

CLARA PHILLIPS TRAILED BY FRENCH CHORUS GIRL

(Copyright, 1923, by United Press)
EL PASO, Feb. 5.—Catherine Uribe, French beauty and former Broadway chorus girl, is leading the hunt below the Rio Grande for Clara Phillips, escaped hammer murderer.

She desires the apprehension of the tiger woman so she may be deported to American soil in exchange for the Uribe brothers, held in a Los Angeles jail for "investigation" following arrest on a charge of automobile stealing.

The Uribe brothers are Herbert, husband of Catherine, and his brother Fernando. With Catherine they were arrested last November. Catherine put up bail in the form of a $10,000 diamond necklace and departed for Mexico to bring about the capture of Felipe Alquin, fugitive from Los Angeles murder charge, in exchange for her husband and his brother.

When the Alquin negotiations failed temporarily, Catherine got trace of Mrs. Phillips and determined to get her seized and exchanged instead of Alquin. The story of how this former stage beauty searched through the state of Chihuahua, in communication with rurales and other government forces, on the trail first of an international desperado and later of the "tiger woman," makes one of the most colorful chapters in border history.

Clara Makes Boast

The chapter opened when S. H. Hahn, noted criminal lawyer, went to Police Chief Oakes at Los Angeles and advised him that Catherine had boasted she could "land" Alquin, who had killed Detective Sergeant Fitzgerald. She was immediately turned loose, on furnishing the $10,000 bail in diamonds.

Going to Mexico, she enlisted aid of Dr. J. R. Uribe, her father-in-law, sanitary inspector of Juarez, known as the "little czar." She also communicated with Governor Cuernavaca of Chihuahua, and with her husband's uncle, a justice of the Mexican Supreme Court. Thus negotiations were under way for return to the States of Alquin, but the desperado learned of it and slipped away. Subsequently he was captured, and last week was ordered deported from Mexico.

Catherine Uribe, after Alquin's temporary escape, made twelve trips between Chihuahua City and Mexico City, trying to pick up the trail.

Early in January she learned that Clara Phillips, the "hammer slayer," who made her get-away from Los Angeles jail after being convicted of murdering Albert Meadows, was hiding in Mexico.

Dancer Starts Chase

Catherine immediately shifted her energies in the direction of this woman. Through Dr. Uribe confidential circulars were sent to the rurales and secret service agents, asking for word of her whereabouts. On Jan. 12, Catherine, then in Chihuahua City, obtained word that the Phillips woman was in Juarez in company with agents of a drug ring. Dr. Uribe obtained from El Paso police necessary data to make identification of Clara complete.

The beautiful dancer then hastened to Mexico City to arrange for the slayer's deportation, but while she was there the Juarez underworld learned of the plot. Clara eluded the guards of Dr. Uribe and escaped into the interior, going to Chihuahua City. She is supposed to be guided by one Jack Miller, a cousin by marriage, and the man credited with effecting her escape from the Los Angeles prison.

A "Danderine Beauty Treatment" will immediately double the attractiveness of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and possess an incomparable softness, luster and really appear twice as thick and abundant—a mass of luxuriant, glossy, colorful hair.

Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine eradicates dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is the best, cheapest and most delightful hair corrective and tonic. It is to the hair what fresh showers of rain are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, vitalizes and strengthens them. Its stimulating properties help the hair to grow long, heavy, strong.

You can surely have beautiful hair, and lots of it, if you will spend 35 cents for a bottle of Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter. It is not greasy, oily or sticky.—Advertisement.

SOUR STOMACH IS CAUSED BY ACIDS

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids. Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism. At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Advertisement.

ROBINSON PROBES DEATH OF GIRL IN BLEACHER CRASH

Coroner Paul F. Robinson today began investigating the bleacher crash during the Manual-Schortridge High School basketball game at Tomlinson Hall, Dec. 15, which resulted in the death of Helen Nackenhorst, 17, of 1122 Woodlawn Avenue.

Five persons were injured when the center section of the bleachers gave way, causing 200 spectators to fall. Miss Nackenhorst fell on top of her mother, Mrs. Lillian Nackenhorst. Complications followed a leg fracture.

The girl was a senior at Manual High School and would have been graduated last January. Her father, William Nackenhorst, is president of the Fountain Square State Bank. The Masomas Club, an organization of senior girls, will attend the funeral in a body. Services at St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1157 Linden St., will be conducted by the Rev. R. H. Benning, pastor. Burial will be in Crown Hill.

Thad M. Gurley, assistant city building inspector, investigated the crash the day after it occurred, but no report of his finding was made public.

