HEARING STARTS

Mrs. Hazel McNally Is Placed on Trial for Murder.

By Times Special
HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 18.—The strange story of how Mrs. Hazel McNally substituted dolls for twin babies, of which she is alleged to have been the mother, was told in Judge Henry Cleveland's courtroom here today at her preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering the two children.

Mrs. Floyd McNally, a step daughter-in-law of the accused woman, was the first witness called.

"She told me frequently that she was to become a mother," the witness said, "and declared she did not like children. There was no doubt, early in December, 1921, but what she away with anything on me next time?" "Muriel," I asked seriously, "what do you want to be when you grow up?" "A famous shoplifter, perhaps?" "No," I said. "I want to be a missionary to China."

It was an inspiring thought. Of such are the advance guards of enlightenment made. This little girl was growing up with the fire of pure ambition burning fierce and white in her little diaphragm.

"Oh," I said. "A missionary, and convert the heathen."

Conservative

By United Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The curb market members are growing conservative. They are not taking quite so many chances.

They announced Tuesday the establishment of a death insurance fund. Regular members hereafter will carry $5,000 policies, payable at death to their legal heirs. To create the fund each member will be assessed $20.

was soon to give birth to a baby. "Early in February, the witness said, "I went downtown with flannel, I carried one bundle which I believed to be a live baby and she carried another."

"On several other occasions later I went out with her and I carried one bundle which I knew to be a doll. Only on the first trip do I believe the baby I carried was alive."

YOUNG MAN COLLAPSES

Claude Kemp Removed to City Hospital After Fainting.

The city hospital ambulance was called to the offices of the Underwood Typewriter Company, New York and Pennsylvania Sts., today, when Claude Kemp, 18, of 1510 Sherman Dr., collapsed while on an errand to the basement. He was taken to the city hospital.

"No," she mocked. "Not a missionary and convert the heathen. I want to be a missionary so I can live the rest of my life in China and get all the chop suey I want. I'm nutty about eggs too young and all such as that."

"And now," she said, gently shoving me through the door. "I wish you'd get the hell out of here. The neighbors' children are in the kitchen waiting for me. It's my dice, and when you came I had just made seven straight passes."

KISS PROVES BARRIER

By United Press
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 18.—Ludwig Yeomans, a wealthy industrial engineer who was ousted from the exclusive Union League Club of Chicago on charges of a pretty girl elevator operator that he had tried to kiss her, lost his fight to rejoin the club Tuesday when the Illinois Supreme Court refused to review the decision of lower courts in the case.

Yeomans was expelled from the club two years ago, after he had refused to resign following the girl's charges.

GENERAL STRIKE URGED IN PROTEST

German Communists Resent
Imprisonment of Comrades
Following Riots.

By United Press
BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Communists are agitating for a general strike as a protest against the imprisonment of their comrades following the bloody riot at the Circus Busch on Sunday.

Four Communist demonstrations have been arranged for Wednesday night. Communist leaders are trying to arrange a general strike for Wednesday but it is doubtful if they will be successful.

Police are continuing their hunt for Communists. Several editors of the radical organ "Rote Fahne" were seized Tuesday. Police first searched the newspaper office for them. They had escaped but were found later.

Police President Richter bluntly informed a Communist delegation that the imprisoned reds would not be released. It was after this brief interview that the general strike agitation started.

POOR JIM! Almost Broke

By United Press
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Old Jim Cots learned a few things during safety week. When he begged a night's lodging at the White Plains jail he checked his dented tin cup and a few pennies with the desk sergeant for safe keeping. Getting up Tuesday morning, Old Jim shook himself briskly, smoothed out his tattered frock coat, took a hitch in his worn overalls, adjusted his wooden leg and went up to the desk sergeant for his tin cup and pennies.

He took them and reached down to his wooden leg. Sergeant Reid caught sight of a fat wallet hidden in the timber limb.

"Let's have a look," Officer Reid suggested.

Old Jim reluctantly handed the wallet over. It contained $30.05.

"Get out of here and stay at a hotel the next time," Reid advised.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE CARELESS

Women are too apt to overestimate their strength and overtax it. When feeling well they take unnecessary chances, which in the long run cause much pain and trouble. Wet feet, exposure to cold, lifting heavy burdens and overwork will often develop troubles which can be no end of suffering. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing remedy in such cases. Thousands of American women will testify to this fact who have regained health and strength by its use. If you are suffering it will pay you to give it a fair trial.—Advertisement.

HO! HUM! They Can't Sleep

"How you gonna keep 'em awake at night, after they've been out all day?" might be the title of the song captains of Indianapolis fire stations will be singing before long.

Mayor Shank announced he was going to have the board of public safety abolish sleeping in fire stations—even at night. Firemen now work on two shifts.

PRIZE ANTE RAISED TWO MORE MILLIONS

Tremendous Interest In Times CON-test Compels Us to Order Another Peck of Rubles

We Are Now Offering Six Million Rubles as Cash Prizes

Gratified by the overwhelming public response to our circulation-snatching enterprise, we find ourselves compelled to give away an additional peck of rubles. This makes one full bushel or an even 6,000,003.

Not to be out-done by the Times in the matter of generosity, Lowd-Noyes & Co., the CON-test promoters, have contributed their mite to this additional prize. They have agreed to reduce their share of the gross receipts from 80 per cent to exactly four-fifths. Your chances of winning remain unchanged.

If interested in the CON-test on the part of our salesmen continues to increase we'll see Barnum's rate of one-a-minute and raise him 59.

Hustle! Hurry! Run in little circles! Get circulation for us. Make yourself a nuisance to your friends.

