

DAUGHTER AND MOTHER MEET AFTER 17 YEARS

Chicago Woman Successful in Long Search for Her Lost Child.

LAS ANIMAS, Colo., June 7.—With a joyous cry and with her eyes welling with tears, Mrs. Elizabeth Braham of Chicago, clasped to her bosom Miss Dolores Foulk, her eighteen-year-old daughter, at the railroad station here, when mother and daughter were reunited after a separation of seventeen years.

Seated on a bench in the station waiting room, Mrs. Braham told, with mingled sobs and laughter, of the long search she had made for the girl, who, as a baby, she had left in the care of relatives in Telluride, Colo., after she had become widowed and set out to make her way to success in the business world.

For many months Mrs. Braham kept in touch with her daughter, but as time went on the line of communication was broken between the mother and Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Foulk of Telluride, who had the baby in charge.

The child grew up in the Foulk family, never knowing but what she was a real sister to the other children of the household. It was only a few years ago that she learned her real identity.

Six years ago the Foulk family came here from Telluride. Dolores graduated from the Bent County High School in the class of 1921 and immediately took a position as bookkeeper in a Las Animas store, where she is now employed.

The Foulks, not having heard from Dolores' mother for many years, concluded that she was dead.

Mrs. Braham, the young widowed mother of Dolores, disclaimed any intention of deserting the baby. Bowed with grief and driven by a desire to secure lucrative employment in order to establish a home for herself and child, she started out. But the trail was long and winding and constantly led her farther away from Telluride.

In Chicago Mrs. Foulk met and married a man named Braham, who was killed in a railroad wreck in the city in October, 1921.

Following her second bereavement Mrs. Braham took up the search for her daughter, and, after exchanging many letters with persons in Telluride, Curry, Pueblo and Las Animas, she located the missing child, now a young business woman, herself.

Mrs. Braham left Chicago immediately and for the past week has been enjoying the loving companionship of her daughter.

Mrs. Braham plans to leave here for Chicago soon to close up her business affairs, but declares she will return and make her home here with Miss Dolores.

CADET CORPS TRAINS YOUTHFUL RADIO FANS

A DETAIL OF THE RADIO CADET CORPS. ARROW SHOWS COLONEL E. SCHEUBLE. AT RIGHT, CADET IRVING GLANTZ, 10, HOLDING WHAT IS CLAIMED TO BE THE FIRST RADIO SET.

BY COL. ERNEST E. SCHEUBLE, Commander, Radio Cadet Corps.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Eventually every one will be a radio fan.

So why not start breaking him in early?

That's what we are doing in the Radio Cadet Corps, the first organization of its kind in the country.

At the age of 9 we begin teaching the youngster the fundamentals of wireless, by the time he is 12 or 13, he is a full fledged fan—knowing enough about a radio set to make practical use of it.

He can rig up his outfit anywhere. He can "listen in" and receive not only the broadcast programs, but the code messages that are flashing through the air at all times.

The call of radio seems universal. The boy in the crowded city is just as keen to become an adept at it as his brother on the farm.

For disciplinary reasons it is suggested that the corps be formed on a military basis—with some distinctive uniform to give the group a solidarity.

It will help make them snappy.

At the recent radio show in New York our boys won many prizes for their exhibits.

We are now going on week-end hikes. No matter where we camp out, the boys are always able to keep in touch with their homes—by radio.

It is rapidly becoming the new outdoor American sport.

LET'S HOPE CATS SLEEP!

BIRMINGHAM, England, June 7.—According to the Bishop of Birmingham, "happiness and joy in the next world will not be complete without animals."

There are several hundred in the corps now—and the number is growing rapidly.

I see no reason why similar groups should not be organized throughout the country.

Radio Experts Seek Way to Perfect Secrecy in Transmitting.

BY PAUL F. GODLEY, America's Foremost Radio Authority.

Eventually means will be found whereby radio messages will be sent in comparative secrecy.

Many steps tending toward this end have already been announced. But the chief drawback to all present methods has been the expense of equipment.

There are two methods of insuring secrecy in the transmission of radio messages.

The first—the one which is most likely to be used in the near future—consists in broadcasting a type of wave which cannot be translated by the receiver unless that instrument has been so constructed as to contain the "key."

DISTORTION METHOD.

In installations of this type, the radio wave is produced in the usual manner. The voice which is to be carried by the wave is thrown upon it. Then the whole is distorted in a way known only to the receiver.

Upon arriving at the distant station, the receiver signal is again "distorted" in a manner exactly equal and opposite to the first distortion, with the result that the telephone signal is again intelligible.

This type of secrecy has the drawback that, in addition to going directly to that one person for whom it is intended, it also spreads in every direction, and acts as interference except for its own station.

A second method of sending radio messages in secrecy and one upon which a great deal of effort has been spent, is that of direct z the radio wave along a given path so that the transmitted energy travels along that path alone. The message is capable of reception only by stations which are in that path.

TRANS-UT.

This would reduce to a great extent the possibility of radio telephone conversations being intercepted by those for whom they were not intended.

Transmitting systems of this type were used by our expeditionary forces on the western front with considerable success. It should be but a few years before the high-powered stations which plan to provide intercontinental radio telephone service will be utilizing systems of this sort.

A combination of these two systems would insure practically complete secrecy in radio communication.

Some such combination undoubtedly will be perfected by radio engineers as simpler methods and easier ways of performing the complicated functions of a radio transmitter and receiver are discovered.

FORGIVES WIFE, WITH ADMIRER

She Denies She Loves New Mate, but Wanted Career.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, June 7.—Mrs. Grace Blasingame, young society matron of Woodward, Okla., in jail at Iowa City with B. L. Campbell, with whom she eloped, hopes to be able to return home with her husband and her father, L. A. Gaines, wealthy banker. The district attorney is expected to decide soon whether the woman and man will be prosecuted on a Mann act charge.

Blasingame has forgiven her wife, according to Mr. Gaines, and is waiting for the jail doors to open and restore her to him. She assured her husband that, while she eloped with Campbell, she has committed no wrong, though they were arrested together in Louisiana, Mo., last week.

Campbell is wanted in Iowa City, this city and numerous other places, police say, on a charge of issuing worthless checks drawn on the Gaines Bank. He will be prosecuted.

Campbell says the woman loves him and he loves her. She denies this and says the reason she left her husband was because Campbell had promised her a stage career.
