

TAX LEVY SET AT 23 CENTS IN MARION COUNTY

Road Contingent Fund Brings
Total for 1923 Up to 27 Cents.

APPROPRIATIONS ARE CUT

Council Slashes $200,000
From Budget of $1,485,000
—Protests Heard.

The county tax rate for 1923 was fixed at twenty-three cents by the county council today. With the road contingent fund, the total county levy will be twenty-seven cents, the same as 1922.

The council cut $200,000 from the budget of $1,485,000. Cuts and slashes in practically all appropriations, protests by county officers and petitions by various citizens marked today's session of the council.

Among the protests was that of Dr. H. S. Hatch on behalf of the appropriation for Sunnyside Tuberculosis Hospital. Leo K. Foster, county auditor, had recommended the institution be allowed $167,000 for the year 1923.

Appropriation Questions
The office of the Marion County agricultural agent came into the limelight when the council questioned the advisability of appropriating $1,500 for its use next year.

Politics Not Present
Appropriation was asked for county school nurses on the provision that the Parent-Teacher Club pick the nurses. The commissioners assured the ladies that politics had not entered into the selection of nurses in the past.

Citizens from along Delaware St. petitioned the county commissioners for an appropriation for a bridge on that street across Fall Creek.

FLIER OF JITNEY TYPE

Curtiss Experiments With Small Glider Which Cost About $1,000.

By United Press
PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Sept. 6.—Glenn M. Curtiss, veteran aviator, today tested a new type of glider, weighing but 140 pounds, and depending on air currents for motive power, in a flight over the sound Wednesday.

Curtiss' glider, towed over the water by a fast motor-boat, the air current thus generated forcing it into the air. The plane carried 150 pounds. It spreads thirty-two feet, is twenty-four feet long and was built at the Curtiss plant at a cost of about $1,000. It remained aloft about five feet, for thirty seconds.

ROBBED TWICE

Thieves Make Return Visit—Add to Spoils.

A burglar visited the grocery store of J. J. Robbins, 803 Virginia Ave., Sunday night, and again last night. On Sunday's visit the thief took $7, four pies, seven quarts of milk and failed to close the door of the ice box, which caused $15 worth of meat to spoil.

On the second visit the thief took $2, and cigars and cigarettes worth $10.

Hoosier College Professor and Students Complete New Building at Rose Institute

By Times Special

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 6.—A Hoosier college president laid aside his cap and gown for a while, donned overalls, went out to the building site of his college and helped to build his school.

And of forty students who enrolled in what the president created as "a summer school course," took up hammers, saws, and spades and gave the best that was in them to assure opening of the school on Sept. 13.

The building, which is to be the most modern and best equipped of its kind in the United States, is at the Rose Polytechnic Institute at Terre Haute.

The foundation of the new Rose buildings, east of Terre Haute, had just been started when the building superintendent resigned. For a while there was consternation among the trustees and faculty. The new building had to be ready for occupancy by the last of September. The old Rose building was then being remodeled by the city school board as a vocational school for boys.

Broadway's Spirit Sadly Changed

Beneath Glare of Bright Lights

By United Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Lights still burn as brightly as ever along the "Great White Way."

Theater crowds jam the sidewalks nightly in the "Roaring Forties."

The wall of jazz floats from the lobster palaces and tinsel cabarets, and multi-colored lights flare forth their invitations from the places of amusement.

Broadway, on the surface, is just as it was in days of yore, when it was glorious and glittering and wicked, when its name was synonymous with Babylonian gaiety, and it was the mecca of Rotary Club members from Keokuk, and real spenders from everywhere.

But beneath its courageous attempt to live up to its reputation, Broadway is sadly changed. The gaiety is made believe and not genuine. There is no more of the spontaneous revelry and joyousness. Millionaires don't chase fashionably clad beauties over table-tops, like the movies led a credulous public to believe. Fortunes aren't spent in a night for pleasure. Silver champagne buckets are relics.

All that is gone. The reason? Prohibition, of course. Prohibition has become a sad reality along the Great White Way. At first, Broadway didn't take Mr. Volstead's law very seriously. Drinks could be had with little difficulty, for a price. Pleasure-seekers, at the worst, could always "bring their own." And the fun went on, dampened only a little from the old days.

But the crowning blow is the edict that hip flasks may no longer be carried. The neck of a bottle displayed above the edge of a table is an invitation to a ride in a patrol wagon. Federal agents are everywhere. And who could enjoy drinking so furtively as that? The merry-makers simply are deserting their old haunts. The joy is gone out of night life.

That's not all, either. Raid after raid has been made on the cellars of the amusement places, and liquor worth thousands confiscated. Armed with crowbars, hammers, jimmies, and what not, enforcement officers break and smash their way to the hidden supplies, and carry them off.

