

Y. W. C. A. PLANS CHRISTMAS SALE

Open Forum Also on Program of Organization for Next Week.

The special events planned for next week's program at the Young Women's Christian Association include the second of the open forums on "Proposed Legislation for the State Legislature," Friday night; a Christmas sale throughout the week, which will be held under the auspices of the students' council of the general education department.

The open forums on Friday night will be held in the lounge from 7 to 8 p. m. A second group of representatives has been invited to discuss pending legislation. Miss Elizabeth Rainey will talk on the subject "Proposed Legislation in Which I Am Interested."

Louis C. Schwartz and Ralph E. Uppike also have been invited to present discussions of laws which they feel are of special importance. Both men and women are invited. This series of open forums has been planned by the general education department of the Y. W. C. A. in cooperation with the League of Women Voters.

The students' council holds a Christmas sale each year in the first floor lobby of the Y. W. C. A. All kinds of hand-made gifts, cards and food will be on display. The proceeds will be used for the council's summer conference and world fellowship fund. Miss C. Humes is chairman of the committee in charge. The sale will open Tuesday morning and continue until Saturday.

An informal open house will be held in the lounge from 4 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Singing and story reading around the open fire. Hot chocolate will be served. The secretaries in charge will be Miss Margaret Sykes, Miss Edith Dalley and Miss Gertrude Sykes.

The general education committee will hold its regular meeting at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday. The special item of business to be taken up will be the consideration of plans for the winter term, which opens Jan. 15.

The health education council will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night. This council is composed of girls representing all the gymnasium classes. They are as follows: Frances Paulsen, president; Miss Helen Marcy, Hazel Butler, Carrie Masterson, Mrs. J. Connor, Tallie Preble, Mrs. Margaret Wheeler, Mrs. Gladys Kline, Louise Elgart, Zelma Lane, Lowell Hunter, Lucile Newman and Pearl Leonard.

Tuesday night a joint meeting of the councils of the Butler College Y. W. C. A. and of the Federation of Industrial Clubs of the city association will be held at Butler. The special feature of the evening's program will be a debate between Helen Guynn of the federation and Florence Hoover of Butler on the proposed change in membership basis for city Y. W. C. A. S.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

December has opened with such a multitude of special parties and holiday plans, each day probably will find one in a swirl of social activities that will make Christmas shopping time a problem. Clubs have planned meetings which really will be parties in keeping with the season. All sorts of musical organizations have undertaken interesting Christmas recitals. Dances are being arranged and dinner parties planned that will delight the young people on their return from college. Bazaars of all sorts and for all purposes are getting under way and Christmas pageants and playlets already are the order of the day.

Invitations bearing cunning Christmas designs in gray colors have been issued by the Sahara Grotto for its annual Yuletide ball, to be given Tuesday evening, Dec. 12, at the Athenaeum. The Grotto will bring the Orpheo Terrace orchestra here for the occasion and will invite the Indianapolis Athletic Club members and other social organizations of the city. Raymond E. Murray, who is arranging the ball, has planned to have box parties a feature of the occasion.

Butler chapter of Delta Delta Delta will give its annual Christmas bazaar Dec. 9 at the chapter house in Irvington. Miss Betty Harris will arrange the affair, assisted by Miss Alice Archbold, Miss Hazel Meier, Miss Elsie Hamilton, Miss Mary Kathryn Wise, Miss Mildred Coff, Miss Betty Selva and Miss Florence Carper.

The Seventh District League of Women Voters will meet at luncheon Dec. 8 in the Claypool Hotel. The luncheon will be followed by an open meeting, which will also include the regular meeting of the Indianapolis League of Women Voters. Mrs. Isaac Born will preside and the principal speaker will be Mrs. Lewis Rose, vice president of the Hartford, Conn., league, who will talk on "The Renaissance of the European Woman." Mrs. Walter S. Greenough, State president of the league, will speak on "The Legislative Program." Reservations for the luncheon may be made with Mrs. Henry Beck or Mrs. Isaac Born until Dec. 6.

Miss Ruby May Keefe is spending the week-end with friends in Hammond and Chicago.

