

Auto Show at Fair Draws Thousands and Proves Big Boon to Industry in Indiana

More than $500,000 worth of automobiles, ranging in price from $389 for the Star, W. C. Durant's new product, to the de luxe limousine of the McFarland Motor Company at $10,000, greeted thousands of automobile show visitors at the Indiana State Fair. So successful has the auto show been that it will be held open tonight to accommodate the hundreds who have not had the opportunity of seeing the 213 models on display.

The show opened Wednesday night, and guards were placed at the doors to keep the crowd in orderly movement.

Show Stripped Chassis
Fifty exhibitors have various models on display, ranging from speedsters and roadsters to the most luxurious of limousines and cabriolets. Stripped chassis are exhibited, bereft of the alluring trimmings of the fancy body builders, so that visitors may see the mechanical parts.

B. L. Byrket, assistant manager of the show, announced yesterday that fifty sales had been effected in the first two and one-half days.

New dealers in several lines have been secured, as a result of the show, and a program of extension has been worked out whereby new agencies will be opened in various parts of the State.

Price at Bottom

Visitors at the show were impressed with the fact that the automobile market has now touched "rock bottom," because of the advance in price on one or two of the new models. Dealers feel confident that the prices will be shaved only slightly, if any, within the next twelve months. The fall of prices since July 1 has been gradual and the industry is getting back on its feet in a constructive way. Manufacturers are "getting their bearings" and customers are beginning to foresee an upward trend of the market.
