

POLICE MAKE DEAD LINES FOR SUSPECTS

Buildings Guarded in Effort to Prevent Violence.

STORY OF CRIME

Miller Said to Have Confessed Part in Killing.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Police "dead lines" were established today about buildings being constructed under the Landis wage award, to guard against bombing and fires at the hands of terrorists.

Guards were stationed at strategic positions. All persons unable to explain satisfactorily their presence in the vicinity are to be apprehended and the guards have orders to "shoot to kill" if resistance is offered. The situation has many of the aspects of martial law.

CONFESSION OF SUSPECT ARRESTED.
The confession of John Miller, driver of the automobile from which two policemen were shot and killed a week ago, in an outbreak of violence attributed to certain factions of the building trades unions, was on record today. Miller is said to have named Charles Daudauskas and "Floater" Stanley as occupants of the car. "Charley," he said, did the shooting.

Police are withholding the names of a man arrested at Wilkesbarre, Pa., in a raid on a convention of the Ukrainian Workmen's Association. The man is believed, however, to have been implicated through Miller's confession.

MURDER CHARGES.
Indictment of Miller and at least three others on murder charges was expected today.

Officials continued today to receive letters threatening reprisals for the arrest of "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader, "Conn" Shea and other labor leaders held as instigators of the "reign of terror" which has followed opposition of several building trades unions to the Landis wage award.

INDIANA COAL RAILROAD TO BE ABANDONED

Interstate Commerce Commission Issues Certificate to Company.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today issued a certificate authorizing the abandonment of the Chicago and Indiana Coal Railway division of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad. The railroad is to be abandoned directly in Indiana.

The authorization of the abandonment of Chicago and Indiana Coal Railway ends a long fight made by residents along the route to save the road.

The road enters Indiana north of Attica, runs through a number of small western Indiana towns and terminates at Brazil.

The public service commission took up the matter of saving the road and attempted, without success, to secure a purchaser.

At one time a delegation of citizens called on Governor McCray, asking that a special session of the Legislature be called, to enact a law that would prevent the abandonment of the road.

The abandonment of the road leaves a number of cities, a great many grain elevators and some coal mines without railroad facilities.

TOWN ARMS TO PREVENT FEUDS

Guards on Duty to Avoid Renewal of Gun Battles in Kentucky Village.

PINEVILLE, Ky., May 18.—This town resembled an armed camp today as the results of the efforts of authorities to prevent a renewal of the trouble between the Coulson-Ball feudists. One man was killed and four were wounded in the courthouse here yesterday when guns took the place of the law in settlement of differences existing between the clans.

Armed guards are on duty around the county jail and also at the hospital where the wounded men were taken. Deputy sheriffs are patrolling the streets in some sections of the city.

Ask $10,000 for Death by Street Car

Ten thousand dollars damages are asked of the Indianapolis Street Railway Company in a suit filed today in Superior Court, room 1, by Robert B. Cocks, administrator of the estate of Maggie R. Week. Mrs. Week died May 9 as the result of an accident at Illinois and Ohio streets, when she was struck by the rear end of a street car.

The car was turning on Ohio street and the front trucks had passed over the switch when the switch sprung back and caused the rear trucks to pass in another direction and strike the rear of the car and fatally injured Mrs. Week.

The grounds for damages, as stated in the complaint, is that the street car company negligently allowed the switch to get in such a state of disrepair that it sprung after once being set.

Noted Author Appreciates Local Institution's Value

Praises Stuart Walker Company for Improved Offerings.

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.
The Stuart Walker Company has become of late years what might be called an Indianapolis institution; an institution it would be a pity to lose. A theatrical company is not like a gallery of paintings; the gallery can stay in place through periods of sparse attendance, but a theatrical company cannot.

Mr. Walker's "offerings" this year are better than ever, and what is more to the point, in an appeal for "popular support," they are more entertaining than ever. We are somewhat slow to appreciate our privileges and to avail ourselves of them when they come to us; we appreciate them more readily perhaps, when we have to go to New York to get them; and yet New York can give us nothing better than what is being offered to us at the Murat.

