

GIVES FORMULA TO HOLD MATE

Ninety-Nine-Year-Old Woman Gives Results of Forty Years' Observation of Marriage.

By United Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Sarah Porter Smith of Brooklyn, celebrating her ninety-ninth birthday, declares she cannot understand why so many modern marriages end in disaster when this can be avoided by adherence to a few common sense rules.

Looking back on forty years of her own married life with her husband, who died twenty years ago, Mrs. Smith in an interview with United Press said she is convinced one husband is enough for one wife, and recommended her own code for the guidance of newlyweds.

"First of all, men and women must love each other for congenial traits and thoughts, and less for adorable noses and Barrymore profiles. "Second, a wife must observe the biblical injunction, that the husband is the head of the family, and must be prepared to obey him as such. "Husbands should tell wives their business troubles. If the breadwinner is a bootlegger and the new booze sleuths are taking Volstead literally, the wife ought to know. "After children arrive, wives should pay more attention to their husbands, instead of less. "At least once a week couples who want to stay happy should get off by themselves and play an epilogue on their courtship. "After the wedding husband and wife should allow their friendships with the opposite sex to cool off slightly. Wives should not take tea with the handsome unemployed young men who are so numerous, and husbands ought to forego lunching with their stenographers. "Married people ought to stop worrying about their financial status. Married happiness depends little on wealth."

Mrs. Smith's younger sister, who is only 92, and who also lived with one husband for nearly half a century, agreed with her views on matrimony in general, but derided the idea that a wife must take the ope part of the marriage ceremony seriously. "Her husband was always one to yield easily to Sarah," she said.

BETTING IN FAVOR OF SMITH VICTORY

Odds Shift in Gubernatorial Race in New York Just Before Election.

By United Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Salient developments here Wednesday in the Smith-Miller fight for governor were: Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate, challenged Governor Miller to come out in support of the Republican administration at Washington to whose hands he owes his election. He especially demanded Miller's opinion of the new tariff and the Daugherty injunction.

Governor Miller tried to eliminate Tammany votes from Smith's banner by reminding of the old enmity existing between Smith and the "tiger" mayor, John F. Hylan. Secretary of State Hughes in a speech urged re-election of Miller as a governor who is "indifferent to his political future and courageous in his policies."

Betting suddenly shifted to odds of 11 to 10 in favor of Smith to win.

PERMISSION GRANTED
Street Railway to Lay Temporary Track.

Permission to lay temporary tracks on the north and south sides of Washington St., from East St. to a point 200 feet east of Liberty St., was granted the Indianapolis Street Railway Company by the board of public works today.

The tracks will be used while new permanent rails are laid beneath the railroad elevation at Noble St.

FILE REMONSTRANCE
Bankers Want Express Rates on Products Lowered.

The American Bankers' Association has filed a remonstrance with the public service commission against the American and Southern Express Companies, who are asking for an increase in express rates on bread and cake. The remonstrators set out that during the past four years rates have been increased 50 per cent and if the present increase is granted rates will advance approximately 50 per cent more.

"Mother Why Not Try The Newer Form Of Iron
And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable all the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?"

The doctor gave some to Susie Smith's mother and she was worse off than you are and now she looks just fine. There can be no healthy, beautiful, rosy-cheeked women without iron. Good physicians have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more of the newer form of iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking patients. When the iron goes from the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks, and strength and vitality from their bodies. This newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in certain green vegetables, is highly recommended to thousands who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you the proper amount of good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale, and sick-looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women, full of life, vim and vitality. You can get Nuxated Iron from any drugist under an absolute guarantee that it will do the same for you or your money back. For sale in this city by Hook Drug Co., Haas Drug Co., Henry Butler and all other druggists. —Advertisement.

Martha Lee HER COLUMN

Reforming any one or anything is not an easy task.

The heroic maidens just to reform them are no more. You see, they were in the dime novels that have gone out of style. Beside, drunks are supposed to be out of style, too, now.

But, seriously, I disapprove of the marriage route to reform. Rather, let the reforming, whatever the fault may be, come first. That is a safer way.

Answer to OLIVE: You do not tell me why you want to reform the man; but I think I can answer your question without knowing that. Don't marry him now and expect to "reform" him after marriage. If he really loves you, he will do as you ask now. Put him on probation, for six months, a year, or whatever length of time you think needed, according to the seriousness of his fault.

Postpone the marriage until the man proves he can withstand temptation. If he cannot prove this before marrying you, he would not do it afterward.

Answer to A CUSTOMER: A correct arrangement for the wedding would be to have the flower girl first, followed by the bridesmaids, walking either together or separately, then the maid of honor, the ring-bearer, and last the bride with her father. The bridegroom should come into the church auditorium from the altar door, with the best man.

Answer to I. M. SINCERE: I cannot tell whether or not the man cares for you now, as I cannot read his mind. Apparently he wants your friendship, as he treats you in a friendly way. There is no reason to doubt he did care very much for you when he asked you to marry him. It may be, as both you and your mother decided you were too young to marry, the man decided he had better give up "dates" with you until you were older.

You have shown him you want to be friends by inviting him to two parties. He really should have returned the courtesy in some way. There is nothing else you can do except to treat him in a friendly way when you meet.

Even though he cared a great deal for you, if he is a gentleman, he would not have come to your party after having received an invitation to another before he received yours. That would have been very rude.

Yes, it is possible he thought he cared for you and then found he was mistaken. However, I think you worry too much about him for a girl who is "too young to marry."

Answer to F. E. G.: Novel designs in shoes are being shown this year. Oxfords are still very good for street wear. The newest ones have cuffs, usually of suede, turning down at the side or all around the top of the shoe. Even though skirts are long, heels of street shoes are low, not as low, however, as those of the once popular slipper sandal. For formal wear, the high heel is almost essential, as dresses for formal wear are longer than those for street wear.

Answer to WORRIED: Send back the boy's ring and his picture. You should have known better than to take them.

ATTACKS KLAN
Deery Advises Against Support of Organization's Candidates.

First mention of the Ku-Klux Klan in the Marion County campaign was made by James E. Deery, former judge of the city court, at a Democratic meeting at Missouri and McCarty Sts. last night.

Mr. Deery attacked the Klan and advised voters to cast their ballots for candidates not recommended by the Klan or by the Anti-Saloon League.

All the women are developing an enthusiasm for Russian dressing these days. Here is the type of gown that is proud of its Cossack origin.

It is developed in black and embroidered beads of red, green, tan and blue, outlined with black. Fox fur bands the sleeves and peplum of the overblouse and a narrow black lace edging shows below the hem.

The Jenny neck and the low waistline show the Parisian influence.

BRITAIN WILL PAY DEBT TO AMERICA

New Government Official Makes Declaration of Fiscal Policy.

By RALPH H. TURNER.
United News Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Nov. 2.—The new British government has come out with an unequivocal declaration of its intention to pay back every penny of the $5,000,000,000 borrowed from the United States during the war.

The announcement was made by Stanley Baldwin, the chancellor of the exchequer of the new Bonar Law government in a speech at Cardiff. "Our first duty will be to settle our debt to America," he said. "It is a heavy debt, but we have told America we were responsible for it to the last penny and to the last penny we are going to pay it."
