

L PRESENT MUSICAL SHOW FOR HOT T. B. M.

Midsummer Night's Frolic Title of Summer Entertainment Here.

ED MYERS IS PRODUCER
Hester C. Bailey and Ballet, Also Baby Iris, to Be Featured.

A Midsummer Night's Frolic is to be the title of a musical show to be presented at an Indianapolis theater within the next few weeks by Fred Myers, newspaper humorist and song writer. Mr. Myers was in vaudeville for several years and is the author of numerous songs, skits and other vaudeville material.

He has written the book, lyrics and music for the entire production which will be staged in elaborate fashion.
The Hester C. Bailey ballet will be featured and Baby Iris, "the vest-pocket Venus," also is to appear in character songs. The company will number about thirty people and the principal players, it is announced, will be professional theatrical folk.

Opening Bill at Garfield Theater.

NEW PLAYERS TO APPEAR

Performances to Be Given Each Evening Save Saturday and Sunday.

The second city-owned park theater will be opened Monday night at Garfield Park.

The opening will be "The Man From Mexico," which is being presented this week by the Municipal Players at Brookside Park where the first city owned theater has been in operation about a month.

The Brookside company will be moved to Garfield Park for next week and a new company will appear at Brookside beginning Monday night in "Where the River Shannon Flows."

In the new company, Walter Mc-Donald, who has just closed with the Victoria Players in Chicago, and Florence Lewin, formerly of the Hawkins-Webb Company, will play the leads in the opening bill.

Performances will be given at both theaters each evening with the exception of Saturday and Sunday nights.

THREE-MILE ZONE MENACE SEEN IN PLEASURE SHIP

'Incidental Drunk' Adds to Summer Worries of Congressional Dry Leaders.

ADVERTISEMENTS ALLURING

Wayne B. Wheeler Wants Limit Fixed at Twenty-Five Miles Instead of Three.

By C. C. LYON,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The "incidental drunk" is a new device of the wets to beat the Volstead act. Sounds positively devilish.

Add it to the rest of the summer worries of the professional dries.
The "incidental drunk" itself is bad enough, but it becomes, according to dry leaders, a "shame, a disgrace, a downright horror" when placed in its latest setting, viz:

"An atmosphere of festivity, enchanting orchestration, the most beautiful of Europe's women, selected for their artistic ability as exponents of classic and operatic singing, and a feast prepared by the best chefs from abroad."

The Anti-Saloon League has informed Congress that all this—and more—is being promised in advertisements by a concern in New York that is preparing to open a "recreation ship" just outside the three-mile limit.

Wayne B. Wheeler, congressional agent of the league, wants Congress to torpedo the ship with a law making the ocean dry for a distance of at least twenty-five miles off shore instead of three miles, as at present.

Wheeler, who says he never took a drink in his life and who has the reputation of being a thoroughgoing Christian, feels that folks wouldn't travel the extra twenty-two miles on the ocean just for the sake of getting drunk in the atmosphere pictured by the wet advertisements.

The "incidental drunk" part follows "naturally," according to the advance notices.

Wheeler has prepared an elaborate legal brief to convince Congress it has the right to fix any number of miles it pleases as the limit of the ocean jurisdiction of the United States.

For the protection of fish, he points out, various limits beyond the three-mile line have been claimed and accepted from time to time.

How much more important, then, is it to protect American citizens from "genuine wines, beers and champagne" sold aboard ships that specialize in "an atmosphere of festivity, enchanting orchestration, the most beautiful of Europe's women,
selected for their artistic ability?"

Arrested on Tiger Charge Sam Clayton and Joan McClintock, living in Fleming Gardens, an additional west of the city, were arrested on blind tiger charges early today.
