

Partnership Is All's Plan To Develop Lands

Secretary of Interior Would Give Government and Private Efforts.

Policy of Policy Wanted

Will Go Ahead With Pro-Opening Up Resources
Despite Objections.

By FRANK J. TAYLOR.

Press Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, July 1.—Form ships between the Government state business to develop Amercious public resources, and wealth for both partners.

In a word, is the dream of Al-Fall, secretary of the interior, an of the bulk of the public's resources, worth billions upon of dollars.

Would Do It Now

wants to do it now. He is man for the school that does believe in leaving potential wealth in the ground. His policy would be that of the conservationists, in Washington since the Roosevelt regime. Fall is going ahead only, opening up public reserves, be they petroleum deposits, mines, lands, or Alaskan forests and rivers.

Now I'll be damned for what I'm saying, but I believe in the thing, I had to take the the horns, and spend some to protect our public properties.

Says Congress Needs Jolt takes a jolt to get action out of Congress. The President is with us, if we had to wait for Congress, it'd be no development at all of resources.

He was speaking of Alaska then.
That policy would you establish respect to all public natural resources, Mr. Secretary?" We ought to have a revolving fund the interior Department for the purpose of pioneering," Secretary Fall said, "I would drill wells, for example, in Alaska and find out what petroleum up there is worth." Then I could drive a bargain with companies at the greatest profit to Government. Let them develop field, after we had pioneered in it, a royalty basis. The Government could make the private interests its partners."

Does Thrilling Air Stunts

Such feats as changing from a racing automobile to a speedy airplane and hanging by her teeth on a rope attached to a plane wing are among the thrills which Lillian Boyer, 19, aviatrix, will do in her flying circus at the State fairground auto races and circus on July 4.

Several automobile drivers of note in dirt track racing will pilot cars.
Miss Boyer arrived in Indianapolis today and is staying at the Hotel English. Billy Brock, stunt flyer, is piloting the airplane used by Miss Boyer.

Federation To Ask New School For West Side

Petition Urging Construction Is Read by Hawthorne Club Head.

A petition urging the building of a west side high school will be presented to the school commissioners at the next meeting by the Federation of Indianapolis Civic Clubs.

The petition was read at a meeting of the federation by the Rev. Clarence G. Baker, president of the Hawthorne Civic Association, in the Chamber of Commerce building last night, when it was voted to present the petition.

The proposed site is the southwest corner of Belmont Ave. and Washington St.

The petition was signed by the Rev.
Mr. Baker, George W. Beaman, C. H.
Bird, J. Edward Morris, W. A. Adams, Dr. C. H. Wintersand C. J. Gilbreck.

A report criticizing the sanitary conditions at the market house was presented by John F. White, secretary of the federation.

The July meeting will be devoted to the discussion of municipal ownership of public utilities.

'IS THIS ALL YOU GOT?'

Burglar Awakens Victim to Complaint of Meager Haul.

"Beggars can't be choosers," but burglars can try to be, decided Joe Bell, 529 Kentucky Ave.

Joe slumbered soundly. A rude shaking awakened him.

"Haven't you any more money than was in your pants?" asked a man who held a revolver in Joe's face.

He did not, so the burglar and a companion left with only $23.50.

KILLS CAT; NO VACATION

"Never Again," Says Cop Who Slept Ebony-Hued Feline.

"Never again will I kill a black cat," declared Desk Sgt. Fred Louckes at police headquarters today.

"I did not believe killing a black cat would bring bad luck and I killed one last night. When I arrived at headquarters today I was told the vacations and days off of all policemen have been postponed because of the railroad strike. My vacation was to have started tomorrow."

POLICE GET DOG BURGLAR

Collie Wags Tail and Is Right Glad To Meet Cops.

The police emergency squad captured a "burglar" at 2 a. m. today, who really seemed glad to meet the police.

