FIVE MAY BE LOST OFF SABLE ISLAND

Schooner Marshal Foch Goes Aground and Is Being Pounded by Sea.

By United News
HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 12.—A fresh gale of thick weather made difficult Wednesday night the search for five members of the crew of the Gloucester schooner Marshal Foch, who were reported off Sable Island in an open dory.

The schooner, which was wrecked seeking fresh halibut, was settling forward in the sands and was expected to be a total loss.

Captain James Whittle and seven men were landed at Sable Island shortly after the boat stranded. A wireless from the island at 9:30 p. m. reported eight additional men safe on shore.

The dory, with the five remaining men, was last seen by shipmates to be crossing the northeast bar off the island. The dory was said to be well supplied with food, sails and a compass.

BUG HUNT In State House

Offices of the State department of conservation were turned inside out late yesterday, all because Frank Wallace, State entomologist, lost his pet bug.

The entire personnel of the department as well as a few outsiders were called upon to assist in the bug hunt.

The bug, known as a tobacco leach, was found by the State official after crawling under a table on his hands and knees.

I SPIED TODAY

Local prohibition officers dug, with evident excitement, in what appeared to be a suspicious looking mound in the yard at the summer home of a local pugilist. They found, instead of the expected booze, the decaying body of the pugilist's pet Airdale.
