

MANY PROBES IN U. S. TREASURY ARE KEPT SECRET

Department Handles Billions
People's Money, but Little Is Heard of Doings.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The United States Treasury every year handles billions of dollars of the people's money. Yet there is more secrecy about the doings of the Treasury Department than possibly all other departments combined.

More "investigations" are started in the Treasury than anywhere else in the Government. And fewer reports of the results of investigations ever reach the public.

Some recent Treasury Department investigations, the results of which have not been made public, are:

Employees Lose Jobs

The investigation of the bureau of printing and engraving. The plan was closed for a number of days while Government sleuths probed. Some employees lost their jobs in the shake-up. The real result of the investigation is still a secret.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair started another investigation into alleged irregularities in the income tax unit of the Treasury Department about a year ago. No report of their findings yet.

There was an investigation into the alleged disappearance of internal revenue stamps last spring. The public doesn't yet know what was found.

Public Never Told

Likewise the reported discrepancies in returns made by income tax collection districts, totaling some $200,000,000. The public has never been told whether these discrepancies were due to errors in bookkeeping, to bad adding machines, or to crookedness.

Then there was an investigation of attorneys who were charged with practicing illegally before various divisions of the Treasury Department. The public is still in the dark as to the guilt or innocence of the lawyers who were under investigation.

There have been investigations without number into alleged fraudulent income tax returns and into matters relating to the liquor traffic but all of these are kept a dead secret.

RIDE CURES DEAFNESS

Trip in Airplane Restores Hearing to Lutheran Chaplain.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The airplane as a cure for deafness was demonstrated when Chaplain H. M. Leach of the New Lutheran Church at the Presidio, who has been gradually growing deaf, took the advice of Army surgeons and went for a high fly.

With Capt. A. F. Herod of the United States Air Service, Chaplain Leach went up 13,000 feet. Upon landing he said he could hear perfectly.

To make the cure lasting, the surgeons have advised the chaplain to take at least two more flights.

RAIN IN TEN-FOOT SQUARE

Steady Water Fall in Small Space
Puzzles Scientists.

ALEXANDRIA, Vt., Oct. 12.—What appeared to be steady rain, ranging from a slight drizzle to a fairly heavy shower, fell in a space about ten feet square in front of a house here.

Every effort has been made to learn the reason. A representative from the Bureau of Forestry at Washington said the rain was not caused by the fall of sap from a nearby tree, as some persons have insisted.

A poplar tree adjacent to the spot is putting out new leaves and buds as the apparent result of the shower.

MAD BUFFALO CHARGES

Creature Attacks Cameraman, but Is Killed by Helper.

ANTELOPE ISLAND, Utah, Oct. 12.—Karl Brown, cameraman for James Cruze, narrowly escaped serious injury when a mad buffalo bull charged the wagon containing camera and cameraman. Edward Jones, a motion picture employee, shot the animal just as it had slipped its horns over the horses and was preparing to attack Brown, who had jumped to the ground.

But the singer wouldn't discuss them. He just smiled:

"I am an artist, not a politician. Above all I am a Russian. Such terms as 'Old Russia,' 'New Russia,' 'Monarchist Russia,' 'Proletarian Russia' don't interest me. I love simply Russia, without any qualifying adjectives."

To questions about his own romance, he replied:

"My private life—my family life—is my own. It belongs to me. It is sacred. Chaliapin, the artist, is public property. His art is open to praise or blame, as people see fit. But Chaliapin, the husband and father, is not public property. So new—please—please—"

But between the lines there slipped out various interesting things about this very interesting man. Not yet fifty, his blond Russian hair just beginning to be slightly flecked with gray, he is the father of ten children—three boys and seven girls. Eight are by his first marriage and two by his second. His wife, one boy and four girls will live in England this winter, so the children can go to school here. The others will remain in Russia.

Children Can't Sing

"Not one of them is musical," said Papa Chaliapin without even the semblance of a sigh. "But some of them show other artistic bent. My oldest boy, who is seventeen, bids fair to be a good painter. Two other children have developed a taste for acting."

He looked longingly at the pictures on the wall—and changed the subject of the interview.

"You ask me," said Chaliapin, "if there is a chance that I may settle down in America. That depends upon how the American people like me. I would stay if I could carry out a cherished dream of mine—to found in America and be the head of a great national conservatory of all the arts."

Millinery

Close turbans, formed entirely of velvet foliage in soft greens and browns, are shown for winter. As the season advances and more winter millinery is shown the smaller hat is getting more attention.

Genuine

BAYER

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER" when you buy Aspirin

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe millions for colds, headache, toothache, earache, neuralgia, lumbago, rheumatism, neuritis, and for pain in general. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monocetideester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

neutritis, and for pain in general. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monocetideester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

neutritis, and for pain in general. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monocetideester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

neutritis, and for pain in general. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monocetideester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

WHERE IS OLD BROAD RIPPLE? Up-to-Date Suburb Replaces Mere Town of Yesteryear

ABOVE—New firehouse, police station and town hall of Broad Ripple, annexed to Indianapolis. The building was put into use about two months ago.