The "burglar" was a fine collie who wagged his tail and barked. Mrs.
Fred Wolfe, 5527 E. Washington St., telephoned the police that she heard some one prowling around the house and trying to open the bathroom window. The police investigated and declare the prowler was the dog.

Chamber of Commerce Men Attend Bean Eating Bee

By NORA KAY.

The Army didn't eat all the beans in the world, neither did the circus elephants consume all the peanuts.

At least, it didn't look that way to the members of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, who made a visit of inspection to the big plant of the Van Camp Packing Company Friday afternoon and made the acquaintance of the peanuts and the beans and the chile and the pork and a few of the other Van Camp products that help the young Juno bride to cook like mother is supposed to have done.

And, speaking of cooking, mother's best efforts couldn't have excelled the meal to which the visitors were invited to help themselves as soon as they reached the plant.

Good Time Is Had

It was a regular Thanksgiving and Christmas and Fourth of July picnic all in one. Fried chicken, heaping piles of potato chips, every known variety of sandwich, fat, juicy olives and slim, green pickles, lemonade, coffee, tea and a glorious finish of heaping dishes of ice cream and cake just sat around asking to be eaten, with no limitation except conscience and capacity, and by the time everybody had sampled a little of everything they were at the state of utter contentment where even a peanut held no lure.

Peanuts Show Off

The peanuts, however, tried their best to be interesting. They did a most marvelous "shimmy," a regular "dance of the seven veils," in which they went into a big machine all dressed up in a modest brown skin and came out with nothing on but a delicious roasted hue, after which they passed before a sort of national board of censorship which deleted all but the very nicest peanuts and ended their brief career in the peanut butter machine.

IN NATION'S CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, July 1.—M. Jules Henry, second secretary of the French embassy, a World War veteran and a favorite in the diplomatic colony, is having trouble with his neighbors because of the quality and quantity of the hospitality at his Monroes St. residence. Diplomatic immunity has forestalled police action invoked by irate—and doubtless thirsty—neighbors, who presented a petition setting forth their sleep was being shattered by reverberations of gaiety from the Henry domicile. One party ran well along toward morning, it was contended, and ran in high all the way. M. Henry says the "whole thing is false" and that he never once violated the peace and quiet of the community.

Standardizing Random

Capture of American and British citizens by Mexican bandits who demand ransom from bargain rates to "unconscionable proffering," calls to mind that during the Wilson administration Albert B. Fall, then a Senator, now Secretary of the Interior, suggested a ransom bureau in Washington. He advocated standardization of ransom charges, but he feared it might be necessary on occasions to use the United States Army for delivery of ransom in order to insure its reaching the hands of the bandits entitled to receive it.

Embassy Shows Change

Callers at the German embassy find a new and refreshing atmosphere of democracy prevailing there. The change typifies Dr. Otto L. Wiedfeldt, the new German ambassador. The pomp and ceremony insisted upon by count Von Bernstorff is gone. In its place is a welcome that is diffident, but none the less cordial.

When a correspondent has occasion to call on the German ambassador, which is becoming more frequent, he is not required to "cool his heels" in an anteroom for hours.

Adams Fine Entertainer

John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee, is passing the summer in Washington, although his family has gone to Dubuque, Iowa. In the role of "summer bachelor," Mr. Adams is a star has a delightful apartment in mann Park Hotel, overlooking Creek, and finds Republican in-seldom send regrets for informcussion for campaign strategy.

Incidentally, the "biggest votter" in the National Capital President Harding rolled up 7,000,000 majority, is Walter Johpitching ace of the Nationals. sixteen years official Washington been falling at the feet of the ular player in honest hero wor-Yet politicians who think they o-to know about the whims of masses have been mourning the ping of Johnson.

ASKED TO CLOSE SUNDAY

Auto Accessory Firms Agree To Association Head Says.

Twenty-five Indianapolis re-auto accessory firms have agreed to close Sundays, a report John B. Orman, manager of the Indianapolis Auto Trade Associat-shows. The local association started a campaign to ask all to Sunday, July 2.
