

MARION COUNTY STUDENTS ATTEND SUMMER SESSION

Eighty-Nine Are Enrolled at Indiana University This Summer.

DR. H. L. SMITH DIRECTOR

Dean of School of Education Is One of Nation's Foremost Educators.

By Times Special

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Aug. 2.—Dr. H. L. Smith, dean of the school of education of Indiana University, president of the Indiana State Teachers Association and newly elected vice president of the National Education Association, is director of the summer session at Indiana University, being attended by ninety-nine students from Indianapolis and Marion County.

Dean Smith is one of the foremost educators in the United States. He holds the A. B. and A. M. degrees from Indiana University, the A. M. degree from Columbia University and the Ph. D. degree from Clark University. From 1901 to 1916 he served as superintendent of schools at Brookville, Bloomington, Indianapolis and Minneapolis.

He organized the system of Government schools in the Panama Canal Zone. During 1918-19 he served as superintendent and later as chief of the rehabilitation division of the Federal board for vocational education. He has been dean of the school of education here since 1916 and director of the summer session for the past three years.

PRINCETON—Black ooze trickling down gutters here showed an attempt by all East State St. paving to run away from heat waves.

SULLIVAN—Local citizens will soon be missing the golf ball, a site for a country club having been selected.

LAFAYETTE—Discovered, a new mosaic, affecting the tomato, and it's a very deadly disease to the Indiana crop, says a Purdue bulletin.

HUNTINGTON—Control the speeders before they lose control. Police Chief Baker said in a statement to the force.

VINCENNES—See west on tire—four Verne boys buy tire and start west, a local paper asserts.

COLUMBUS—Burglars here are none too cool. They robbed the Flatiron restaurant of an electric fan and silk umbrella.

WINCHESTER—Miss Anna Tooker and Wilbur Longnecker are having a neck-and-neck race for county auditor nomination, the former declared winner by eight votes and the latter by eleven.

OAKTOWN—Peaches as they are grown in Knox County, will be shown horticulturists in convention at B. H. Yates' orchard here.

COLUMBUS—Unprintable were the words passed between Capt. Ed Bishop of the police force and "Cap" Havil, a newspaper reporter, who mixed in biff-bang style on a street corner.

TIPTON—Friends of "Billy" Jarrett, superintendent of county roads, claims he has a nose for gravel like a coon dog has for coon, and has saved the county much money.

MARION—County historians digging in Indian lore have uncovered such cognomens as Meshingomies and Antoptonyah of the Miami tribe.

LAFAYETTE—Because of the coal shortage families here are ordered by city officials not to let water run all night so they can have cold baths in the morning.

DELPHI—Life in the log cabin era of Indiana was described by John C. Odell, a pioneer, in an address here.

DECATUR—Sixty-five miles was the distance traveled by a toy balloon sent up by Earl Wintergerg at Berne, Ind., and which landed at Hume, Ohio.

COLUMBUS—Kaiser Bill has the wrong hunch, a monarchy will never return in Germany, Dr. O. C. Breitenbach, who has just returned from Europe, declares.

TIPTON—Many little red school houses are still holding their own, even though consolidated schools are being built, and many people are in favor of their continuance, recent meetings in this county have revealed.

BLOOMINGTON—Gardens of the European variety will be studied by Harry Newton, who has gone abroad.

LAFAYETTE—Prohibition has not killed all the rattlesnakes, one put to death by C. E. Carte near West Point measured four feet and had twelve rattles.

ANDERSON—Pistol shots were used as a fire alarm by a policeman and saved the life of Charles R. Kessler, who was asleep, when flames destroyed a grocery store.

SHELBYVILLE—Sixty-seven years

Licensing of Operators Insures Added Safety for Ships at Sea

By PAUL F. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority.
With the great emphasis on broadcasting and radio telephony, one should not forget that the most important use of wireless lies in ship-to-ship and ship-to-shore communication. The fate of a vessel in distress may easily hinge on the familiarity of the radio operator with his equipment and his ability to use it to the greatest advantage.

