

COMING HORRORS IN WAR

THE chief war weapon of the future will be gas, probably used from airplanes. This is the conclusion reached by Col. J. F. C. Fuller in his book, "The Reformation of War."

During the closing period of the World War, he was chief of staff in Britain's tank corps.

The gas-spreading airplane, Fuller predicts, will "destroy infantry like vermin." He continues prophetically:

"The infantry are toiling along a road. The airplanes approach. They fly at an altitude well outside effective bullet range. They open their chemical tanks and a fine spray and fog envelops the astonished column of men. Suppose this gas is a deadly poison, all these men will shortly die."

"Suppose that this gas is but an anesthetic, then the whole column will fall into a mystic sleep. What general on earth is going to win decisive battles if whole divisions and corps are going to be put to bed for several hours at a time?"

That last remark of Fuller's is a trifle facetious. The gas, of course, would be death-dealing. Warring nations are concerned chiefly with killing, not with temporarily disarming the enemy.

A horrible fate is in store for city dwellers during future big wars, according to Fuller:

"I believe that great cities such as London will be attacked from the air, and that a fleet of, let us suppose, 500 airplanes each carrying 500 bombs of, let us suppose, mustard gas, might cause 200,000 minor casualties and throw the whole city into a panic."

"Picture, if you can, what the result will be: London for several days will be one vast raving Bedlam, the hospitals will be stormed, traffic will cease, the homeless will shriek for help, the city will be in pandemonium."

Therefore, Fuller argues, a defending air force must be ready to strike back at once. Which, of course, is second best choice to international disarmament.

The past century has demonstrated that it costs increasingly more to kill a soldier with each new war. New means of defense are quickly devised to protect soldiers against new means of attack. Militarists, thus frustrated, naturally are turning more and more to attacking civilians back of the lines.

It is safe to predict that, if another big war comes, the main campaigns will be directed at civilians instead of armies and navies. Starvation blockades, for instance. And, more particularly, destruction of cities by airplanes carrying high explosives and poison gas.

That's the outlook for your sons and daughters—unless a way can be found to disarm internationally.

GOBIN'S SERVICE TO MAN

LET your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

So taught the great Teacher in the sermon on the mount two thousand years ago.

This text is descriptive of the life of Dr. Hillary A. Gobin, vice president emeritus of De Pauw University. His death is mourned by thousands of students and associates whose lives he made brighter and whose pathways he made smoother.

No greater service could be imagined than the service rendered by Dr. Gobin. As counselor and friend to thousands of youths, he was a great influence during the formative period of their lives in turning their footsteps in the direction of good citizenship.

No greater thing can be said of a man than that he was beloved of his fellow men. So certainly was Dr. Gobin. The tributes paid this teacher and friend by former students of De Pauw are sufficient proof of this.

His character is summed up in this statement of the Rev. George M. Smith, pastor of the Roberts Park M. E. Church:

"Dr. Hillary A. Gobin in the church was a minister of high order. Among preachers he was beloved, as a man he was a prince, in the educational field he was a scholar and teacher of high order, who won the admiration and love of thousands who mourn his departure."

DODGERS GUESS WRONG

UNCLE Sam gets after the tax dodgers and in one year collects more than 300 million dollars. Many corporations thought that, by hiring cunning bookkeepers, they could evade taxes. They are learning, they guessed wrongly. At that, the 300 million dollars is only a fraction of what has been hidden in the intricacies of complicated books. Some corporations and individuals keep a special set of doctored books to show the tax man. It is one of the modern forms of scientific stealing.

Two Cities Were Capitals of Connecticut From 1701 to 1873

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
You can get an answer to any question of fact or information by writing to the Indianapolis Times, Washington bureau, 222 New York Ave., Washington, D. C., enclosing 2 cents in stamps. ment is not recognized by the United States.

WALL STREET IS BEHIND GOUGE IN SUGAR, IS BELIEF

New York Banks Have Great Interest in Directing High Price.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Is the big sugar gamble of 1920 closely linked up with the present gouge? Do the big New York banks and the American refiners have a very great interest and a directing hand in the gouge?

You are now paying more than 4 cents a pound "gouge" for sugar. Sugar can be retailed today at 7 cents a pound and give every one a good profit. That is admitted. Everything additional is "gouge." The American consumers are paying more than $1,000,000 a day "gouge."

Charges are made today by the beet and cane sugar producers in this country that the real story of the gouge is that the sugar trust, New York financial interests and Cuban bankers, are collecting from the American consumers to pay for the losses of the sugar trust in the disastrous sugar gamble of 1920.

American refiners the cane sugar trust own and control most of the sugar produced in Cuba.

New York, Boston and Canadian banks have practically held a mortgage on Cuba since 1920 because of the failure of the sugar trust to put over the big gamble. One New York bank took over forty-two of the 178 factories to protect its loans.

The New York financial interests have had representatives in Cuba very recently. The cane sugar trust or American refiners have had representatives there. They all had representatives there in 1919. There were many conferences. It was agreed that Cuba could recover and would recover when sugar prices went up. Then the money-lenders could collect on their loans of 1920.

Hence, the "sugar famine" of today.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches.

The True Spirit of Giving

"This widow cast in more than all." Mark 12:43.

Read Mark 12:41-43.

"Religion is more than a personal possession of security and peace and joy. It is a service, a sacrifice, a gift to others."

MEDITATION: "Money is a temporary possession. If a man cannot use unselfishly that which must soon go to another, how can he be given in the age to come something to keep, forms of spiritual power that will be an essential part of himself."—Bosworth.

HYMN: Savior, who thy life didst give.

That our souls might ransom be, Best we not till all the world.

Hearts that love and turn to thee, PRAYER: O Lord Jesus, give us more charity, more self-denial, more likeness to thee, teach us to sacrifice our comfort to others, and our likings, for the sake of doing good. Make us kindly in thought, gentle in word, generous in deed. Teach us that it is better to give than to receive, better to forget ourselves than to put ourselves forward; better to minister than to be ministered unto. And unto thee, the Lord of Love, be glory and praise forever. Amen.

ANY years ago an old boarder called Tom was left for the night in charge at a small roadside hotel.

"To brace himself for his work, he took a number of drinks. About 2 a. m. a traveling man drifted in and asked for a room."

"Tom didn't pause to register this guest, but stumbled up the stairs ahead of him and banged upon the first door he came to. A sleepy but noisy voice bade him:

"Get away from that door."

"Seems to be somebody in there," quoth Tom.

"Seems to be," agreed the traveler.

So Tom continued down the corridor, banging on door after door until he had aroused half the guests, when at last he came to an empty room.

"There you be," he said to the new arrival. "This is yer room."

And he turned and walked down the hall.

"Hey! Wait," yelled the traveling man. "Where's my key?"

"Key?" exclaimed Tom, indignantly. "Key? Why, d— you, if you're an honest man you'll stay in there."

AUTO MAN WILL SPEAK

Does Sex Pity Sway Murder Juries? 'Yes,' Say Men; 'No,' Declares Woman

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
NEA Service Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 20.—Is it hard to convict a woman of murder? "Yes," says the prosecutor who recently secured the conviction of Mrs. Lillian Ralston.

"No," says a woman lawyer who successfully defended Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Wells from charges growing out of the death of a Long Island innkeeper.

"Yes," says a veteran trial lawyer, who believes sympathy rules most murder juries.

Yet two of the last three murder cases in which women were the defendants ended in convictions. Mrs. Paulette Saludes received a prison sentence of twenty years to life for the murder of her bartender, Oscar Martellero. Mrs. Ralston received a similar sentence for the murder of Dr. Abraham Glickstein.

"The trouble with most murder cases in which a woman is the defendant," says Joseph V. Gallagher, prosecutor in the Ralston case, "has been that the dead man was held up for trial instead of the woman. If it could be shown that the dead man was a rotter and deserved to be killed anyway the woman was acquitted and she walked out of the courtroom in the midst of a cheering crowd."

"But the day is rapidly passing. Partly it's the flapper's fault. By her exaggerated conduct she has gradually shaken man from the notion that woman was entitled to some special deference."

"Partly the growth of suffrage is responsible. Along with equal rights women have learned they must accept equal responsibilities and that the law can no longer be expected to make sex discriminations."

Miss Helen P. McCormick, a former assistant district attorney who defended Mrs. Wells, is convinced that public opinion has swung so far the other way that there is danger at the present moment of doing injustice to women on trial for murder.

"This phase will also pass," says Miss McCormick, "and at some time in the future we may expect the ideal condition in which sex discriminations play no part."

But is public opinion changing? The sympathies of the world always have been, always will be with the weaker, declares Max D. Steuer.

recognized as one of the greatest trial lawyers in America.

"Some women may admire the swaggering bully," says Steuer. "But men have a horror of him. Confront a jury of twelve men with a woman who has been abused and tortured until finally in desperation she has killed her tormentor—and they will acquit her every time. The attorney for the defense has much the better of it."