This week, the writer, dropping in casually for an evening at that theater, was almost startled by the quality of the acting and the extraordinary beauty of the settings. He was unable to think of another actress in the country who could have done just what Marjorie Vonnegut did with the principal role, which is a most difficult and tricky one, but far from being difficult enough to extend Miss Vonnegut's great power nearly to its limit. Moreover, the entire company was composed of actors who would delight the heart of the hardest stage director. And the director must have a hard heart indeed, who would not applaud the work of the fellow craftsmen who produced the scene of the six reporters in "The Acquittal."

GARBAGE AND ASH SYSTEM BREAKS DOWN

that it takes the time of one man answering them. I am enclosing a list of complaints received during the last four hours. So busy has our phone been with complaints that your own office complained only yesterday that it had been unable to get in touch with the street cleaning department.

"You, of course, know we have nothing to do with the collection of garbage and ashes, but a great many of the citizens do not know that the garbage and ashes are under the supervision of the sanitary board. We have made every effort to clean up the alleys. We have, however, been seriously hampered in this work by what seems to be a complete breakdown in the sanitary organization. Their ashes and garbage collection system seems to have suffered a total collapse. We find that alleys everywhere are piled with ashes and garbage, some alleys being almost impassable.

"We are ready and willing to clean all improved alleys, but it is useless to do this unless the winter accumulation of ashes and garbage is removed. In some instances where the condition constituted a menace, we removed the ashes, rubbish and garbage; but with our limited equipment we can not continue this kind of work.

"This department was turned over to us in a deplorable condition. We have about twenty-three teams and five trucks with which to clean about five hundred miles of paved streets and alleys.

"When this department was organized sixteen years ago, the city owned over 100 miles and hired fifty or sixty during the summer. At that time the city had less than one-third of the improved mileage. I earnestly hope that you will find some way to remedy what seems to be a total lack of organization in the collection division of the sanitary board.

"It is my opinion that if this condition is allowed to continue it will constitute a serious menace to public health.

The collection department of the sanitary board have been embroiled in difficulty for weeks, culminating in the discharge two weeks ago of Harrison Collier, negro, superintendent of ash collection and Tuesday in the board letting out to A. M. Buchanan, superintendent of garbage collection, Buchanan openly charged that Truly Nolan, superintendent of sanitation, who has charge of both collection divisions, had purposely demoralized the system in order to reflect discredit upon Collier and him (Buchanan).

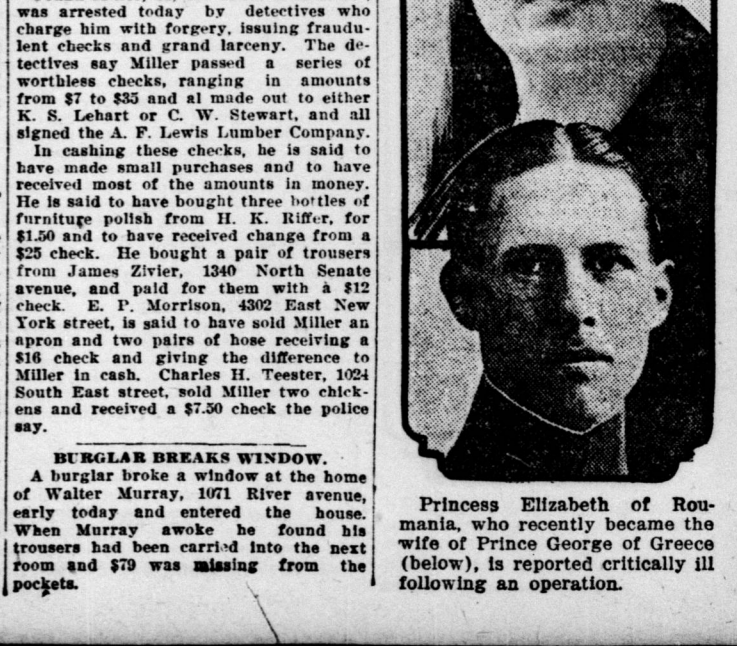

City Engineer John L. Elliott, objected to the firing of the two superintendents unless there was a thorough housecleaning in which Nolan would also be swept out. Mr. Swift and President Jay A. Craven refused to agree to this and Truly Nolan, informing him it is up to him to bring order out of the chaos.