All passenger-carrying vessels which navigate at a distance from land are required by law to carry radio apparatus. The number of operators carried depends upon the number of passengers and the distance covered. But in all cases, operators are required, both here and in foreign lands, to pass rigid examinations before receiving their licenses.

Emergencies
These examinations are given not only with a view to determining the speed at which an operator can converse by means of the telegraphic code, but also to find out how he would act in an emergency. Tests are given to determine if the applicant is well enough grounded in the principles which govern the action of the radio transmitter to make the necessary repairs when in trouble.

Great ingenuity is often required to rig up an emergency set to send out an S. O. S. after flooded engine rooms have put out the fires and cut off the current.

Operators working in land stations are also licensed. Even the amateurs without a quarrel is the record of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jones, 88 and 84 years, respectively, who just celebrated their sixty-seventh wedding anniversary.

TIPTON—Minor troubles at the Lake Erie and Western Railroad were magnified by rumors here to the size of riots.

FRANKFORT—Horse thieves beware, the fifth branch of the Horse-Stealing Detective Association has been organized at Hillsburg.

Germany Twice AS DANGEROUS AS KANSAS CYCLONE

'Gangrenous' Condition Will Affect All Nations of World Eventually.

CRISIS IS CLOSE AT HAND

'You Wait, You Will See,' Ominous Warning Heard on All Sides.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Germany's condition at this moment is about as static as a Kansas twister and twice as dangerous.

It's very well for those of you who are not interested in Germany and its life or death to say it's all very well; brought it on themselves; let 'em take their medicine; imagine what they'd have done to us if they had won; we're all right over here in the United States; they can't touch us; nothing the matter with our country. That line of reasoning is as childish as to say: "I've blood poisoning in my left leg and gangrene has set in, but the rest of my body is perfectly healthy. Yes, sir. Rest of me is sound as a dollar."

United States Not Exempt

The fate of Germany in the next few weeks or months is going to affect the world, including the United States of America some thousands of miles away. When gangrene sets in—and it probably has by now—the rest of the world is going to begin to turn dark mottled and to pick at the coverlets.

stand July Fourth appeared harmless enough on the surface. It was planned by the Labor party as a protest against the murder of Rathenau. Thousands and thousands of men and women marching, marching, in orderly rows, carrying banners and singing. No violence, no shooting, no disorder. But a Russian just behind me in the crowd watching the procession pass by said:

"I tell you it is curious. This is exactly the way it started with us in Russia. You wait; you will see."

"You Wait, You Will See."

During my stay in Berlin I had heard that said many times. "You wait, you will see." I heard it said by waiters and shop keepers and bankers and impoverished rich (the Nouveau Pauvre, it calls itself). Always I asked, "What do you mean?" Always they answered with an infinity of make one's blood run cold, thus:

"There will be another war. We will fight again as soon as we are strong. The treaty of Versailles must be wiped out. We will form an alliance with Russia and with Austria. Then we shall go Bolshevik. There will be another war. Wait. You will see."

Germany Will Resist

There are many who laugh at this. But me, I think they mean it. I hope I'm wrong. Austria, thus far, has taken its medicine lying down. But Germany, sullen, resentful, hideously depressed, is going to resist or I'm a scaredy-cat. Talk to any German for fifteen minutes and he'll be on the subject of the fourteen points, Wilson, France, the treaty of Versailles, the valuta (value of the mark), and something he calls lotchoroh and by which you dazedly realize he means Lloyd George.

FIND ROOMER'S BODY

Charles Collins, 55, Missing for Week; Corpse in Room.
The body of Charles Collins, 55, a roomer at 1150 1/2 Roosevelt Ave., was found by Earl McDonald of the same address late Tuesday afternoon. Collins had not been seen for a week and McDonald, looking through the transom, saw the body in a kneeling position by the side of the bed. Collins was believed to have been praying when he died. Death was pronounced due to natural causes.