The Christmas bazaar to be given by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Protestant Episcopal Hospital, Dec. 6 and 7 at the nurses' home, is for the purpose of raising funds to provide a recreation room for the student nurses of the training school. The room will be dedicated to the memory of the late Mrs. J. B. Allen.

Her City's Pride

Elizabeth Bayliss, 18-year-old high school student, has entered the hall of fame in Clarksburg, W. Va., where she was proclaimed the most beautiful girl, possessing all the characteristics of southern loveliness. "As demure, sweet and pretty as the girls of grandma's day," said the Clarksburg city fathers.

Beta Delphi Chapter will meet at 9:45 o'clock Wednesday morning in the room of the Irvington M. E. Church. Dr. Joseph D. Armstrong, pastor of the Downey Ave. Christian Church, will talk on "The Place of Israel in Civilization." Mrs. Lee Osborn will tell of her impressions of the Near East, received when she was there during the war.

Miss Audrey Wertz entertained with a 4 o'clock tea Friday afternoon at her home in Evansville in honor of her guests, Miss Blanche White and Miss Marie Field, of Indianapolis. The guests are members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

The fortnightly meeting of the Little Theatre Society will be held Monday evening in the Croseye auditorium of the public library. The entire musical program, under the direction of Miss Elsa Huebner, will be given by teachers in the public schools. It will include a piano solo by Miss Marie Sullivan of James Russell Lowell School; vocal solos by Miss Hope Bedford of Shortridge, Miss Josephine E. Brien, accompanied by Miss Jeanette Riker, both of Henry P. Coburn School, and Ernest Hesser, director of music, and a violin solo by Miss Fern Andrews of the Indianapolis Normal School.

Mrs. Donald P. Hawkins will introduce her daughter, Clarice, to society at a tea, from 4 to 6 o'clock Friday afternoon, Dec. 2 at the Hotel Severn.

Miss Mae Kasin of Anderson is the guest of Mrs. Nellie Underwood of N. Capitol Ave.

The Jewish Juniors will give a show in their club room Sunday afternoon, Dec. 4. Miss Charlotte Lieber, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Edenharter, will be the soloist at the meeting of the Indianapolis Council of Jewish Women. The Junior Minstrel show will be given Thursday evening, Dec. 14 at the Propylaeum. The annual Christmas bazaar will take place Dec. 22-23. Dec. 24 a dance will be given at the Communial building.

Mrs. John Emory Milnor and Mrs. Victor Hendricks will entertain at tea Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Milnor on E. Thirty-Sixth St.

The Indiana Indorsers of Photoplay will meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the woman's department of the Fletcher American Bank building.

MARTHA LEE'S COLUMN OF ADVICE TO TROUBLED

It is easy to deceive ourselves—easier, sometimes, than to deceive others.

The girl of fifteen imagines sixteen-year-old Johnny is in love with her. She deceives herself.

A few years later, when Johnny has to break a "date" because his mother is ill, she imagines he is with some other girl. Again, she deceives herself, because she enjoys self-pity.

When she doesn't feel like going with a certain young man, she imagines she has a headache. Of course she doesn't really have one, but she does really believe she has.

Then, after she is married, and hubby falls to kiss her good-by one morning, or to remember to bring home her package, she imagines he no longer loves her.

She falls in love with another man—or thinks she does; so she then imagines he loves her more than her husband does.

It is easy to deceive ourselves—too easy for our own good.

Dear Miss Lee: I am a married woman 35 years of age. But I am dissatisfied living with my husband, because I love another who really thinks more of me than my husband does. Do you think I would be right in leaving my husband for the man who really loves me?

I most certainly do not. In the first place if the man really loved you he would not risk ruining your reputation by making love to you, a married woman.

In the second place, how do you know he cares more for you than your husband does? You give me no reason to suppose that your husband does not love you sincerely. I think it is quite possible, because you imagine you are in love with this man, you also imagine your husband does not love you.

Are you doing all you can to make your husband happy and to keep his love? If he does no longer care for you, isn't it your own fault for acting as you do toward the other man?

