

Do You Know 'Etiquette' of Flag?

BOY SCOUTS GIVE NORA SOME POINTERS

Should Be Displayed on May 30

BY NORA KAY.

Nineteen minutes after four, even on a warm summer morning, may seem to the sleepy-eyed householders of Indianapolis an hour when only the milkman should be awake, but this morning is one day in the year when the S. E. H. should be on hand to "Good morning" to the man who rattles the milk bottles.

"Sure," replied the bright Indianapolis man when asked if he was awake today with the first early birds seeking the first early worms. "If I hadn't got up, I couldn't have taken the first train for the Speedway."

"Who said anything about the Speedway?" responded the questioner. "May 30 may be Speedway day for several thousand of our native inhabitants and a few thousand visitors from Maine to California, but for a lot more it was Memorial day before the Speedway was ever heard of. In other words, 4:19 means the time to get up to hoist the flag to the morning breeze or hang it from the highest point of the porch."

There is an astonishing amount to be learned regarding correct flag "etiquette," according to one of the Boy Scouts at Scout headquarters who was questioned regarding the proper way to display the flag which hangs from the windows of downtown business houses, fly from lofty poles and be displayed at residences in Indianapolis.

"Hardly any one seems to know just which side the stars should be on when the flag hangs from a porch," said the Scout. "And a lot of people don't know the flag should not be draped like the portieres in front of the parlor folding doors. It may look more artistic to catch it up in the middle and let it drop gracefully on either side, but it shows a lack of respect for the flag. So does using it for an awning over the top of an automobile, something often seen in parades of supposed patriots."

"What about the way to hang it from the porch," he was asked.

"Well, the best information we can get in regard to that says that the stars should be to the right side of the flag as you face it."

"I don't suppose there is any one who does not know that on Memorial Day the flag flies at half mast from sunrise until noon and then is raised to full mast and remains at full mast until sunset, but there's a lot of people don't know in raising the flag to half mast it should be raised clear to the top of the pole and then lowered to half mast. Half mast, by the way, doesn't mean half way to the bottom of the pole, but just the distance of the width of the flag from the top of the pole."

"And if you have ever seen the 're-treat' or lowering of the flag, at a military post, you will see how carefully it is caught before it touches the ground. That's something for civilians to think about.

"And these decorating committees that drape the speakers stand for the Fourth of July picnic with the American flag, ought to realize it should never be placed lower than the speaker, and it isn't the proper thing to set the pitcher of ice water on either. The Holy Bible is the only thing that should ever be allowed to rest on the flag."

"If it is down on a pole with other flags near by, it should have the tallest pole and be raised before any other flag. If two flags are displayed together the American flag should have the place of honor at the right, and in a parade it should either precede the other flags or be carried in the center on a taller staff than the rest. And no flag that is torn or soiled should ever be used."

"What are you going to do with the flags that have worn out in service or taken on too much of the Indianapolis coal smoke to be recognizable?" the Scout was asked. "It's looks sort of disrespectful to throw them out or sell them to the rag man."

"It is. Don't ever throw the flag away or let it be treated as a rag, no matter how torn it is. Burn it—but don't make a public ceremony of the burning."

Members of the Indianapolis executive committee, in charge of arrangements for the national convention of the American Optometric Association to be held at Indianapolis June 25-30, discussed further plans at a noon luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

H. M. Cantwell, general chairman, presided. Announcement was made by A. C. Waggoner that members of the Indianapolis optometric club, the American Club and the Lions Club had signified their willingness to assist in rounding up the week folk of the town, who will be guests the afternoon of June 27, at a circus fostered by the Optometric Association at the State fairground.

Among those attending the luncheon were H. E. Woodsmall, secretary of the Indiana Association of Optometrists, and chairman of both the transportation and the credentials committee for the coming convention; W. A. Nichols and E. O. Noggle, chairman of the division of promotion. Dr. G. S. Grubb of Marion, Ind., was a guest.