Cream Puffs and Sour Pickles Is Diet of Heroes in 'Robin Hood' Travesty

By WALTER D. HICKMAN
SOUR PICKLES and cream puffs may not mix well, but King Richard, the lion-hearted, in Bull Montana's travesty on "Robin Hood," found the combination mighty pleasing.

The king also found that a dash of sauerkraut over a cream puff did nothing but increase the taste of his favorite dish.

Richard was fond of milk, purchased in modern sanitary bottles, and a sour pickle, but the pickle on numerous occasions did not mix well with the milk.

This strange diet is one of the many funny episodes in "Robin Hood," a movie burlesque on Douglas Fairbanks' "Robin Hood," which is one of the features at the Ohio this week. The other feature is Eugene O'Brien in "Broken Chains." Bull Montana takes the role of Robin Hood in the burlesque on the Fairbanks movie. Montana's merry "robbing" crew does not drink ale but enjoy cream puffs and a glass of milk.

The settings in the travesty or burlesque resemble those used by Fairbanks. Lady Marian in the Montana version is a cross-eyed woman who increases her beauty with Topsy pig-tails. Montana receives his love messages from Lady Marian by a telegraph messenger and the Lady warns Robin Hood not to tip the messenger.

The Crusaders start out to find "the cat's meow." All the subtitles are in popular slang of the day. These titles are mighty funny. The king while on the crusade for the "cat's meow" carries his own private billiard table. At night, the king uses the table for a bed. The king is stylish because he wears a nightgown over his suit of armor.

It is a difficult thing to burlesque a movie and it has been done successfully only on one or two occasions. "Robin Hood" is cooking good fun and will be the standard for months to come in this particular field of movie work. I found the Montana movie to be great fun.

The other feature on the Ohio bill is "Broken Chains" in which Malcolm McGregor and Colleen Moore do some splendid work. McGregor is cast as a good guy. He nearly goes to the grave before he gets up enough courage to fight and kill for the girl he loves. The story might have been first intended to be dramatic but the director and the actors have made it good comedy with large dashes of melodrama sprinkled through the entire movie. "This movie will surprise you. There is a corking good fight at the very end of the story. This McGregor chap is a comer in the movie field. The bill this week at the Ohio is a winner.

In Which Eugene O'Brien Teaches Valentino a Lesson

The ultimate in screen love-making has been reached by Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien in "The Voice From the Minaret."

Robert Hichens wrote a novel some time about the warm desert and the hot love-making which goes on there.

It remained for a wise director to cast Miss Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien in two of the chief roles. An expert in movie photography was called in and the result is that Eugene O'Brien teaches Valentino a few tricks in the art of love-making. No Sheik either in song or story, has anything on Eugene when it comes to making love. This picture is the matinee movie supreme. Women were crying and suffering beautifully with Norma yesterday when I was present. Every one was so afraid that Norma would be forced to live with an impossible husband of title when Eugene was just around the corner.

The movie director has handled the so-called "poisoned coffee" scene in fine shape. The director really makes an audience fear that the hero and heroine have been poisoned by an angry husband of the heroine. I am not poking fun at "The Voice of the Minaret" because a majority of the audience takes it seriously. Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien are the best love makers on the screen today. If there has been any doubt, then this picture removes it.

"The Voice From the Minaret" has been beautifully photographed and splendidly acted. It is loaded down with the atmosphere of the Orient and returned to the front room, wrapped themselves in blankets and climbed to the roof of the porch. The cold wind struck them as the men yelled "Fire, fire," and neighbors sent in the alarm.

The Tennant home also was filled with smoke, but no damage was done to that side of the house. The damage was estimated by the Seidels at about $1,000. The Tennants' wife was taken to a hospital some days ago.

A defective flue started a fire which destroyed the home of E. C. Boswell, Michigan Road and Forty-Ninth St., at 8 a. m. It was a ten-room, two-story frame structure. Lack of water prevented firemen from saving the residence, which was outside the city limits. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Men Arrested

The home of Mrs. Jennie Sten, Raymond St., west of White River, was destroyed by fire early today. The flames spread from a haystack to barns and outbuildings and then to the house.

When Sergeant Sheehan and a squad of police reached the scene at a. m., every building on the block was on fire. Mrs. Sten told police that as the fire started she saw John Grendan, a Rumanian, who lives in a shack in the rear of the Piel Brothers Starch Works, running away from the burning haystack, according to police. She said that she tried three times to shoot him but that her revolver missed fire.