Answer these questions to yourself, honestly. Then cook an especially dainty meal for your husband; put on your most becoming dress; get a comfortable chair ready for him and greet him with a smile when he comes home.

Dear Miss Lee: I am a girl 18 years old. I have been going with a young man a few years older than I am. He told me he loved me, and I thought he did. But two weeks ago he began to have dates with a girl friend of mine. He didn't know we were good friends. Since then he has been going with me sometimes, and other times with her.

This girl friend told me that the man said he loved her. He told her almost the same things he told me.

Although I don't think I am in love with him, I would hate to give him up. Don't you think it would be all right for me to keep on going with him and maybe he would get over his infatuation with the other girl?

I think the young man is a gay deceiver. Oh, yes, he might get to love you really. But if I were in your place, I should never be sure, after the way he is acting now, that he did not "really" love some other girl at the same time.

There are so many fine men in this world. Why waste time on a man like this one? Better give him up.

Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy

By JOHNNY GRUELLE
The Storekeeper and the nice little old lady and Wooden Willie followed the three Wrinklenose Sisters into their house. But Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy, being invisible, stayed outside.

"What shall we do, Raggedy Andy?" Raggedy Ann asked in a head tone.

"I felt a rip in the back of my head," Raggedy Andy said. "Yet I haven't thought of any way to rescue our friends."

"The Wrinklenose Sisters said that there was a web around the place and it would do no good for us to try to escape," said Raggedy Ann. "Let's walk down the road and see if there really is a web! It can't be invisible or we would be able to see it, Raggedy Andy."

Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy walked down the road until they were out of sight of the Wrinklenose Sisters' house, but there did not seem to be any web which held them. "I guess they must be fooling us, Raggedy Ann," Raggedy Andy laughed.

"Maybe we can not see it because it is really only made for those who are not invisible themselves," Raggedy Ann said. "Let's each get a large stick and rush into the house and rescue the nice little old lady and the Storekeeper and Wooden Willie. And if the Wrinklenose Sisters try to stop us, we will whack them with the sticks!"

"Oh, no!" Raggedy Ann said. "Let's not whack them with sticks, for that would hurt them as much as it would the nice little old lady if we whacked her with a stick! We mustn't whack them!"

"Then shall we run away and leave our friends in this pickle?" Raggedy Ann asked.

"No sir—Bob!" Raggedy Ann said. "Let's go inside and see what can be done first. Maybe we can shut the Sisters into a room until our friends escape, then we can let the Wrinklenose Sisters out and follow our friends!"

"You always think of some good way to do everything," Raggedy Andy said. "We will go inside and look around for I am certain the Wrinklenose Sisters can not see us!"

And finding the kitchen door open, Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy, as quiet as two mice, tiptoed inside.

ANNUAL CHARITY BALL IS SCENE OF GAY BOX PARTIES

Affair Will Prove Successful Financially, Says Chairman

Lovely costumes and gay box parties gave a brilliant aspect to the annual charity ball at the Claypool Hotel last evening. Several hundred people passed through the receiving line, which included Mrs. David Ross, president of the Indianapolis Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Society which gave the ball, Mrs. Eliza Blaker, who has been superintendent of that organization for more than forty years, Mrs. John H. Holliday, Mrs. Samuel D. Mueller and Miss Alice Finch. Supper was served from 10 to 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. W. Critchlow, chairman of the ticket committee for the Charity Ball reports there were thirty-eight box parties at the ball, many including more than ten persons each so the receipts from the ball parties alone will total more than $1,000. Mrs. Critchlow says a conservative estimate of the number attending the affair would be 600. When all the returns are in the total will probably be more than $1,600.

Marriage à la Mode

The Javanese mother begins to work on her daughter's wedding robe as soon as the child is born. Hand-woven silk is embroidered in the most intricate patterns that often represent years of work.

Every family has some special, distinctive design for the wedding robe that has been handed down for centuries and is one of the most precious of family legacies.

Large-figured Prints

Brilliantly colored prints, in silk and cotton, are to be very popular this winter and spring. They were used extensively at Deauville last summer, and are a pleasant contrast from staid, one-toned gowns.
