at home? To be sure, she always had called Jack so, and perhaps she ought not to be expected to change her habit because he had married.

Certainly I had no right to object, for our contract had been shaped to cover exactly this kind of a case. Jack and I were not to dictate about individual friendships.

So I couldn't say a word in criticism of Mrs. Herrod. But I could not pardon her for calling a man at his office to give an invitation for a social affair. "Mrs. Herrod has been extremely nice to me lately," I remarked casually. "She's taken such an interest in my housekeeping. She's appointed herself a kind of professor in the higher education of a bride. I do like her immensely. Jack, she's charming, now, isn't she?" Jack did not reply. He merely gazed upon me as if he couldn't get my meaning, and so I added: "It rains so, I think you'd better go alone, dear!"

"Oh, Peggiens!" There was sincere reproach combined with appeal in my husband's voice. "I'll call her up! I'll