CENTER—A wide place in White River which gave Indianapolis' newest annexation its name. Looking

"Broad Ripple."

Sixty-one blocks of riding over good, bad and indifferent street car tracks and Indianapolis' newest suburb came into view just around the corner.

A few stores, a few houses, a brick building housing the bank and the Masonic temple and a postoffice station—that was the first view—one block north were a few more stores and the new firehouse, which also is the town hall and police station, the only public building.

A week ago Broad Ripple was a town. Today it is part of Indianapolis, although efforts still are being made to have the annexation revoked.

BELLY—Broad Ripple high school, center of contention in the fight against annexation of Broad Ripple. The school, with a grade school just behind it, was left out when the town was annexed to Indianapolis.

Last Wednesday morning a remonstrance against annexation was withdrawn in Circuit Court. At that time the new firehouse, which was built with the proceeds from a bond issue of $10,000, housed the new $8,000 Stutz pumper and the two chauffeurs, Marlon Wildrick and Earl T. Brown, Robert De Voe, town marshal and chief of the police and fire departments, had his office in the building. The fire department was made up of volunteers.

By 4:30 p. m. Wednesday a new police automobile was in the firehouse and six policemen and six firemen had taken up their duties with Harry A. Gebhart in charge.

The first night: "There was one bed," Gebhart said. "One of the firemen slept on that, with newspapers for a pillow and a cover. The rest of us sat up."

Today there are four new beds in the firehouse. The town marshal still holds office, but he has no town of which to be marshal now.

The town board, of which D. A. Stackhouse is president, is closing its books and planning to turn them over to the city.

The town bell, in the firehouse, is silent. It was rung at 8 a. m. daily. But curfew does not ring, now that Broad Ripple is a part of Indianapolis. The school is just beyond the city limits. It was left out because six years ago, when citizens tried to have Broad Ripple annexed, Judge Louis Ewbank declared it was an injustice to the farmers to annex the school.

Those favoring annexation this time said the township trustees and the Indianapolis school board could make arrangements for Broad Ripple students to attend the school.

Broad Ripple's population is estimated at from 2,100 to 3,000. There are 1,250 voters.

A new boulevard lighting system is being installed. A bond issue of $9,000 will pay for the lights.

Backing the improvements which are being made is the Chamber of Commerce, of which Carl H. Buddenbaum is president.

The first night: "There was one bed," Gebhart said. "One of the firemen slept on that, with newspapers for a pillow and a cover. The rest of us sat up."

Today there are four new beds in the firehouse. The town marshal still holds office, but he has no town of which to be marshal now.

The town board, of which D. A. Stackhouse is president, is closing its books and planning to turn them over to the city.

The town bell, in the firehouse, is silent. It was rung at 8 a. m. daily. But curfew does not ring, now that Broad Ripple is a part of Indianapolis. The school is just beyond the city limits. It was left out because six years ago, when citizens tried to have Broad Ripple annexed, Judge Louis Ewbank declared it was an injustice to the farmers to annex the school.

Those favoring annexation this time said the township trustees and the Indianapolis school board could make arrangements for Broad Ripple students to attend the school.

Broad Ripple's population is estimated at from 2,100 to 3,000. There are 1,250 voters.

A new boulevard lighting system is being installed. A bond issue of $9,000 will pay for the lights.

Backing the improvements which are being made is the Chamber of Commerce, of which Carl H. Buddenbaum is president.

The first night: "There was one bed," Gebhart said. "One of the firemen slept on that, with newspapers for a pillow and a cover. The rest of us sat up."

Today there are four new beds in the firehouse. The town marshal still holds office, but he has no town of which to be marshal now.

The town board, of which D. A. Stackhouse is president, is closing its books and planning to turn them over to the city.

The town bell, in the firehouse, is silent. It was rung at 8 a. m. daily. But curfew does not ring, now that Broad Ripple is a part of Indianapolis. The school is just beyond the city limits. It was left out because six years ago, when citizens tried to have Broad Ripple annexed, Judge Louis Ewbank declared it was an injustice to the farmers to annex the school.

Those favoring annexation this time said the township trustees and the Indianapolis school board could make arrangements for Broad Ripple students to attend the school.

Broad Ripple's population is estimated at from 2,100 to 3,000. There are 1,250 voters.

A new boulevard lighting system is being installed. A bond issue of $9,000 will pay for the lights.

Backing the improvements which are being made is the Chamber of Commerce, of which Carl H. Buddenbaum is president.

The first night: "There was one bed," Gebhart said. "One of the firemen slept on that, with newspapers for a pillow and a cover. The rest of us sat up."

Today there are four new beds in the firehouse. The town marshal still holds office, but he has no town of which to be marshal now.

The town board, of which D. A. Stackhouse is president, is closing its books and planning to turn them over to the city.

