

MOTION TO QUASH BELL
CASE FILED*Court Allows Time for Hunt and
Latta.*REASONS OFFERED
Why Defendants in Sipe Matter Are Not Liable.

Motion to quash the indictment against Mary Gunter Bell, charged with conspiracy to embezzle in connection with the employment of public funds by Richard V. Sipe, former county clerk, was filed in Criminal Court today. Attorneys for William H. Latta and Edwin A. Hunt, charged with similar offenses, asked ten days in which to prepare motions to the same purpose. Their request was granted.

Reasons set forth in the motion to quash the indictment against Mrs. Bell are: That the offense stated in the indictment did not constitute a public offense, and that the offense charged in the indictment was not stated with sufficient certainty. Charles S. Willsie, attorney for Latta and Hunt, asked the court that an entry be made showing the filing of a motion to quash and for a grant of ten days to prepare the motion. Latta alleged.

The allegations contained in the indictments returned against Sipe and his associates charge that Hunt approached Sipe as county clerk and endeavored to obtain a "loan" of $10,000 out of the trust funds. It is averred that Hunt, who is designated in the indictment as agent for Latta and Hunt, obtained the money which Sipe loaned to Hunt to be used in connection with the Latta Realty Company, was from trust funds.

The indictment against Mrs. Bell charges that she and Sipe conspired to embezzle $10,000 in trust funds and that she at all times knew the money were being unlawfully converted.

SPE ADMITS HIS GUILT.
Sipe pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling a $3,000 judgment paid into the trust funds, to a joint indictment with Latta and Hunt charging that the three conspired to embezzle $10,000 from the trust fund, and that Sipe charged the defendant with Mrs. Bell charging they conspired together to embezzle $10,000 in trust funds.

He was sentenced to one to five years in the Indiana State Prison, disfranchised for two years and fined $1,000 on the first charge; two to fourteen years and a fine of $5,000 on the second, and two to fourteen years and a fine of $1,000 on the latter. The date of sentence was pronounced April 24.

2 CANDIDATES FOR SENATE IN CAMPAIGN END*Beveridge Continues Speaking,
While New Remains Inactive.

The two candidates for the Republican nomination for United States Senator were to finish their campaign today in somewhat the same manner that they began them. Beveridge carried his speaking campaign through to the last available moment, according to plans made for him, while Senator New spent a day of comparative inactivity.

Both sides continue to claim victory by large majorities. Fred I. King, manager of the New campaign, made a final statement in which he claimed 75,000 majority for his candidate.

"Now that the campaign is closing it is to be very deeply regretted that Mr. Beveridge did not see fit to utter one single word of commendation for the splendid achievements of the Administration of President Harding. He has toured the State from one end to the other, but not one word has he said in praise of the President or of the National Administration," said Mr. King's statement.

Places for All

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 1.—A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation, announced today that the board of directors had authorized $3,000,000 to be expended on new buildings at once and that before Jan. 1, 1923, 2,500 additional men would be employed by the corporation here. The plans contemplate the production of 500 cars a day by 1923 and by that time the local plant will employ 20,000 men.

One thousand men will be employed this summer in erecting new buildings. Present output is 200 cars a day. This will be increased to 300 by next year. This city is anticipating a large increase in population. President Erskine has told citizens that the company recommends one private enterprise to construct sufficient homes. Last year the company spent $2,500,000 in erecting homes for employees, but this will not be repeated, Erskine said.

Murdered Girl

GERTRUDE HANNA

POLICE GUARD
NEW CLEW IN
GIRL'S MURDER*Allow Former Fiance to Go, but Warn Him to Stay in Town.

HOOPERSTON, Ill., May 1.—Police today were jealously guarding a clew in the murder of Miss Gertrude Hanna, 22-year-old school teacher, whose body was found in the basement of the United Presbyterian Church parsonage last Thursday.

John C. Wyman, former fiance of the dead girl, was released but told to remain in the city. He established an alibi by proving he was visiting his mother at Palestine, Ill., but it was pointed out that he could also have been in Hooperston and maintained his alibi.

Further tangles in the case came to light when it was charged that Wyman had courted the murdered girl's younger sister, Grace, after refusing to marry her sister.

Several new witnesses were examined yesterday by Police Chief Bogart. The father was present at the inquisition.

In addition to the new clew efforts of police were being concentrated on the search for the hidden death spot. Testimony by neighbors showed the body had been brought to the cellar less than a week past.