Alleged Check Worker Arrested
Frank Miller, 42, 429 South East street, was arrested today by detectives who charge him with forgery, issuing fraudulent checks and grand larceny. The detectives say Miller passed a series of worthless checks, ranging in amounts from $7 to $35 and at made out to either K. S. Lehart or C. W. Stewart, and all signed the A. F. Lewis Lumber Company.

In cashing these checks, he is said to have made small purchases and to have received most of the amounts in money. He is said to have bought three bottles of furniture polish from H. K. Riffert, for $1.50 and to have received change from a $25 check. He bought a pair of trousers from James Zivier, 1340 North Senate avenue, and paid for them with a $12 check. E. P. Morrison, 4302 East New York street, is said to have sold Miller an apron and two pairs of hose receiving a $16 check and giving the difference to Miller in cash. Charles H. Teaster, 1024 South East street, sold Miller two chickens and received a $7.50 check the police say.

BURGLAR BREAKS WINDOW.
A burglar broke a window at the home of Walter Murray, 1071 River avenue, early today and entered the house. When Murray awoke he found his trousers had been carried into the next room and a state of disrepair that it sprung after once being set.

GENOA READY FOR TRANSFER TO THE HAGUE

Second Invitation to America Held Up on Word From Ambassador.

NON-AGGRESSION PLANS

HOLY LAND
LONDON, May 18.—The League of Nations is withholding from Great Britain the proposed mandate for Palestine, owing to objections from the Vatican, it was learned at the foreign office today. This is the first time the Vatican has intervened actively in international affairs since the war.

GENOA, May 18.—The plan for the Genoa conference convening powers for sending a second invitation to the United States to join in the meeting at The Hague, for appointment of a mixed commission to study the Russian problem, was stopped short today by a verbal message delivered by Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Italy.

GIVE UP HOPE OF U. S. ENTRY.
"We have given up hope of American participation at The Hague," said a statement issued by the British delegation, following the commission meeting.

The British statement was based on the oral statement of Ambassador Child that the "United States is not likely to come into the Russian investigating commission under the scope and the purpose of it, are butting heads."

Premier Lloyd George initiated steps for linking up the Genoa and Hague conferences. He asked Italy to set the stage by cooperating with Holland for the arrangements.

The allied statesmen have not completely given up hope of further communication with Washington on the matter.

PLANS FOR TRUCE FOR THE HAGUE.
The general commission today accepted plans for a truce which will be operative in Europe during the work of the Russian investigating commission at The Hague and for four months afterwards.

The successful termination of the negotiations over the non-aggression pact was a victory for Premier Lloyd George of England, who has taken the lead in pushing it through.

The Genoa conference is rapidly drawing to its close. The final plenary session will be held tomorrow when adjournment will be taken. The next meeting will be held at The Hague on June 15, when a mixed commission will be appointed to consider the Russian problem in detail by taking testimony from a commission of Russian experts. It is expected that the mixed commission will make a report sometime in October.

The taking of the testimony of the Russians will commence on June 26, according to present plans.

NO SEPARATE AGREEMENTS.
The powers signing the truce pact are bound to refrain from any military movements and from making any separate agreements with Russia.

Both Russia and Germany were participants in the meeting today. Delegate Skirmut of Poland, replying to a statement regarding Lithuania, said: "Poland's intentions are most peaceful. She has no intention of attacking."

Commissar Tcherin, speaking for Russia, said that the Russians consider that the truce "binds not only the states on the Russian border, but all states having treaties with Russia."

HORNE REPLACES LLOYD GEORGE
LONDON, May 18.—Premier Lloyd George will not represent Great Britain at The Hague meeting next month, it was formally announced today by the British government.

It is probable that British interests in the meeting at The Hague will be represented by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, and by Sir Philip Graham.

CHILD MESSAGE VOICES POLICY
WASHINGTON, May 18.—The "verbal message" delivered by Richard Washburn Child, American observer at the Genoa conference, referred to in Genoa dispatches as being adopted by the League of Nations, was today the subject of a second invitation to the United States, constituted an outline of this Government's position, it was learned officially today.

