

JUSSERAND TO LEAVE CAPITAL AS SCAPEGOAT

France Disappointed at Showing in Conference Last Winter.

IN THE U. S. 19 YEARS

Special to Indiana Daily Times
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

BY FREDERICK W. WILE.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Washington officials are disappointed at the showing in the conference of Ambassador Jusserand, an attempt by French politicians to find a scapegoat for France's misfortune at the Washington conference.

The Paris announcement that M. Jusserand, dean of the local diplomatic corps and his country's envoy here since 1903, will probably have a successor within a few months comes as no surprise to the capital. For weeks it has been known that influences were at work in Paris to undermine him. Current reports mean men in high places as their instigators. They include the former premier, Messrs. Briand and Viviani, both delegates at the Washington conference; M. Sarraut, minister of the Colonies, who succeeded them as chief of the French delegation; Admiral De Bon, head of the French naval contingent; and Messrs. Stephane Laussane, editor of Le Matin, and "Portinari" of the Echo de Paris. Those leaders of French policy and moulders of French public opinion are said, in Washington, to have promoted an anti-Jusserand vendetta that has eventually brought about arrangements for the veteran diplomat's transfer from his American post.

Authorities who thus interpret Parisian dispatches foreshadowing M. Jusserand's recall say France for four months has been looking for somebody to blame for her unpopularity at the armament conference. Her delegates left Washington one after another in successive and rising stages of disappointment, disgust and rage. M. Briand was annoyed that France was not permitted to "sit in" from the start with America, Great Britain and Japan on naval limitation.

M. Jusserand will be missed in the United States more than any diplomat ever stationed at our national capital. No ambassador over was here for so long as fifteen years. None confined to enter into the American spirit so thoroughly as he and his American wife. Since the days he belonged to President Roosevelt's "tennis cabinet," the brilliant Frenchman has been an institution far beyond the confines of Washington. Whatever French political foes may think of him, Jusserand is certain to quit our shores with a legion of honoring American friends, who think that had his counsels prevailed, France might have had a better day in court at Washington last winter.

POLICE SHOOT NEGRO BURGLAR; LOOT IS FOUND

Prowler Hurls Jug Through Window as Cops Close in on Him.

Physicians at the City hospital today said Henry Smith, negro, 467 West Eighteenth street, was in a critical condition but that he had a chance to recover. Smith was shot Saturday night while attempting to escape from the police.

John White, negro, 606 Hudson street, and Anna Woods, 531 Sedco street, saw a man enter a window of the Altenburg hotel, 531 North Meridian street, and notified Mrs. C. C. Dugger, manager of the hotel. She called the police, after she had obtained a revolver and given the weapon to a man to guard the door.

Motorpolicemen Lowe and Baker soon reached the hotel and cut off the door.

When the negro saw Lowe at a window he hurled a jug at him and the policeman fired through the window.

The burglar ran into a bathroom as the police entered the building, and as they reached the bathroom door and opened fire he jumped through the window.

He was found a half block away in an alley unconscious. One bullet hit him in the head and another in the arm.

At Smith's home the police found a quantity of clothes and jewelry alleged to have been stolen. They say they found in Smith's pocket a purse containing $11.

nomination of candidates in the primary is merely incidental. The control of the organization is the stake for which the fight is being made.

On one side is the Shank organization, which has control of the city, but not of the county. The other side is a combination known as the Jewett-Lemcke and the Coffin-Dodson crowd. The combination is fighting to retain the county chairmanship and to regain some of the strength they lost in the last city primary. Everything is being subordinated to the ambitions of these factions.

Out in the State interest centers in the congressional as well as on the senatorial races and this interest is not confined to one party. Democrats in some sections feel they have an opportunity to break into the solid Republican delegation from Indiana. This has brought about interesting contests on the Democratic side.

MANY CONTESTS FOR CONGRESS.

In the congressional races all but one of the present Congressmen are seeking re-election, but in most districts it is not at all certain they will be nominated. The Third district is the only district where the present incumbent is not seeking re-election. The Democrats declare they are certain of this district next November and for this reason a hard primary fight is being made there.

The Democratic senatorial contest is a five-cornered affair with Samuel M. Ralston, former Governor, still the apparent favorite. Mr. Ralston is opposed by Dan M. Shuman of Lafayette, Bernard B. Shively of Marion, Dr. Jesse Howard of Garrett and Charles Franklin Howard of Winfield. Dr. Sanders is making the race on a straight-out wet platform. Mr. Howard makes a living peddling postcards.