Investigators agreed that the death was caused by asphyxiation, following the statement of Dr. John G. Fisher, who said the closed blood vessels and absence of blood in the heart pointed to that conclusion.

It Figures Out
1 Second Plus to Each Candidate

A maximum of five minutes' time to mark the ballots will be allowed in the Stations, tomorrow, it was announced today through the board of election commissioners. It is pointed out that should every one take this amount, it would slow the voting considerably and it has been requested that voters mark their ballots as quickly as possible. There are 154 names on the Democratic ticket and 236 on the Republican ticket.

BATTLE OVER,
VOTE CASTING
TELLS RESULT*Primary Campaign of Usual Nature in Indiana.*SENATORIAL RACE
Contest Between Two Factions of Party in Control.

The battle is over. The issues are made. The result is in the hands of the voters. By tomorrow night it will be thrown down for hundreds of candidates and triumphs for others.

Indiana has passed through another primary campaign with the usual shuffling of the usual charges and counter charges, the usual flattery of the voters and the usual bunk. In these respects it has not been different from any other primary contest.

Interest throughout the campaign has centered, and still centers, on the Republican senatorial primary race. It has been a contest that will be talked about, wherever those who endeavor to extract votes from an unsuspecting public shall STANDPAT VS. PROGRESSIVE.

The contest between Senator Harry S. New and former Senator Albert J. Beveridge for the Republican senatorial nomination has been a contest between the standard element of the party and the less conservative progressive. A victory for New tomorrow will be a victory for the Administration. A victory for Beveridge will be a defeat for the Administration.

Senator New has had a decided advantage over his opponent in that he is the organization candidate. The regular party organization has facilities for getting out the votes and for conducting an election that no individual organization can possess.

In Marion County, as in most other counties, the New organization, which for the most part is the Republican State organization, controls the election machinery.

Mayor Shank and his friends in Indianapolis set out with much apparent enthusiasm to nominate Beveridge. As the campaign progressed, the enthusiasm seemed to wane. When it came to naming precinct election officials the New faction, still having control of the county organization, defeated. Now, it appears, the city administration is willing to make any deal necessary to gain control of the county organization.

An additional force of 127 American sailors, twenty-three marines and six officers from the United States cruiser Albatross have reached Pekin to guard American interests. Minister Schumann advised the State Department.

This force is to strengthen the American legation guard at Pekin, which numbered about 400.

Miss Baker's latest announcement was that she and Allister would be married in June. If so, Baxter will be on hand for the wedding. Baxter, an English actor, has just recovered from a serious operation at a hospital here and is going home.

With Barry on the scene in June, Mary's friends believe her wedding schedule again may be upset.

CHINESE WAR
LORD VICTIM
OF ASSASSIN*General Wu Is Wounded
Slightly—Assailant Is Executed.

LONDON, May 1.—General Wu Pei Fu, commander of the forces of Central China, who is contending with Chang Tso Lin's northern army for possession of Pekin, has been slightly wounded by an assassin who attempted to kill him, according to an unconfirmed report from Pekin to the Evening News today. The dispatch added that the assassin was reported to have been captured and summarily executed.

The battle between the armies of Chang Tso Lin and General Wu Pei Fu for possession of Pekin is still raging with great violence, according to a dispatch from Pekin today.

Acting Premier Chow Tso Chi has resigned. The Chinese military forces in Pekin are taking over control of the city.

Both sides are using much artillery and the cannonading could be heard all day long in the suburbs of Pekin.

CHARGE USE OF JAPANESE TROOPS

TIENSIN, China, May 1.—Charges by General Wu Pei Fu, that Chang Tso Lin's crusade is backed by Japan were partly confirmed by Justin Brandt, an American business man, who arrived at Shanghai after traveling with the Manchurian troops on the Pekin-Mukden railway.

Brandt declared Japan is giving physical as well as moral support to Chang Tso Lin. He declared he passed train loads of soldiers dressed as Chinese, but speaking Japanese.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Jacob Gould Scherman, the American minister to China, has recommended to Admiral Strauss, that another battleship be rushed to Tien Tsin because large American interests there are endangered by the warfare between General Chang Tso Lin and General Wu Pei Fu, the State Department was advised today in a cablegram from the American legation at Pekin.

An additional force of 127 American sailors, twenty-three marines and six officers from the United States cruiser Albatross have reached Pekin to guard American interests. Minister Schumann advised the State Department.

This force is to strengthen the American legation guard at Pekin, which numbered about 400.

BERND SAYS HE AND KING WILL PICK OFFICIALS

City Council Head and President Pro Tem to Select Boxing Body.