Human Fly May Die as Result of Fall at Washington, Ind.
WASHINGTON, Ind., May 18.—The wings of a "human fly" failed him when he stepped from the top of the Davison County courthouse last night and 2,000 spectators saw Mark Redmon, of Pittsburgh, plunge to a ledge thirty feet below.

His wrists were fractured, the bones in one foot were broken and he received internal injuries, which probably will result fatally.

"It will be a hard work for me from now on," the young climber said as he was rushed to the hospital.

PATERNALISM CARRIED TOO FAR, WOOLLEN

Decries Wholesale Forming of Governmental Bureaus.

The wholesale establishment of bureaus, commission and other Government instrumentalities for the conduct and control of business was decried today by Evans Woollen, president of the Fletcher Savings and Trust Company, in an address before the annual convention of the Indiana Canners' Association.

"We have gone and still going too far toward the acceptance of paternalism as a policy of government," declared Mr. Woollen. "The tendency toward the acceptance of that policy was apparent before the war, and during the war it gained much headway."

He said there was some excuse for the existence of a paternalistic policy in the time of war, but averred such a policy in time of peace was bad economically and demoralizing politically.

Mr. Woollen touched on the imperative need of the farmer for intermediate credit, that form which is more than the six months short-time credit and is less than the term of a mortgage loan.

It is possible for the commercial banker to take on some paper for terms longer than six months if he has not loaded his bank with loans that should have gone to the mortgage lender, Mr. Woollen contended. He pointed out there would be less complaint if that the farmer was supplied with intermediate credit if banks serving farmers had excluded mortgage loans from their assets and so kept themselves in condition to meet the needs of their customers.

"The initiative of an individual nation will work out whatever problem there is without taking taxpayers' money for the establishment of credit facilities to be governmentally administered."

The activities of the War Finance Corporation, by being extended six months or a year, was suggested by the speaker as a possible solution of the problem. That Indiana needed no such aid, but other communities did, was one of the salient points made.

"If the farmer's credit is to be conditioned by the government, it is not likely to be a governmental administration."

STATE TRACES FUNDS HANDLED BY LEN SMALL

Contents Grant Park Bank Lent 2 Per Cent Money' at Higher Rates.

RECORDS ARE SHOWN

WAUKEGAN, Ill., May 18.—The State today sought to trace the trail of State funds from the Small treasury through the Grant Park Bank and finally into the hands of Chicago packers.

Witnesses called by the prosecution of Governor Len Small, who is charged with conspiracy to embezzle State funds, told of transfer of funds to the Grant Park Bank when Small was treasurer.

Edward Beck and Edward Trebough, employees of the State treasurer's office at the time, told of making out and recording drafts payable to the Grant Park institution.

Frederick W. Kroll, secretary and treasurer of Armour & Co., was put on the stand by James H. Wilkerson, assistant attorney general.

Kroll brought books of Armour & Co. with him to identify records for the man. Co. notes were purchased by Verne and Edward Curtis, owners of the Grant Park Bank.

The State contends that the Grant Park Bank borrowed money at 2 per cent interest from the State. This money later was loaned to Chicago packers at from 5 1/2 to 8 per cent, the prosecution alleges.

Photographs of records of Armour & Co. were offered as evidence.

Enemy Proposes to Fight Like a Trapped Tiger for Vengeance.

PAO TING FU, China, May 18.—That Gen. Chang Tso-lin, defeated war lord of Manchuria, is on the eve of a new campaign against General Wu Pei fu was shown today by the following telegram received by Wu:

"I am the victim of the press and of Hsu Chang (president of the Chinese republic), who urged me to bring my troops into Chihli. Now I am defeated, but I urge me to make further fight. I advised you to prepare, since I shall fight like a tiger. If I win, I will have vengeance upon the old Pekin scheme. If I lose I will bring down upon him foreign complications by disregarding foreign lives and property and flouting international relations. I will fight to the finish."

The telegram, which had been sent from Langchow, was signed "Chang Tso-lin." General Wu turned the telegram over to the president.

General Wu may not wait for Chang to begin his attack, but may open an assault himself at once.

If fighting again breaks out it is likely that the battlefield will be in the region of Kaiping, north of Tien-Tsin. General Wu has informed the British consul at Tien-Tsin that Chang will be responsible for the loss of life by foreigners and damage to foreign-owned property.
