

LEGION HEADS MEET TO TAKE STAND ON RUHR OCCUPATION

RIKHOFF EJECTS WOMAN COP WHO VOICED OPINIONS

Newspaper Statement by Miss Holsapple Termed 'Vicious' - by Police Chief.

REFUSES TO GIVE UP BADGE

'Offender' Smiles at Order of Boss, Who Threatens to Take Dismissal Steps.

Following the issuing of a newspaper statement denouncing the police department, by Miss Emily Holsapple, policewoman, Police Chief Herman Rikhoff today asked Miss Holsapple to turn in her badge. He termed the statement "vicious."

Miss Holsapple smiled but refused to give up the badge. The chief said he would take steps to have her dismissed. Because she had been on the force only since March 8, 1922, and her appointment never has been confirmed, as customary after a ninety-day probation period, Rikhoff said he believed it would not be necessary to file charges against her.

A conference was arranged between Oscar Quieser, secretary to the chief, and William T. Bailey, assistant city attorney.

"Constant Trouble"

It is found that Miss Holsapple cannot be dismissed without the filing of charges, the chief said he would charge insubordination and incompetency. He declared the police woman had been a constant source of trouble. Mrs. Hettie Brewer, colored, and Mrs. Anna Buck, policewomen, were called into conference by the chief to-day. When they declared they had never made statements against the chief and said they had been treated fairly, they were sent back to work collecting vehicle and boarding house licenses.

Following Chief Rikhoff's announcement last week that Miss Holsapple, Mrs. Brewer and Mrs. Buck would be put back to work in juvenile court, Judge Lahr of the court visited the chief and also sent him a letter to say that he refused to have the women around the court.

Dr. Hodgins Also Cold

Dr. E. E. Hodgins, president of the board of public health, also refused to use the three women in his department, although he said they might be used in a division of housing and sanitation, if it were attached to juvenile court. He said the health department had no funds with which to pay for their services.

The trouble started at a board of safety meeting Dec. 26, when Mayor Shank charged that the women were inefficient and asked that charges be placed against them. He charged that the city paid the bill while the women worked for the county in juvenile court. Since then they have been shifted from department to department.

Oil Turns Indian Woman Chief Into Modern Midas

By United Press

KAW CITY, Okla., Jan. 15.—Lucy Tiyap Eads, first woman chief of an Indian tribe, was looked on as a modern Midas by Poor Lu today.

She has turned the bleak hilltops of the Kaw Indian reservation into gold. The poverty-stricken cousins of the rich Osage Indians were being offered $1,000 and more for royalties on the land which for generations has barely produced pasturage for their lean cattle.

Wild scenes were enacted throughout the reservation today following discovery of a 2,000-barrel oil well. Excitement ran high as scouts raced to be the first in the field, and sleepy Indians were haled from their beds to grasp handfuls of money from those seeking leases. They remained blinking and unconvinced as the speculator dashed away to the next house.

But the Kaws felt assured that their new found fortunes are their rewards for selecting Lucy Tiyap Eads as their chief.

'WRONGED HUBBY' TRAILS WIFE TO HER 'LOVE COTE'

Another 'Eternal Triangle' Revealed When Jail Bars Snap Bonds of Romance.

By United Press

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 15.—Jail bars proved too much of a strain on the slender bonds of love ties in another 'eternal triangle' here today.

Dr. Charles H. Frye, physician of Beloit, Wis., and Mrs. Linna Rosentretter, also of Beloit, declared from their prison cells today they had paid in tears for their elopement last September. The couple was arrested on complaint of Albert Rosentretter, the "wronged husband" who followed his wife and Frye to Kansas City where he found the former prominent physician employed as a strike-breaker in the railroad yards.

The love-cote; he found was a rear room on the third floor of a cheap rooming house. "It all seems like a dream," Frye said today. "We drifted into it—I don't know how. It was only a month or so after I left Beloit and joined Linna here that I began to realize what I had done. I had left the savings of my life with my wife, so that she was not in want, but my conscience would not let me rest."

"Then I discovered that Linna was in touch with her husband. I did by best then to convince her that she should return to Rosentretter and her 4-year-old boy."

"Mrs. Rosentretter pleaded with her husband for 'another chance,' and he promised to take her back to their home in Beloit."

"I became enamored with his position and high standing in Beloit," she sobbed. "As my physician he called constantly for almost a year and finally I could not say no to his pleadings. But I am cured and want to go back to my husband."

Dr. Frye also declared he was anxious to return to the old life. Police, however, refused to release the couple pending an investigation.

Leader of Boy Sleuths Recovers Stolen Wagon

Hours of waiting and searching by members of the Kenwood Ave. Boy Detectives Association have been rewarded. The youthful sleuths had been on the lookout for wagons and other toys stolen in their neighborhood a week ago.

To Carl Grumann, 3646 Kenwood Ave., 8-year-old executive of the association, with his mother and sister, goes the credit for the recovery of Carl's wagon. Carl's eager eye spied a wagon similar to his, in possession of a boy at Twenty-Third and Meridian Sts., as the family was on the way downtown in an automobile.