Theodore J. Bernd, president of the city council, announced today the new boxing commission will be appointed by himself and John E. King, president pro tem at the regular meeting tonight. The council passed an ordinance over Mayor Shank's disapproval giving a commission of seven members of the council power to regulate professional boxing and wrestling matches. All councilmen but Walter W. Wise and Lloyd D. Claycomb, who opposed the ordinance, will be appointed. It is understood, the new commission will meet to organize Tuesday.

A public hearing upon the daylight saving ordinance will be held after which an attempt will be made to pass it over Mayor Shank's veto. The attempt is expected to be successful. It is understood only five of the six votes needed to override a veto are available.

The ordinance reducing the salary of John F. Walker, superintendent of the city, from $2,500 to $1,500 will be brought out of committee and probably passed. Anti-Shank members of the council are angry at Walker because of his efforts to secure for Shank nomination to get control of the Republican organization in Marion County.

An ordinance introduced two weeks ago fixing $50 a year as the license fee for filling stations, probably will be amended to charge $15 a pump. In order that there might be no inequality in taxation of large and small stations.

Ordinances affecting theaters and dance halls probably will be introduced. One would change the $25 a year license fee for dance halls operated in connection with hotels, theaters, etc., to $2 a day. The other would prohibit the sale of a ticket to a theater patron when there was no vacant seat.

REAL FIGHT TO CONTROL
MACHINERY*Back of Senatorial
Race Is Watson's
Design.*MUCH BITTERNESS
Created by Attempt to Revive Old Machines.

While Indiana Republicans are going about the business of selecting party nominees tomorrow, underneath the surface is being waged a fight that out-distances the now historic contest between Senator Harry S. New and former Senator Albert J. Beveridge. It is a battle for control of the Republican organization and in many sections, notably in Indianapolis, it is more bitter and attracts more attention than the senatorial fight.

In the background and seemingly uninterested in the affair is Senator James E. Watson who has not so much as lifted his finger in behalf of his colleague, but there is ample evidence that he is very much interested in the make up of the next Republican State organization. And it is the very intensity of the fight to control the organization that may prove a serious handicap to Senator New.

It is reported from many sections of the State that Republicans who are anxious to see a strong Watson complexion given to the next State committee, are actively refraining from stating Mr. Beveridge when, by so doing, they are assured support of their organization plan.

If that condition is true, especially in the rural districts, it will mean that instead of one foe, Senator New will have to face the combined forces of Beveridge and Watson.

For two or three years has cherished an ambition to control his party's machinery in this State and the fact that two years ago he came within a hair's breadth of doing so, and failed because of a lack of sufficient political support, has only accentuated his desires.

Watson, in his attempt to land control of the organization in the last primary, obtained powerful aid from Governor McCray, then a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor.

It was evidently his plan to obtain a personal statement that he is for Senator New's renomination, he has not become active personally in his behalf and there is a well founded belief that many of his political lieutenants are using the primary as a cloak to clinch Watson's leadership of an organization that would in turn redound to the advantage of the Governor, providing he wants to whip a recalcitrant Legislature into line, or is entertaining future political ambitions.

Watching Indiana Result

Special to Indiana Daily Times
WASHINGTON, May 1.—Indiana holds the center of the political spotlight. It is felt here the Harding administration is on trial there. That issue has been made clear-cut in the contest between Senator Harry S. New and former Senator Albert J. Beveridge for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Interest in the outcome of the overshadowing New-Beveridge battle is intense in Washington because of the national significance of its outcome. Interpretation of the result will be unmis-

RALSTON IS
BY OUTLOOK

Samuel M. Ralston, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, was optimistic over his prospects in the primary election tomorrow.

"I expect to be nominated by a substantial majority," he said. "I am happy to say that there has been no bitterness on the part of the candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for United States Senator. Whoever is nominated will have the unqualified support of the other candidates, I am certain."

JOE KEALING COMES INTO
LOCAL FIGHT*National Committeeman Lines
Up With Faction in Primary Contest.

With Joseph B. Kealing, Republican national committeeman from Indiana, throwing his entire strength to the Shank-Armistead city hall forces to combat the Lemcke-Jewett and Coffin-Dodson combine, the Republican political fight for supremacy in Marion County between the G. O. P. factions today began taking on a new hue.

Mr. Kealing is giving personal assistance in directing the administrative work of the city hall faction. William H. Armistead is operating from the second of English Hotel, handling the slate and the workers supporting the city hall slate.