The mechanic who is hostler to Ivan, raised the hood to get out his overcoat, stored there last spring, and a matronly rabbit leaped out, accompanied by a little dapper rabbit. He searched, but found no other young ones and remarked: "One, by a hare."

Unsuccessful CON-testants who can not be consoled by any of the consolation awards arranged by Messrs. Lowd-Noyes and Company, will be given a further consolation prize consisting of twenty feet of triple-tested hemp clothesline upon application at our CON-test office.

Ivan the Terrible automobile, one of our two capital prizes, figured in a romantic event this morning.

Resisting alluring offers from other interests in this city, Messrs. Lowd-Noyes and Company, have remained faithful to the Times CON-testants. A firm of real estate agents tried to hire them this morning to arrange a similar contest whereby tenants could be induced to pay their rent one or two years in advance. A grocer approached them with a similar scheme.

WHY?

Here's this fellow again. Wonder who he is? The police are slightly more baffled today.

UP AND AT 'EM, FOLKS! LAND 'EM.

BY ADAM PHAIK,
CON-test Editor of the Indianapolis Times

All merry and bright and eager to be up and doing the public again in the great Times circulation CON-test, I hopped out of my bunk-wunky this morning and spanked my spandrels down on the floor with a simultaneous smack.

"Ouch!" I exclaimed, heartily, and with excellent reason, too, for, as I soon discovered, I had picked up a silver the size of a four-by-eight foot.

I am afraid that some of my readers may think this incident rather too trivial for the importance I have given it, but who's writing this story? You or Adam Phaik, XXX, which stands for my decoration, the double-cross of the Order of Honesty, Third Class.

The point is that on my way out I stopped at the hotel desk and addressed the clerk in charge.

"Look here, egg," I said, with an effort to be severe, for I am by nature as kindly as a harness cop with both shoes full of banions.

"Look here, egg," I said. "I'm doing the up-and-at-'em in my room floor of the Indianapolis Athletic Club Building in that customary state of cheeriness which is at once the inspiration of my followers, the despair of my competitors and an insupportable psychopathic enigma to the foremost alienists and headfeelers of the land?"

Arrived at the office, I found the street outside simply jammed with eager salesmen, young and old, who are entered in the great Times CON-test for the rubber bungalow, for Ivan the Terrible automobile, for the whisker tweezer, the long-a little while ago and I run the forest primeval into one of my dogs. "No lumberman. This is a hell of a hotel for 75 cents a night, you profiteer."

And the clerk, who really ought to be on the stage, answered back: "On your way, bum; we ought to charge you for board."

After this convincing pleasant-try, was it any wonder that I was able to repress the tears of pain, and, with the courage of a Spartan schoolboy, to approach my office on the top floor of the Indianapolis Athletic Club Building in that customary state of cheeriness which is at once the inspiration of my followers, the despair of my competitors and an insupportable psychopathic enigma to the foremost alienists and headfeelers of the land?

Arrived at the office, I found the street outside simply jammed with eager salesmen, young and old, who are entered in the great Times CON-test for the rubber bungalow, for Ivan the Terrible automobile, for the whisker tweezer, the long-handled washing machine, the children's 38 Colt automatic and the millions of rubles. Astounded by this tremendous response to my persuasions as a CON-test leader, I deployed myself in the gutter to count them.

"Five, six, seven, eight," people I counted and then lost track. There must have been a dozen, at least, in scrupulous fairness, I must consider the possibility that

Save Your Own Money for the Last Night of the CON-test

A surprise awaits the leading CON-testants on the last night.

The foremost or favorite salesmen will be invited to CON-test headquarters, where they will be received by Messrs. Lowd Noyes in person.

Have your check-book or your nest-egg with you, ready to pay for a few thousand additional subscriptions.

The mere purchase of 2,000,000 subscriptions with your own money in the last hour may put you over the top for the rubber bungalow, for Ivan or one of the big ruble prizes.

Get all the money you can from your friends, but have plenty of your own ready for the supreme test of salesmanship.

some of them—say, eight or nine—were laborers working about the building. But all the rest, all this vast, seething crowd, were CON-testants, calling for their instructions before starting out to invade the offices, the kitchens, the nurseries, the asylums in quest of subscriptions and the money of their friends.

Taking in the situation at a glance, I immediately arranged to lease the entire floor above the top floor of the I. A. C. building as an overflow office for the revolution.

And it was not long before the principle of elastic currency had been profusely vindicated by the inter-breeding of the rubber plant and the red currant bush, producing Red Currency or Soviet Rubles, which in five years have stretched from a rate of two for one dollar to approximately one million.

"I'd love to win this rubber house," said one of the CON-testants, wistfully, as the throng returned to the side-car. "Then I'd get married and—"

"Have a bouncing baby," I interrupted, pedaling vigorously.

HINTS

"CON is a great institution," wrote Mr. Noyes, in response to these proposals, "but it has its limitations. Would you be willing to pay your street car fare a year in advance or your laundry bills?"

The office of Bean Bag Editor of the Times Sport Staff, vacated by the untimely death of Henry Coldslaw who introduced the Mexican jumping bean, will be filled by Mario Murdoro, who learned the game in Pancho Villa's Army and who has since become the welter and middleweight bean-bag champion of Chihuahua.

WHOA, IVAN! WHOA!

This is a still life portrait of Ivan the Terrible automobile, painted by Patrick Angelo, brother of Michael Angelo, with whom he is associated in the world-famous comedy team of Pat and Mike.

Patrick Angelo was loud-mouthed in praise of Ivan as the perfect example of still life. Mr. Angelo is the world's best authority on stills. Ivan is still still, on the best authority.

The implement on Ivan's stern is a rake, not a hoe. Thus he is not to be confused with Ivanhoe, the famous Caledonian cavalrman.
