

WATSON-NEW RUPTURE STILL SMOULDERS UNDER SURFACE

'WETS' AROUSED OVER LETTER TO C. OF C. SECRETARY

President of Anti-Prohibition Association Denounces Sen. Moorhead.

BILL CENTER OF FIGHT

Interview on Memorial Day Is Start of Heated Controversy.

Resentment against a letter which Senator Robert Moorhead is said to have written to John B. Reynolds, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, attacking opponents of the Memorial day bill, was expressed today by James E. Isgriz, 215 E. Thirty-Sixth St., member of the Seventh District committee of the Indiana Division, Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

A purported copy of the letter states:

"A few days ago the head of an organization composed, as I understand, principally of ex-keepers, gave an interview as a director of the Chamber of Commerce, condemning the efforts of the decent, patriotic citizens to preserve Memorial day."

Letter Passed On

B. A. Worthington, president of the C. I. & W. Railroad, and head of the anti-prohibition committee, passed copies of the letter to his sixty-two associates, commenting:

"I flattered myself that the Seventh District committee of this association was composed of the highest class representation in the city, and a careful perusal of the sixty-three names certainly would not justify the slighting reference by State Senator Moorhead, as I doubt whether there is a single keeper in the association."

Members of Worthington's committee, according to the association's letterheads, are W. H. Bass, Joseph J. Buel, H. A. Bell, Louis J. Borstein, Smiley N. Chambers, Dr. Edmund B. Clark, Dr. Frank Dowd, John S. Fishback, Ronald A. Foster, Harry L. Freyn, Adolph J. Fritz, Edward E. Gates, W. F. C. Golt, George C. Grindster, W. B. Harding, F. T. Holliday, Dr. Charles D. Humes.

ELMORE MANSLAUGHTER CASE IS GIVEN TO JURY

Salesman Is Tried in Death of City Fireman.

Elmore was indicted as a result of the death of George E. Mumford, city fireman, Dec. 21, 1921, after an automobile driven by Elmore collided with a fire truck at Meridian and Fourteenth Streets.

Witnesses testified Elmore was driving south on Meridian, returning about 10:30 p. m. with A. H. Culley, 528 N. Meridian St., and two young women from Garden Point. Some witnesses said his speed was fifty miles an hour, others thirty. The forty-eight-foot fire truck came out of W. Fourteenth St. directly in the path of his auto. Elmore said his view was obscured by a tall hedge along the intersecting street, he declared.

INFLUENZA HITS COURT

Judge Lahr and Entire Staff Are Absent.

'Old-Timers' of Scouting Here Tell Non-Members Much Pleasure and Benefit They Are Missing

That scout work teaches a boy to be truthful, loyal and serviceable is shown by the testimony of Leslie Fleck, S. O. Hendren, Leslie Fleck, Lewis Burnett, Ralph Cox, Robert Hatfield, Arnold Graham, Will Elbaugh, Fred Wilson, Harry Sutton, Everett Hatfield, Warren McNaughan, Andrew Hopping, Ralph Agnew, Howard Bates and Roger and Warren Beam.

Newell Hall, one of the younger boys of Troop 1, recently organized a troop in Rockville, Ind., where Hall is high school principal.

Another of the "old timers" is Lewis Burnett, 333 Garfield Ave., credit man for the John Deere Plow Works.

"Tell the boys for me that I am just as eager to celebrate anniversary week as any active scout," Burnett said. "Every boy in Indianapolis ought to be a scout."

Burnett served in France during the war.

Many of the first scouts are in Indianapolis, others are scattered from Washington, D. C. to California.

Ralph Shepherd, of Troop No. 1, works for the G. & J. Tire Company; Ralph Miller, for the Standard Oil Company. Howard Bates is studying law.

How scout work helps in managing a large plantation in Louisiana could be told by Harry Sutton. Government work could be described by Arnold Graham of Washington, D. C.

Elbaugh has made good in local business and owns a letter shop at 1204 N. Pennsylvania St. The Army was picked by two of the boys, Sam Neuman and Andrew Hopping, lieutenants.

Watson Out of Senate

Watson laughs at the suggestion that he is a presidential candidate. Yet he tells his friends that he will not be a candidate for the Senate again. And his friends are out turning every trick to keep Watson in the presidential spotlight. The one trick that must be turned is to establish Watson as the Republican leader in Indiana. In that place there would be cause to consider him in a Republican convention.

President Robert J. Aley, speaking on "The Significance of the Day," painted a glowing picture replacing the darkness of the recent today.

Miss Evelyn Butler, daughter of Ovid Butler, the founder, recalled her boyhood as churchman, educator and lawyer. Dr. Joseph Armstrong of the Downey Avenue Christian Church, performed the invocation and Prof. W. C. Morrow, the benediction. Mrs. Ray Metzger sang. The seniors appeared for the first time in cap and gowns.

"Ever since the end of the war," Swift said, "when our army came home asking nothing and bringing nothing but their guns and victorious flag, the strained and tired eyes of our men and women have turned to us. Incidentally, New knows fairly well that Watson could not hurt him much with the President, as New and Harding are too close political and personal friends."