Mrs. Grumann had hardly stopped the car before the children were out, and the chase for the boy and the wagon was on. When caught, the boy admitted the wagon was not his, but said it was given to him by "some one." Carl and his other were so happy to get the wagon, that they asked no other questions they said.

The wagon was very happy over his find, he was none the less interested in the recovery of the wagon belonging to Billy Lowry, 7, 3603 Kenwood Ave., which was stolen on the same night. Billy is a loyal worker in the detective association, and Carl today asserted he has clues to the missing wagon, and other thefts in the neighborhood.

DIXON

Disciple of T. R., May Be Fall's Successor

JOSEPH M. DIXON

By VFA Service

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 15.—"The biggest family of girls in any executive mansion in America."

That's what Montana claims. It's the family of Governor Joseph M. Dixon, whose name has come up in connection with President Harding's choice for a successor to Secretary of Interior Fall.

Dixon is a disciple of Theodore Roosevelt in more than one way. There's his family of six daughters. And there is his known progressive leaning in national politics.

As United States Senator from Montana, 1907 to 1912, Dixon was a close personal friend of Roosevelt. So much so that he became the former President's campaign manager and chairman of the Progressive National Committee in 1912.

Dixon is 55 now and has been Governor of Montana since January, 1921. His political activities, starting in 1892, took him through local offices to membership in Congress and the Senate, and then Governorship of Montana.

After his election as Governor of Montana, in 1920, and before he took office, there was talk of his possibility for appointment as Secretary of Interior. But Senator Fall's appointment ended that.

GOVERNOR 'JACK' IS BOOSTED FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Oklahoma Executive Was Clerk in Electrical Store Ten Years Ago.

By Times Special

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 15.—If it hadn't already happened, you'd swear it couldn't be done.

"Jack" Walton, who sits in the Governor's chair here today after the greatest inaugural celebration on record, ten years ago had a job in an electrical goods store and was apparently settled there for the rest of his life. By merest accident he got into politics and now he's being boosted for Vice President—but read on.

Over 100,000 persons from all over the State overflowed Oklahoma City to attend his inauguration and the biggest barbecue in the world's history. For three days and three nights the town revelled in a through local holiday, totally unlike anything else that had happened since the West ceased to be wild and woolly.

Was Some Party

And it was some party—War-whooping Indians in blankets and war paint-buckskinned cowboys on leaping pinto, snorting the air with resounding yells—old men—young men—women—children—everybody happy—sweeping through the streets in wild parade.

The inaugural ball at the State capitol—forty bands blaring away—400 "old fiddlers" sawing like mad—square dances for the oldtimers on one floor—Indian dances for the Indians on another—"cake walks" for the negroes on a third—jazz dances for the young folks on a fourth.

What sort of man is this Jack Walton for whom the town turned out to welcome him into office?

Ten years ago he was manager of the apparatus department in a Kansas City electrical store. If you had asked him then "Where do you hope to be ten years hence?" he would have answered "office manager," probably. But chance carved out another destiny.

That same year he came to Oklahoma City and opened an office as a consulting engineer, for he is a college graduate. In 1917 Oklahoma City decided to construct a new water-works and sewerage system for the entire town and they wanted a man who "knew his stuff" as commissioner of public works. Walton was asked to run and he did—and won.

Once in politics, he found he liked it and two years later they made him mayor of Oklahoma City. He was a mayor of original ideas; every Sunday he doled up his police department in their best bib and tucker and marched them down the street to attend church services. And he did a lot of other things equally as startling.

Came the summer of 1922 and his friends persuaded him to run for Governor on the Democratic ticket. Sensing the "back to the people" feeling, he made his plea to the hickory-shirted and blue-jeaned citizens who were going to rise up in their wrath and decide who was who and why in the November election. He wore a hickory shirt, himself, and ate pie with a spoon, just to show he didn't have any high-falootin' ways.

The "plain people" plea worked, and Dalton was elected by more votes than all those received by his opponents combined.

Already they're talking about running him for Vice President on a Henry Ford ticket, in 1924, but has he any further political ambitions?

Funeral services for Mrs. Addie B. Johnson, 53, will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the home, 904 E. Fifteenth St., with the Rev. E. H. Kistler in charge. Burial will be at Crown Hill. Mrs. Johnson, who was born in Pleasantville, Ohio, for thirty years had been a resident of Indianapolis. She lived in Noblesville for a time.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Maude Cook and Mrs. Edward M. Wood, both of Indianapolis; a brother, Albert Agnew, of Hamilton, Ill., and three sisters, Mrs. James L. Miller, West Point, Ill., and Miss Mary J. Agnew and Mrs. C. J. Grubb, both of Galesburg, Ill.

PROWLER FLEES

Elmer Spray, 270 Richmond St., reported to police last night that he heard a noise at his front window. Turning on the light he heard some one run from the front porch. Two men were standing on the sidewalk in front of a grocery across the street, he said.

Police searched the neighborhood, but failed to find any suspicious person.

SOUR STOMACH IS CAUSED BY ACIDS

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Advertisement.