This combination was brought about for the purpose of combating to better advantage, the Lemcke-Jewett and Coffin-Dodson combination.

Leaders of the combination hope to put Senator Harry New over for re-nomination and what is more important, capture the Republican county organization.

When the Lemcke-Jewett faction began making overtures to George V. Coffin, Carlin Shank, whose influence resulted in Mr. Coffin being selected to serve the unexpired term of former County Clerk Richard V. Sipe, there were indications that Commissioner Shank in time, would break with Coffin, as the latter failed to give Benjamin S. Polce state position for county recorder.

It was evidently that Commissioner Shank and Mr. Coffin had broken as Carlin Shank is on the city hall slate, as is Mr. Polce.

It was predicted the Shank-Armistead faction will have sufficient power after the primary to demand support for William H. Freeman, who is the Shank-Armistead choice for county chairman.

Mr. Kealing has thrown his strength toward William H. Reilly for district chairman as Reilly's success will strengthen Mr. Kealing's position as national committeeman from Indiana, it is said. The national chairman is elected by the district chairman.

If the Jewett-Lemcke and the Coffin-Dodson combine should sway the vote of the precinct committeemen next Saturday when the chairmen are elected, it would be a severe blow to the Shank machine.

According to information obtained by authorities, Johnson and Mrs. Kennedy, who obtained a divorce from her husband two years ago, had attended church together and had just stepped in the door of Mrs. Kennedy's home when the shooting occurred. Both died almost instantly.

Letters found in Johnson's pockets indicated Mrs. Kennedy had refused to marry him.

BROOKVILLE, Ind., May 1.—Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ahrens of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. The Ahrens party in one machine were en route to Cincinnati from Chicago. John Ahrens sustained a fractured arm and severe bruises.

SLOW RETURNS

Because of the length of the ballots and because of the fact that voting machines will not be used in the primary election tomorrow, returns will be very slow coming in. It will be impossible to obtain any accurate information Tuesday night.

For these reasons the Times will not issue extras and no bulletins will be displayed Tuesday night.

Mrs. Carrie Hanley, 42, 135 South Arlington avenue, died at the City hospital today as the result of a fractured skull received in an accident Saturday.

Thomas Hanley, her husband, was arrested on the charge of operating a blind tiger and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, following the investigation of the accident. Today the police say he will be charged with manslaughter.

The accident occurred in front of 1735 Massachusetts avenue and Hanley was driving an automobile in which his wife and Frank Rollen, 2717 Dearborn street, were riding. Rollen was slightly injured, but Mrs. Hanley was caught under the car when it hit a hole in the street and turned over. The police say the pavement had been cut by men putting in gas pipes. A bottle of white wine whiskey and an empty bottle said to have contained the same kind of liquor were placed against Hanley.

Hanley was foreman of a gang of men putting in some concrete work and was on his way to the bank to obtain money to meet a pay roll when the accident occurred.

SLATEMAKERS WORK OVERTIME
MAKING LISTS*Confusion Results From Maze of 'Indorsed' Seekers at Primary.

Activities of the political slate-makers in the Republican party today compared in intensity with that of bookmakers before a derby. Politicians who tried to figure out how many lists of "indorsed" candidates were put out by all the different clubs and societies, and how many associations seeking personal advantage in Tuesday's primary election gave up the job. Never before has the "slate" trick been resorted to so generally, politicians say.

The poor voter who goes to the polls Tuesday morning without a list of the men who he wants to vote for in his pocket is likely to find himself a most bewildered citizen. Workers for all the contending combinations, organizations and associations, if predictions are true, will be lined around the voting places three deep. Into the hands of waiting voters will be thrust, such as at least half dozen and possibly a dozen yellow, green, red, white, blue, and nobody knows how many other colored slips each with the name of the men to be elected.

Politicians were chiefly interested in the slates which the Marion County Republican League and the Jewett-Lemcke, Coffin-Dodson combination will distribute. Candidates for Republican nomination they would get on both of them. Leaders in the factions prayed they had not stated the wrong men. Nobody seemed to know whether they had.

As was predicted, the Marion County Republican League slate, printed on yellow paper, came out with the names of both Albert J. Beveridge and Harry S. New upon it. The League is seeking to gain control of the Republican county organization for Mayor Shank and his chiefs by the election of precinct committeemen Tuesday. The Jewett-Lemcke, Coffin-Dodson crowd hopes to elect their own set of committeemen, thereby depriving the city hall of a hold on the county organization and affording politicians dumped out of power in the municipal elections last year, a chance to come back.