The town bell, in the firehouse, is silent. It was rung at 8 a. m. daily. But curfew does not ring, now that Broad Ripple is a part of Indianapolis. The school is just beyond the city limits. It was left out because six years ago, when citizens tried to have Broad Ripple annexed, Judge Louis Ewbank declared it was an injustice to the farmers to annex the school.

Those favoring annexation this time said the township trustees and the Indianapolis school board could make arrangements for Broad Ripple students to attend the school.

Broad Ripple's population is estimated at from 2,100 to 3,000. There are 1,250 voters.

A new boulevard lighting system is being installed. A bond issue of $9,000 will pay for the lights.

Backing the improvements which are being made is the Chamber of Commerce, of which Carl H. Buddenbaum is president.

The first night: "There was one bed," Gebhart said. "One of the firemen slept on that, with newspapers for a pillow and a cover. The rest of us sat up."

Today there are four new beds in the firehouse. The town marshal still holds office, but he has no town of which to be marshal now.

The town board, of which D. A. Stackhouse is president, is closing its books and planning to turn them over to the city.

The town bell, in the firehouse, is silent. It was rung at 8 a. m. daily. But curfew does not ring, now that Broad Ripple is a part of Indianapolis. The school is just beyond the city limits. It was left out because six years ago, when citizens tried to have Broad Ripple annexed, Judge Louis Ewbank declared it was an injustice to the farmers to annex the school.

Those favoring annexation this time said the township trustees and the Indianapolis school board could make arrangements for Broad Ripple students to attend the school.

Broad Ripple's population is estimated at from 2,100 to 3,000. There are 1,250 voters.

A new boulevard lighting system is being installed. A bond issue of $9,000 will pay for the lights.

Backing the improvements which are being made is the Chamber of Commerce, of which Carl H. Buddenbaum is president.

The first night: "There was one

'PEEPING TOM' WATCHES GIRLS

Man Uses Field Glasses to Spy on Young Women in Negligee at Y. W. C. A.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—Central Young Women's Christian Association girls are peeved because of an alleged peeper in a third-story front room across the street. They say he looks out of his window every time they sit in their rooms in negligee.

The girls in the evenings slip out of their street clothes and into something loose and airy. Then this is the way the girls describe it:

"This animal sits almost in his window and constantly watches the girls. About 11 o'clock, after the girls have retired and their lights are out, he climbs to the roof, evidently through the skylight, and carries a field glass with him, through which he stares into the rooms. Being higher, he easily can see into the girls' rooms."

Miss Pearl Miller in charge of the girls who live at the house, said their story is true.

"The girls are angry about it," she said. "So far he has made no attempt to communicate with them. So long as he just sits I am at a loss to know how to proceed against him, but I have suggested to the girls they might pull down the shades."

POISON LIPS KILL

Jealous Woman Showers Kisses on Mouth of Lover.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—"Poisoned lips" are believed by county authorities to have caused the death of Stella Zbelof and Harry Devine, servants at the summer estate of Caroline Sinkler, wealthy Philadelphia artist and society woman. The couple was found in each other's arms at Mrs. Sinkler's home.

Murder and suicide is the theory. That the woman, holding the man in her embrace, showered his lips with kisses from her poisoned lips because she was determined to die and to kill him so no other woman should have him.

Post-mortem examinations disclosed no traces of poison, yet the medical examiner believes that the pair died of some subtle poison which attacked their hearts at the same moment.

FOLDING STILL MADE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—And now we have with us the folding still.

This product, neat, compact, inexpensive, designed to fit into a suit case which can handle a battery of two gallons at one time, was reported to have been found in a room occupied by Earl Forney in Santa Monica, when it was raided.

The raiders found, they say, in addition to the still, two gallons of newly distilled whisky in one container and six pints in bottles.

WON GAME FOR HER Pitcher Ryan Made Good for Fiancee

MISS ANNA N. REIDY

By NEA Service

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—The strategy of John J. McGraw, leader of baseball's champion Giants, reached even to the heights of romance.

Never mind what the baseball experts say—here is the real truth of the strategy McGraw employed in winning the first game of the world series in New York:

Just before the game Wilfred Ryan, one of the Giant pitchers—known to the fans as "Rosy" Ryan—took Manager McGraw over to a box and introduced him to Miss Anna N. Reidy, of Worcester.

"Our engagement was announced recently," said Rosy.

That ended that. But at the beginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

ginning of the eighth inning, with the Yankees holding a 2-0 lead, McGraw decided to pin his slipping faith to Cupid.

"Ryan, go in and win that game," he ordered. "And don't let me catch you disappointing that sweetheart of yours over there in the box!" She expects you to win—and so do I."

What could a fellow do in a case like that? Win, of course. That's what Ryan did. He struck out two Yanks, including Babe Ruth, and then the Giants made three runs in that inning, and Ryan got credit for winning the game.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Minnie McGregor

A Good Looking Woman

Is Always a Well Woman
Health is Most Vital to You. Hear
What Mrs. McGregor Says