

WEST WASHINGTON ST. MERCHANTS' DOLLAR DAY

EDITOR SECURES WRIT

Contempt Sentence Deferred by Appeal to Higher Court.

By United Press
DES MOINES, Oct. 3.—Austin Haines, editor of the Des Moines News, sentenced to one day in jail and fined one dollar for contempt of court by District Judge Hume, has obtained a writ of certiorari from Supreme Court Justice Stevens. The hearing will be held in Supreme Court during the January term. Haines' appeal bond was fixed at $500.

Dollar Day Means Save a Little

You'll save something on every purchase you make on Dollar Day on West Washington Street. What are you going to do with these "savings"? Spend them eventually, yes—that is what the merchants expect you to do and that is what the savings banks expect you to do.

But in the meantime, why not, sometime during Dollar Day, visit our West Street Branch, at the northeast corner of West and Washington Streets, and deposit your savings in a bank account—for safekeeping and the addition of compound interest?

You can save a dollar or more any day in a savings account at our main office or at any of the following branches or affiliated banks:
