'FIRE DEMOCRATS' IS CRY OF INDIANA G.O.P. JOBHOLDERS

Organization Formed to Oust Followers of Jackson and Jefferson.

PURNELL AIDS DAN CUPID

Representative Merrill Moores Denies He Knows Everything.

BY JOHN CARSON
Times Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Woe unto the Indiana Democrats who hold Government jobs outside the Civil service.

The Republican jobholders from Indiana have declared war. They want a census of all the Indiana jobholders who are Democrats. They demand the chiefs of departments kick out the Democratic jobholders.

The jobholders formed an organization known as a Republican State Voters Association. They are a group distinct from the Government workers from Indiana. The workers are under civil service, as a rule, and are little concerned about politics except in those hours when the party politician invades the civil service and gets jobs. The jobholders don't insist on working. They promise rather to assist in getting out the vote in election time.

The jobholders had their meeting the other night and Postmaster General New talked to them. New prated about the glories of the Harding Administration. The jobholders took it all in without a sigh or murmur. That was part of their service to the cause. Then they got busy. Their real work was to denounce the Democratic jobholders and with much enthusiasm they cried out for more pap for more Republican workers.

Asked About Oil Stock

Representative Merrill Moores admits to some knowledge, but that he is an authority on everything, he denies.

Moores had a telegram from a citizen in Indianapolis. He wanted to know whether he should buy a certain oil stock. Moores wired he knew nothing about oil stocks.

The oil stock telegram is the latest demand. Moores has an average of one inquiry a week as to real estate conditions in certain parts of the city.

Another Hoosier has a patent method for a tunnel under the English channel, starting at the "rock of Gibraltar."

Purnell Aids Matrimony

One success as a match-maker does not commit Representative Purnell to the job, permanently.

Purnell had a letter from a woman in his district. She wanted a husband. Purnell made the letter public and she got a husband. The last time Purnell was home she introduced him to her husband.

Now Purnell has another letter from the same woman. She says the first man did not turn out to be all she expected and she wants another husband. She is not divorced but will be, perhaps. She wants inquiries addressed to a friend also—because her husband insists on opening her letters and reading them.

COLLINS DEMANDS GREATER CARE IN ISSUING WARRANTS

Judge Acquits Woman on Appeal From Fine in City Court.

Reputed illegal search warrants issued by the city court for police raids will not be approved by Criminal Court. This says Judge James A. Collins.

"This is America," said the judge. Rights of citizens against illegal or unreasonable search and seizure will be protected by his court, he said.

Evidence Is Barred

Judge Collins, Monday, found Mrs. Louise Barger, Apartment 1, 964 N. Meridian St., not guilty of operating a blind tiger, after he ruled any evidence obtained against her in a raid under a city court search warrant could not be introduced. The writ was illegal, he said. She had appealed a fine of $50 in city court.

The writ was obtained on an affidavit sworn out by a policeman by order of his superior officer, who had complaints from "neighbors" about Mrs. Barger, the officer testified.

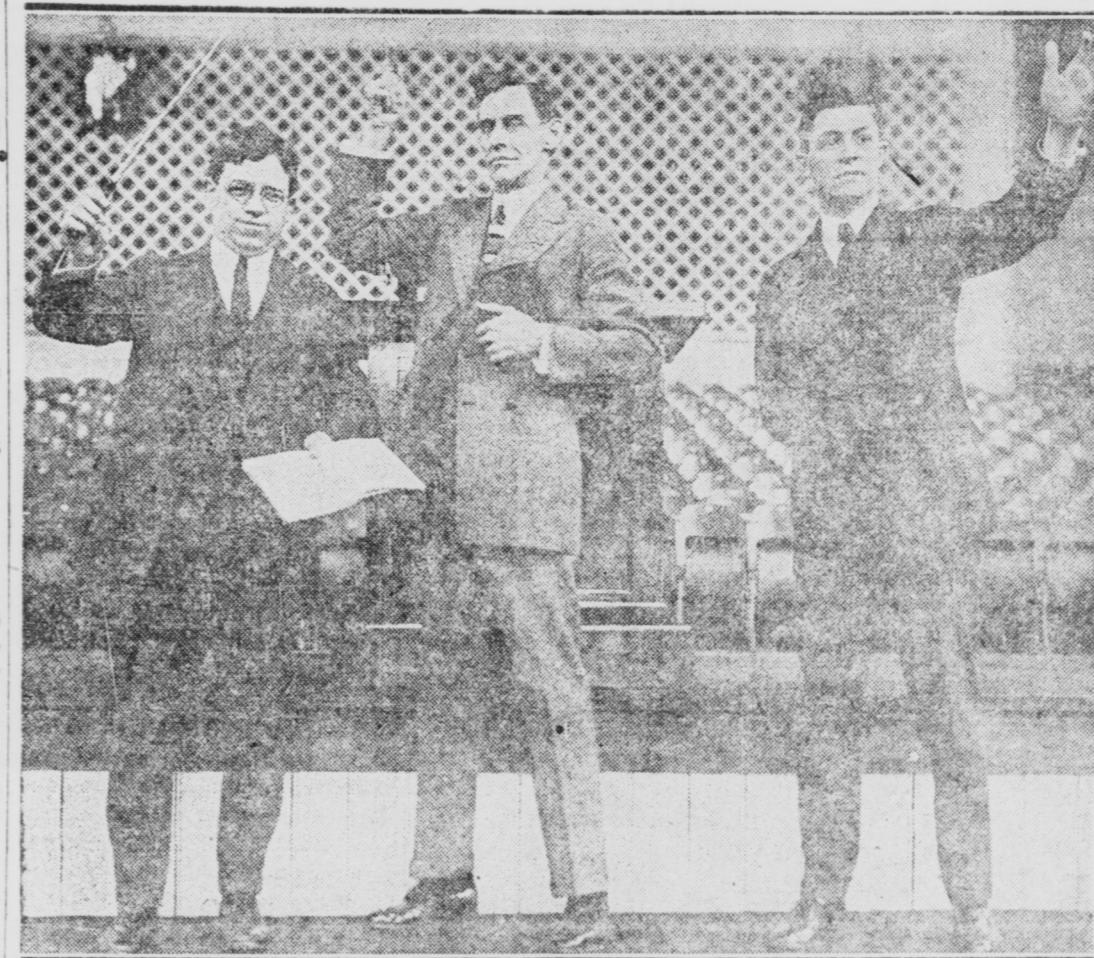

Judge Collins frequently has strongly expressed himself "against the practice of breaking into and tramping through homes on the strength of anonymous telephone complaints and the like."

Says Booze Was Found

The policeman witness told the judge, not as evidence, that both whisky and beer were found in the Barger home.

"Search warrants to enter homes will have to be legal," Judge Collins declared. "They can only be issued when some person of his own knowledge makes affidavit that law is being violated."

Large Crowds Nightly Hear Gospel Expounded by These Men—Song Leader, Evangelist and Preacher

LEFT TO RIGHT—THE REV. PERCY JAMES, DR. E. J. BULGIN, MAJ. EARLE F. HITES.

Three men are preaching the doctrine of Christ at the Cadle Tabernacle every night. They are Dr. E. J. Bulgin of Portland, Ore., evangelist; the Rev. Percy James, song leader, and Maj. Earle F. Hites, pastor of the Tabernacle.

Rev. James "makes" the audience sing. He, with Joe Overmeyer, leads the tabernacle choir. Major Hites assists Dr. Bulgin.

Taking as his subject "Christ and Sociology," Dr. E. J. Bulgin, evangelist, discussed the parables of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the prodigal son in relationship with life in a sermon at the Cadle Tabernacle Monday night.

Dr. Bulgin is giving a series of sermons every night for four weeks.

"Jesus Christ is a redeemer and a social reformer," he said. "He taught men how to live in harmony.

