

WOULD ALLOW CABINET RIGHT OF APPEARANCE

Administration Leaders Are Nettled at Recent Attacks.

HAS HARDING APPROVAL

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Nettled by repeated attacks on Cabinet officers, made by members of Congress from the floors of both Houses, a definite movement was launched today by Administration officials to give Cabinet members privileges of the floor in Congress to allow them to meet their critics face to face.

The plan has the indorsement of nearly all the members of President Harding's official family, and it is believed the President himself favors the idea.

Within the last few weeks Attorney General Daugherty has been accused of laxity in prosecuting war-time contract frauds, of shielding profiteers, of playing politics with the Civil Service and lastly, of accepting a $25,000 fee for obtaining a pardon for Charles W. Morse, indicted financier, while practicing law in Ohio.

Secretary of War Weeks has been accused of laxity in adjusting overpayments on war-time contracts, and of complicity in the Bosch Magneto Company deal, consummated under circumstances that are now being investigated by the Department of Justice.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has been accused of using his department to aid "big business," and demand has been made that he resign because of his connections with many big corporations and banks.

Secretary of the Interior Fall has been charged with what amounts to irregularity of leasing Government oil reserve lands to Harry F. Sinclair and a syndicate of wealthy New Yorkers. He also has been accused of plotting to deliver the forest reserves of the United States over to exploiting capitalists.

Secretary of the Navy Denby has been accused of being the "tool for big Navy interests," etc., etc.

In some instances, notably in the case of Attorney General Daugherty and Secretary Mellon, threats of impeachment proceedings have been made.

Administration officials believe that, if Cabinet members are given floor privileges, members of Congress will be "more careful in making promiscuous charges."

Where Will Big Leagues Go Now?

DETROIT, May 3.—In an effort to eliminate "left-handedness" among school children, T. J. Knapp, superintendent of schools at Highland Park, a suburb, has ordered a census taken to learn which children use their left hands in preference to their right.

Following the census, the left-handed children will be taught to write with their right hands, it is announced.

"There is no evidence to support this theory," he said. "No persons should be left-handed, it is an inconvenient habit."

KU-KLUX KLAN DEFENDANTS IN $200,000 SUIT

Libel and Conspiracy Are Charged by Member of Band.

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 3.—Suits for $200,000 alleging libel and conspiracy were filed today against the Ku-Klux Klan by A. W. Sasse, of New Orleans and formerly of Ft. Worth.

Sasse alleged that after he became a member of the organization Klan officials tried to force him to discharge an employee. He refused, he declared, and charges that the defendants "immediately conspired and confederated to ruin the plaintiff, both in reputation and in fortune."

The defendants tried to get Sasse's wife to sue for divorce, the petition alleged.

Sasse, president and general manager of the Consumers Belt and Manufacturing Company here, left for New Orleans last fall.

MAN AND WIFE FOUND DEAD IN PALATIAL HOME

Mystery Surrounds Shooting of Wealthy Boston Couple.

BOSTON, May 3.—Police and representatives of the District Attorney's office were mystified today by circumstances surrounding the deaths by revolver shots of William B. Powell and his wife, Lena Elizabeth Powell, in their palatial home on Chestnut Hill.

Mrs. Powell was left millions by her first husband, R. H. White, the department store founder. Powell is prominent in the business world as resident manager of R. G. Dun & Co., the mercantile reporting firm.

In a crumpled heap against a chair in their drawing room, Mrs. Powell was found dead with two bullet wounds in her arm and one through her heart, by servants aroused by the shots.

Powell was found in his own room upstairs dead with four bullets in his breast.

The police found no clue to the murders beyond a conviction that Powell suddenly went insane.

nest" near Lake Leman, he was preparing for his heiress bride-to-be.

The Swiss horseman is worried at reports from America that friends of the McCormick family have succeeded in winning Mathilde's affections away from him. He denied emphatically they have become estranged, however.

Oser admitted his repeated cables to his fiancée have gone unanswered.

"Probably she is traveling," he said.

Close friends of Mathilde here say she is not traveling and that the marriage will take place.