Drinks may still be had, of course, to those in the know. Conviction of those arrested are difficult to obtain. But the old spirit is gone. Broadway is dazed and subdued, and is forgetting how to play. Money is not spent freely any more. Patrons of the "de luxe" pleasure places actually add up their checks? Their tips are the orthodox 10 per cent? Money, which was once no object to the true spender, is now a reputation for himself, has become almost as important as in the trick restaurants where one

Wearied English Husbands Get Even With Wives Through Wills

By United Press

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Parting gibes at "friend wife," directed in their will by wearied Englishmen who finally escaped their domestic woes only by death, are recalled by a recent example of bitter farewell.

In this case, a Welsh tradesman provided that his wife should be paid in sums of five or ten shillings, as his trustee saw fit.

"I have always found," he remarked in his will, "that my wife has no sense of the value of money nor can she keep it when she gets it."

Above—Students at work hastening construction for fall term use.

Below—A view of building before completed entirely.

Insert—Dr. Phillip Woodworth, Rose Poly head, who spent most of the summer garbed in overalls.

Then Dr. Phillip Woodworth, who has been president of Rose for one year, offered his services as building superintendent. They were accepted.

He moved out of his extremely up-to-date office and into a little tarp building on the campus.

Most of the faculty members moved out to the new building with him, to help get their departments ready for the opening of school.

The forty students, enrolled in the new summer course, began working on the building.

This is what they have been doing: Cutting out a solid concrete wall, digging back into the hillside and enlarging the heavy machine shops.

Building shelves and doors in the chemistry laboratory.

Installing machinery in the light machine shops, building a concrete base for every machine.

Helping roof the building.

Building every table, every desk and every piece of furniture for the classrooms.

Soon they will lay tile to carry the water from the bars and a half of roof to the little lake down the hillside of the campus.

"Here are some things I want you to remember about this building," Dr. Woodworth tells inquirers. "Our campus contains 123 acres. The building itself measures 400 by 135 feet. There is not one inch of waste space in the whole building. We have a shooting gallery with a 150-foot rifle range under the building, which the military students planned. They did the excavation work for it, will wall up the room and furnish it. And we're going to have a cafeteria, which will feed our students and faculty."

"This building will not be entirely completed when school opens. But it will be ready for the students to begin their work."

Lesh Says State Institutions Cannot Dispose of Gravel.

Attorney General Lesh has given Dr. Sam Dadds, superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Logansport, the opinion that no State institutions may either give away or sell gravel for county road building purposes.

Dr. Dadds asked for the opinion when it was found that transportation of several miles could be saved by the State Institution furnishing the material.

ENTIRE CITY DARKENED

Photographer's Flashlight Shorts Electric Current in Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Sept. 6.—An amateur photographer's flashlight powder, coming in contact with the main feed coils at the Des Moines Electric Company, caused a short circuit which resulted in a shutdown of electric light and power in the city.

The photographer had been given permission to visit the plant. He paused to take a picture near the feeding lines which supply the downtown district, and allowed his flash to touch the coils.

There was a crash, he was thrown to the floor, and a short circuit was created which put out every light and stopped every elevator in the business section. Passengers caught in elevators stopped between floors were taken out by means of ladders. The photographer was uninjured.

Thousands Of Women Are Now Taking This Newer Form Of Iron

Worn-out Housewife Tells How She Quickly Regained Her Health and Strength.

"Only a short two weeks ago I was so tired, nervous and worn-out from the drain on my nerves and strength of housework, that I thought I could not keep up another day."

A short two weeks' treatment of the newer form of iron has given me a marvelous increase in health, strength and energy. Now I can do my whole housework without help and I am able to sit at home in the evening "all-in" sick and nervous."

"The above is a typical hypothetical case," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (City-Island) and now of the New Westchester County Hospital. "You cannot be well and strong and full of vigor, unless your blood is rich in iron. It is your red blood that enables you to resist and overcome disease and to nourish every organ in your body. Without iron your blood becomes thin, pale and watery. Your blood cannot nourish your vital organs and as a result you may have pains in your heart or kidneys, indigestion, headaches, and feel 'run-down' and tired out."

When your blood lacks iron do not waste your time taking stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, but directly enrich your blood with the newer form of iron sold by all druggists under the name of Nuxated Iron, which is like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples, and is in a form easily assimilated into your blood.

Get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today. Take it for two weeks and if you have not like thousands of others, obtained most surprising health, strength and energy, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money. The following local druggists will sell you Nuxated Iron with this "satisfaction or money back" guarantee.

COX SEES HOPE IN FEDERAL INTEREST

Economic Affairs of Central Europe Will Be Aided by Administration.

By United Press

LONDON, Sept. 6.—"Let us hope our services to central Europe will be that of a physician and not an undertaker," James M. Cox said in a statement. "There is some measure of reassurance in the statement from Washington," he continued, "that the Administration has interested itself in the economic affairs of Central Europe, even though Herbert Hoover will not be sent here."

Cox, who has studied conditions in Europe, is to sail for America Saturday.