The police found Grendan at home and arrested him on a vagrancy charge. He was held under high bond.

He denied having set fire to the Sten place, but admitted he believed the Sten woman had caused his arrest on a blind tiger charge a year ago, police said. Charles Sten, husband of Jennie Sten, convicted on a blind tiger charge about the same time, escaped from the penal farm and now is a fugitive from justice, police say.

Two men were injured and fourteen automobiles were damaged in a fire that started in the W. J. Six garage, 437-439 E. Tenth St., at 11 p. m. Sunday. Firemen had put out the blaze early today.

Six went from the office of the garage to the storage room just as a flame shot from between two automobiles. Attempting to put out the fire, he was slightly burned about the face and the heat drove him back.

City Fireman John Fox of truck company No. 5 was bruised when he fell with a ladder which slipped on the ice. John Duncan, another fireman on the ladder, saved himself by holding to a window ledge.

Mr. and Mrs. Six were in the office of the garage working on the books. Six fought the fire with chemicals until the firemen arrived. While the official reports of the fire stated the origin was unknown, Chief O'Brien said spontaneous combustion in oil-soaked rags probably started the blaze. Fourteen of the forty-five automobiles were damaged. The garage is a two-story brick building and the flames were confined to the first floor.

Robbers Steal Safe

By Times Special
FRANKLIN, Ind., Feb. 5.—Robbers broke into the interurban car for a morning and carried off a small safe. A workman saw a light truck leave the desert. It is dramatic and will hold your interest nearly all of the time. Norma suffers beautifully as the woman who is married to a man she does not love.

This movie will be a money maker because it has all the attributes of being a matinee success. I believe the drawing powers are unlimited. The Talmadge-O'Brien movie is the feature this week at the Circle, but there is a funny comedy, "Casey Jones Jr.," which is good for many laughs. There is a trick train in this comedy which is something new in the movie comedy field. The train is so slow that when it is late, it is not marked up "four hours late," but "four weeks late." A mighty good laugh.

At the Circle all week.

Lloyd Hamilton Turns Out A Comedy Which Is A Comedy

Day by day in every way I have been looking for a movie comedy which is different from the regular run.

After many weeks of search, I found it yesterday at the Apollo in Lloyd's Hamilton's "The Educator."

Hamilton is cast as a tenderfoot teacher who goes into a tough western town to teach the boys and girls that the letter "A" stands for apple. The comedian being carried away to the western town. Indians attack the coach and Hamilton defends himself by throwing banana peels in the path of the Indians. The warriors slip on the peels and lose the trail. New fun? Sure it is. The new teacher arrives in time to see former teachers being carried away on stretchers. The boys and girls turn out to be fathers past fifty and "girls" way over the forty-year margin. The rough house starts.

Teacher turns out to be not so much a tenderfoot as the pupils expected. The comedian used an army tactic to chase the "children" back to school. It is mechanical fun, but done in a new way. This is the first time I have taken Hamilton seriously.

The other feature on the Apollo bill is Clara Kimball Young in "The Worldly Madonna," in which she plays the dual role of a bad sister and a good one. Miss Young is wasting her fine talents upon weak vehicles, such as "The Worldly Madonna."

This woman needs a good story writer and she needs it badly. I am afraid if she waits too long that her grip on her movie public is going to slip.

In some of the scenes, she is a dope crazed woman. I guess she is the powers that are going to fill the movies full of this dope stuff. On the stage, the craze is spreading, as such a famous actress as Mrs. Fiske uses "dope" in her latest stage play. This picture will not increase the popularity of Clara Kimball Young. It is mighty good and very popular. The Apollo has found a strong combination in Virgil Moore's orchestra, in Lester Huff and his organ music, and in the Hoosier Harmony Three.

Hamilton and the music makes a visit to the Apollo this week worth while.

"The Third Alarm" Goes Into Second Week At English's

"The Third Alarm," a movie version of an old stage favorite, is now in its second week at English's.

It was decided last week to hold the picture over for a second week because of the remarkable draw of the picture toward the end of the first week.

"The Third Alarm" is melodrama but it is good melodrama. Mother love and the love of an old fireman for horses is mixed through the entire movie. It is always safe to put horses and children in a play or a movie.

This movie appeals to children as well as to the grown ups. Any family will have a good time seeing this one. In this department last week, "The Third Alarm" was reviewed at length. We found it enjoyable entertainment, well acted and well directed.

The fire scenes are the most realistic that I ever have seen on the screen.

At English's all week 1 p. m. until 11 o'clock.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap, but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain strained sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup or hoarseness.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.