Mr. Shuman and Mr. Shively undoubtedly will poll a great number of votes. Dr. Sanders probably will receive considerable support from the wet element. Howard's vote will be too negligible to be considered. Because of the provisions of the primary law it is possible that Mr. Ralston will not be nominated although he may receive a large plurality. The law provides that to be nominated a senatorial candidate must have more votes than the combined vote of all the other senatorial candidates of his party. If Mr. Ralston does not receive such a majority the nomination will go to the Democratic convention, May 31 and June 1.

The ballots to be used in the primary are probably the longest in the history of the State. For this reason and for the further reason that all voting will be done by Australian ballot and not by voting machines the voters are expected to be very slow. There is some difference of opinion as to whether the vote will be heavy or light, but there is every indication that it will not approach the vote in the presidential election in November, 1920.

Because of the length of the ballots and because of the fact that paper ballots are being used, the returns will be very slow in coming in. No definite idea of the result can be had before some time Wednesday at the earliest. If the Democratic senatorial contest is at all close it may be days before it is decided.

REAL FIGHT TO CONTROL MACHINERY

Watson man. E. M. Wasmuth, the present chairman, would like another whirl at the job, and he is for Senator New.

Most of the State committee is for the Senator, thereby constituting one of the greatest dangers Mr. Beveridge has to face.

What is more natural, political wise- acers ask, than for the Watson and Beveridge forces to combine and bring about a new State committee, while nominating a candidate for United States Senator?

The closing days of the campaign have seen the Senatorial race in Marion County subordinated to the contest between the forces led by Mayor Shank and the so-called former Mayor Jewett and County Treasurer Ralph A. Lemcke to gain the assembly in the county organization the Watson influence is not noticeable here, and which ever crowd wins much, he is reckoned with by the man who seeks to dominate the State machine.

States of all sorts have made their appearance in the last few days and in some precincts Senator New's name is slated by Mayor Shank, who has stamped the State for Beveridge, and in others Beveridge's name is being utilized by the Lemcke-Jewett workers. Everywhere in this county it is a case of trading for the organization control even to the point of inflicting a double-cross upon the candidate who has been led to believe he had the unreserved support of the element which professed to espouse him. That is the way they play politics in Marion County, which strangely enough holds the key to the entire Senatorial race.

BOTH SIDES MAKE CLAIMS.

Both the New and Beveridge head- quarters are claiming victory by large majorities, but the unbiased observer sees a pretty tight contest. Senator New unquestionably is strong among the farmers and appears to have the advantage in Marion County, due to the fact that the Lemcke-Jewett machine seems to be up for a comeback.

Mr. Beveridge has a strong and determined following in the manufacturing cities of the State, due mainly to the fact that unemployment during the winter is laid in many quarters directly at the door of the Harding Administration, and hence, as Senator New is making his race on his record as a member of the presidential family, he is bearing the brunt of this hard feeling. The former Senator also is running strong among the women voters, and while the fair sex is not expected to poll a big vote, contrary to the wishes of the fathers, brothers and husbands, nevertheless it is bound to show some independence, and that will help Mr. Beveridge. The charges and countercharges brought against each of the candidates' records in the World War are not having much effect.

The recitation that Mr. Beveridge's book, "What Is Back of the War," had a pro-German tinge to it probably has hurt him in some quarters, but that has been amply compensated for by his reputation in sections peopled by voters of German extraction. Nor has Mr. Beveridge's cry that a huge slush fund was being expended by the opposition, seriously impeded Senator New's progress because concrete evidence of such contention seems lacking. The policy of the Beveridge orators in attacking the senator for voting to seat Newberry and coupling his name with "Newberryism" has made Beveridge votes in some sections, but has done little general good for the party, it is agreed.

To sum it all up, if Beveridge wins it will be due to his personality and the powerful persuasiveness of his oratory; if Senator New wins it will be because of an ironclad organization and the plea, that a vote for him is a vote of confidence in the Harding Administration. The people are going to vote for the man who personally has appealed to them while the bosses—of whom there are many in Indiana—are supporting the candidate whose nomination will assist them in gaining control of the organization.

At What Age Should You Take Needless Risks With Your Health?

Is that a queer question?

Then many people are doing a queer thing—and often it turns out to be a serious thing.

The Federal Bureau of Education says in its rules for the health of school children that children should not drink coffee or tea.

This rule is based on the well-known fact that the drug element in coffee and tea whips up the nerves, and that serious ills often follow.

If it's a good rule for children to keep away from the harm of nerve-stimulation, isn't it a good rule for everybody?

Think it over.

Granted that your body may stand more, can your judgment afford to risk more? Any doctor can tell you what coffee and tea often do to the health of adults as well as children.

There's no sacrifice in being safe. Postum is a delightful, satisfying mealtime beverage, wholesome and pleasant alike for adults and children. Postum has no age limits!

Your grocer has both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for fully 20 minutes.
