CITY TO ACQUIRE RIVER LOWLANDS IN LAKE PROJECT

Shank Promises Condemnation Action Against Rocky Ripple,

Steps will be taken immediately to acquire the lowlands bordering White River near the new Fairview Park site of Butler University, to be developed by the city as an artificial lake, Mayor Shank said today.

The mayor said a resolution condemning that part known as Rocky Ripple would be prepared as soon as possible. "The biggest thing in the whole project," the mayor said, "is to prevent further building in the valley." The city ought to own the entire lowlands along the river from Rocky Ripple to Riverside. Whether or not this is used for an artificial lake, it should be owned by the city as part of the park system or for a forest reserve."

The mayor inspected the territory Sunday. With him were Mrs. Shank, Jepp, Metcalf, Elliott, Lawrence V. Sheridan, secretary of the city plan commission, and Dr. Henry Jameson, chairman of the board of directors of the Indianapolis Street Railway Company.

A thorough survey of the lowlands, with a view toward constructing a lake costing about $1,500,000, will be made as soon as the lowlands are dry.

Mayor Shank said the flood prevention commission, which is in good financial shape, can erect the dam. It is estimated the city can buy the lowlands at $400 to $500 an acre. There are about 600 acres in the tract.

DOCTORS DIDN'T HELP HER SICKLY CHILD

Strong and Healthy Now. Mother Says Milks Emulsion Saved Its Life.

"Last May my 3-year-old baby was taken very ill, got so bad that we expected her to die at any time. Had four doctors, but they did not know what ailed her, and finally stopped coming. She had been sick about five months when I started giving her Milks Emulsion. I noticed results from the first, and by the time she had taken two bottles she was absolutely strong and healthy. I am thankful to say Milks Emulsion saved her life."—Mrs. Willis S. Pitts, Nacogdoches, Texas.

For restoring appetite, health and strength in sickly children, mothers will find Milks Emulsion the thing they have always sought. Most children like to take it, because, unlike many emulsions and tonics, it really tastes good.

Milks Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action; it is a truly corrective medicine, doing away with all need of pills and potions. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, and thus build flesh and strength. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened; it is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

Lieutenant Baker had just taken off when he made a sharp turn. A gust of wind caused the machine to go into a nose-dive. A rib of the machine punctured the gasoline tank causing the explosion, according to Captain W. F. Donnelly, flying Instructor for the squadron at Farley field.

Members of the squadron rushed to the scene with fire extinguishers, but were unable to rescue the fliers.

Brother Testifies Against Brother in Trial of Cult

'Division of Spoils' Promised Him, Is Statement of 'Shiloh' Night Watchman at House of David.

By United Press

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 26.—Brother testified against brother today in the $80,000 damage suit brought by John W. Hansel against Benjamin F. Purnell, "king" of the "House of David," religious cult at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Quinto Rosetta, brother-in-law of Mrs. Esther Hansel, and brother of Emil Rosetta, today took the stand for the defense. He testified that a promise of a "division of the spoils" was made him by Mrs. Hansel in October, 1921.

"The money proposition sounded pretty good to me," and we talked it over," he testified.

He added that later he received a letter from his brother, Emil, witness for the Hansels, stating that if I didn't fall in line with them "they would be out of the picture."

He further testified that when it came to a showdown, Mrs. Hansel told him that she would swear that Benjamin had been intimate with her. He asked if this were true and she replied "no."

Rosetta was employed as a night watchman for some time at "Shiloh," Benjamin's home at the colony.

Reports that Governor Alex J. Grossbeck will order an investigation into the activities of the House of David, religious cult at Benton Harbor, Mich., were prevalent today.

Mrs. Dorian M. Russell, president of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs, announced her organization was solidly behind a grand jury investigation into the activities of Benjamin and his associates in the cult's "inner circle."

Plaintiff Who Asked $250,000 From Father-in-Law Disappointed at Verdict—Jury Immune

From Wiles, They Declared.

By United Press

CHICAGO, March 26.—A "beauty proof" jury today awarded Mrs. Gladys Graham Fox only $5,000 damages in her suit against her millionaire father-in-law, Albert Fuchs, who she accused of breaking up her home.

