

APPEAL TAKEN FROM DECISION ON LABOR BOARD

Injunction Ruling Will Be Reviewed by U. S. Supreme Court.

QUESTION OF AUTHORITY

Pending Final Order, Case of Pennsylvania Will Be Withheld.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 24.—Notice of an appeal from the decision of the United States Circuit Court dissolving the injunction obtained by the Pennsylvania Railroad restraining the railroad labor board from making public its rulings was filed today.

The case, which involves the authority and jurisdiction of the board, will be carried to the Supreme Court. Pending a decision by the higher court, the board's ruling on the Pennsylvania's refusal to meet with representatives of the employees to draw up working rulings probably will be withheld.

"The entire effectiveness of the transportation act rests with this case," Judge H. M. Jones, vice chairman of the board, stated today.

Bitterly Attacks Policy
The ruling of the board was understood to bitterly attack the road for dealing with representatives of "company unions" and refusing to meet with the regularly constituted representatives of the Shop Craft's Union. In case the board's position is upheld, Barton stated, the Pennsylvania will be forced to submit to a vote of all shop workers, whether or not they desire the company heads to represent them.

Will Unwritten Law of Itself Spare Woman Who Is Being Accused as Killer?

By NEA Service
LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Will the "unwritten law," for years the plea of jealous husbands who have killed, save from the gallows Mrs. Clara Phillips, victim of gossip?

This is the question on the lips of all Los Angeles as the 23-year-old wife and slayer awaits trial here for the killing of Mrs. Albert Meadows, pretty young widow whom Mrs. Phillips accused of undue intimacy with her husband.

The husband, A. L. Phillips, an oil man, denies his wife's charges concerning Mrs. Meadows—but no witness denies that Mrs. Phillips believed with all her heart, and that she hammered her victim to death, believing her the violator of her home.

Unfounded Rumor

Evidence has failed to show convincing ground for Mrs. Phillips' suspicion, yet somewhere a hint, a bit of covert gossip, or a self-developed pang in an emotionally high-keyed heart, started the insane jealousy which ended in death for one and the arrest of the other.

"A victim of gossip," say all who knew Mrs. Meadows. "She was innocent—it was the lying tongue of scandal; the poisonous filth of slanderous minds that brought her to her death." "A victim of gossip," say all who know Mrs. Phillips. And her husband echoes it.

"It was the scandal-mongers, the lying tale-bearers and innuendos that poisoned her mind against Mrs. Meadows," they say.

Abnormal Jealousy

Jealousy—a jealousy which the mere death of her supposed rival could not appease, a jealousy which drove manded the feel of tortured flesh beneath repeated blows; which demanded disfigurement. For the wife did not purchase a revolver, but a hammer, according to the woman police says was an eye-witness, Mrs. Peggy Caffee.

This is the story of Mrs. Caffee as she told it to the press:

"Mrs. Phillips and I went shopping Wednesday (July 12). At the first store which we went, Mrs. Phillips purchased a hammer.

"Later we met Mrs. Meadows, evidently by appointment. Mrs. Phillips asked Mrs. Meadows to drive us in her car to her sister's house. Mrs. Meadows directed the way, and we drove to a lonely road. Then—

"Stop, damn you! I want to talk to you," Mrs. Phillips commanded. "Mrs. Meadows left the car and Mrs. Phillips followed.

Accuses Mrs. Meadows

"Mrs. Phillips accused Mrs. Meadows of intimacy with Mr. Phillips. There was an argument, and Mrs. Phillips struck with the hammer, the blow glancing off the other woman's shoulder. Mrs. Meadows ran, but Mrs. Phillips overtook her and brought her back, raining blow after blow upon her victim's head and face as she dragged her by the hair."

Mrs. Caffee, almost overcome by the sight, staggered down the road, half-fainting, she told her questioners. Soon Mrs. Phillips overtook her in the car and made her enter. They drove home.

"She threatened me with death if I ever said a word about the affair," Mrs. Caffee said with a frightened look in her eyes.

Husband's Story

Here Mrs. Phillips' husband picks up the story, as the police have it: "She came home to me and thought she had done something to be proud of," he says.

"Your pretty sweetheart is not so pretty now," she told me.

"She wanted to give herself up. She thought the authorities would believe she was justified."

But the husband knew better and counseled her against surrender. So she fled to Arizona. She was arrested at Tucson, where she was staying under an assumed name. Phillips, tortured by a hundred conflicting emotions, had told the story to police. The prisoner denied the charges—even denied the identity—but was locked up and later was brought back here.

CITY EMPLOYEE TELLS ABOUT HIS TROUBLES

Evansville Man Says Tan-lac Is Only Thing That Ever Did Him Any Good—Stomach Troubles Overcome And He Now Feels Fine.

"Tan-lac seemed to hit my case at once and four bottles have made a new man of me," said Ivan Smith, 702 Walnut St., Evansville, Ind., well-known city employee.

"My kidneys were terribly disordered and it was all I could do to stay on the job. The hurting and aching would keep me awake for hours at night and my nerves got so unstrung it seemed they would go all to pieces. After eating anything my stomach would ache and cramp me terribly and I would become so dizzy I could hardly sit in a chair.

"But now I don't have an ache or pain, can eat just anything, my kidneys never trouble me and I feel fine. Tan-lac has sure done the work for me and I am mighty glad I got hold of it."

NATION'S SUPPLY OF COAL RAPIDLY BEING CONSUMED

Official Figures Show Industry Will Be Paralyzed if Strike Continues.

RAILROADS MAY FOLLOW

Railroads Will Lead Select Few Should Residue Tonnage Fall Lower.

By C. C. LYON
Times Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—Official government figures are proof that industrial America will be paralyzed if the coal strike continues another three weeks.

This is assuming that President Harding's latest idea of having union mines operate "open shop" under State and federal protection fails, materially to increase the present output of approximately 5,000,000 tons weekly from non-union mines.

The present weekly consumption of coal is about 9,000,000 tons. This means the Nation's reserve coal pile is being depleted 4,000,000 tons a week. The coal reserve April 1, when the strike began, was estimated at 68,000,000 tons.

Government experts figure the reserve will be down practically to zero in three weeks. Then the country, with a weekly demand for 9,000,000 tons, will have to adjust itself to a 5,000,000-ton weekly production.

Who's going to get the 5,000,000 tons if the government doesn't step in and ration it to the railroads, public utilities, factories, steel mills and the domestic consumers?

Railroads Come First

According to the U. S. Geological survey the railroads alone normally consume 2,700,000 tons of coal a week; steel and iron industries, 1,480,000 tons; domestic consumers, 1,100,000 tons; manufacturing plants, 2,700,000 tons; electric utilities, 580,000; artificial gas plants, 90,000; Canadian exports, 320,000; cement-making plants, 190,000; foreign exports, 140,000; and coal mine fueling, 210,000.

The railroads, first of all, will take from the 5,000,000-ton weekly available supply the 2,700,000 tons they need for their own operation. They can do this by diverting coal that is sent over to them for shipment, regardless of to whom it is consigned.

Steel Companies Next

The next favored consumers are the steel plants, many of which own and operate non-union mines that are now producing coal. In delivering coal, the railroads can be counted on to favor the steel makers above all other forms of industry.

Experts here can see nothing but a dire famine ahead for the tons of thousands of factories throughout the country, as well as the millions of domestic consumers.

A startling feature is the fact that very little coal is reaching lake ports for shipment to the Northwest, which heretofore has always filled its coal bins during the summer months.