It is necessary for a man to be in the right relation with God in order to be in the right relation with society as it is for the earth to be in the right relation with the sun."

The hardest man you preachers have to convert is the man who is lost and doesn't know it.

If I could get every man and woman in Indianapolis to think tonight there wouldn't be another sinner in the city within a month.

that he ate with publicans and sinners he told the story of the lost sheep in order to illustrate his views of sociology.

The evangelist told in detail the parable of the lost sheep, and of the prodigal son, and especially of the prodigal son.

He said the last should be turned in spirit.

Based on the story of the prodigal son, he told the story of the lost sheep in order to illustrate his views of sociology.

Dr. Bulgin said the five steps of sin are in the order named: alienation, deterioration, expatriation, starvation and degradation; while the steps to regeneration are: reflection, resolution, action, opposition, reconciliation.

He next came to public notice when he had charge of the landscape development for the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1904. Later he was in charge of the restoration of Forest Park, where the fair was held.

Mr. Kessler was called in on the development of Prospect Park, around the Americana flats at Niagara. He was a special consultant in the proposed reconstruction of the New York Central Railroad tracks along Riverdale Park in New York City.

The park board, at a special meeting, decided to send J. Walter Jarvis, superintendent of parks and recreation, to represent the city at the funeral.

Operated on Saturday

Mr. Kessler died Monday night at St. Vincent's Hospital, after an operation last Saturday for kidney trouble.

He was brought here Monday, March 12, from his home in St. Louis, Dr. Henry Jameson and Dr. B. Noble of Indianapolis. He was critically ill and chose an operation as his only chance for life, Dr. Jameson said to day.

Mr. Kessler's sister, Miss Antoinette Kessler, and his son, George Kessler, Jr., accompanied him here. Mr. Kessler was 51.

Mr. Kessler first became associated with Indianapolis workers in 1908, when he was appointed landscape architect for the Government housing project at Rock Island, Ill., and Davenport, Iowa.

At the time of his death, Mr. Kessler was laying out plans for developing Butler University when it is removed to Fairview Park.

Mr. Jameson, who is chairman of the Butler building and grounds committee, today said he believed Mr. Kessler had drawn the fundamental plans for development of streets and boulevards around the university.

Designer of Garfield Park

His best-known work in Indianapolis was the designing and development of Garfield Park, with its beautiful winding drives, sunken gardens and fountains.

Born in Frankenthal, Germany, in 1862, Mr. Kessler came to America known as the parable of the prodigal sons, because the elder son, who complained of the feast for the reprobate, was the son of a rich man.

"Men are going to the devil of a sick will," he said. "Moral paralysis is the worst paralysis on God's footstool. A paralyzed will is the worst thing in the world."

The subject tonight will be "The Church: Her Origin, Her Authority, Her Power."

and reorganization.

It is as necessary for a man to be in the right relation with God in order to be in the right relation with society as it is for the earth to be in the right relation with the sun."

MARBLE SEASON STARTS WITH FIRST SPRING DAY

Do you know what day tomorrow is?

It is the first day of spring. That means the marble season is with us for sure.

And besides, the weather man says it is going to be warmer. He played a mean trick on the boy and girl marble shooters of Indianapolis when he brought along a cold wave just when they wanted to practice for The Times tournament, but he is going to make up for it.

With the coming of warm days, which cannot be very far in the future now, you will want that bicycle shooter in the United States, for The Times is giving to the best marble shooter in the city.

When God saves a fallen woman or a fallen man they stand back in His presence as if they had never been. Dr. Bulgin said. "It is a long journey to get away from God, but a mighty easy one to get back."

Dr. Bulgin pointed out that when the scribes and Pharisees complained that he ate with publicans and sinners he told the story of the lost sheep in order to illustrate his views of sociology.

Dr. Bulgin said the five steps of sin are in the order named: alienation, deterioration, expatriation, starvation and degradation; while the steps to regeneration are: reflection, resolution, action, opposition, reconciliation.