Mrs. Fox, who had asked $250,000, dissatisfied with the small award, immediately asked for a new trial "by a new judge and a new jury," which was granted by Judge Scanlan.

The jurors, picked carefully for attorneys for the wealthy real estate dealer for their ability to withstand the appeal of an attractive woman, decided Fuchs had caused an estrangement between Mrs. Fox and her husband. After twenty-four hours of deliberation, however, they agreed she was entitled to only one-fifth of the amount she asked.

All jurors declared Mrs. Fox's in no way affected their decisions.

"I guess they weren't influenced greatly by the evidence, either," was Mrs. Fox's only comment.

She was plainly disappointed by the small judgment.

The twelve men claimed they were immune to the comeliness of any woman. Their average age was just under 40 and all but one was married.

Mrs. Fox claimed her father-in-law objected to her because she was not of German ancestry.

Her husband changed his name from Fuchs to Fox during the World War.

Mrs. Fox's attorney pictured her happy married life until they alleged the father-in-law interfered.

The lecture was under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist. Mrs. Mary Edith Armel, introduced Mrs. Fox, declared.

He said in part:

"There is nothing on earth that should interest us more than the experience of finding heaven. Whatever trouble we may experience, however heart-wearied or sin-burdened we may be, our one and only remedy is the application of a right understanding of the kingdom of heaven. If we are in the depths of darkness, nothing short of the heavenly vision will dispel such darkness."

"Christian Scientists are most grateful for all improved transitional mental states, recognizing them as human footprints to higher spiritual attainments. They do not ignore such improvements. In other words, they do not ignore the moral law of growth and unfoldment in their effort to reach the goal of spirituality. Improved moral conditions always precedes the understanding of spiritual things."

Long Bridge to Cross

The Ten Commandments are not broken aside by Christian Scientists as non-essentials. If it often said that to obey the first commandment is to keep all of them. There is a long bridge between the material and the spiritual, which can be crossed only through definite human footprints through strict obedience to the moral law, observance of the Golden Rule, and loving one's neighbor as one's self."

He further testified that when it came to a showdown, Mrs. Hansel told him that she would swear that Benjamin had been intimate with her. He asked if this were true and she replied "no."

Rosetta was employed as a night watchman for some time at "Shiloh," Benjamin's home at the colony.

throw down to her treacherous friend who implored her to "frame" him so that they could ride his fortune for a "barrel of sugar."

Perhaps fifty "grind," perhaps even a hundred thousand seem to have been in the Broadway estimate of the value which the unfortunate Mitchell would place upon his respectability if the choice were put up to him.

And it was all fixed except that "Dot" King, the only one who had this power over Mitchell, apparently would not play ball.

"Dot's" diamonds and furs, which were stolen, were only incidental booty, for five to be left behind. Perhaps it was not the intention to kill "Dot" King. There was no harm in her living on because for "Mr. Marshall's sake, she wouldn't have dared a "squel," and, anyway, there were more of the same things for her where those came from.

Mitchell, the gray-haired, well-preserved millionaire son-in-law of J. P. Morgan's banking partner, the man who carried himself with such distinction bearing that Broadway said he was "one of those English-speaking guys"—he has lost himself.

House Is Old Garage

At Mitchell's town house, directly across the street from J. P. Morgan's mansion, a bullet said Mitchell had spent the night there, but had left. The house is an old garage converted into a beautiful studio-apartment, separated from the sidewalk by a gracious little strip of grass. In it there is said to be an old bronze grille, a work of art worth a fortune.

Albert Guimaraes, the "love sweetie" of "Dot" King, as distinguished from her "heavy sugar sweetie," made himself hard to find. He recently denied indignantly that he ever beat up "Dot" and even more vehemently the imputation that he—Albert Guimaraes—had ever submitted upon the proceeds of the girl's career. He is a broker. There seemed to have been a sudden exodus from Broadway of those who knew "Dot" King socially.

It is known that two persons had read the missing letter in which Mitchell wrote that he wanted to kiss her little pink toes. The blackmail possibilities of this missive would not have been lost upon certain of "Dot" King's associates.

There were reports from Palm Beach that Mrs. Mitchell was returning to Philadelphia in a special car accompanied by relatives, but her attitude toward her husband was left to conjecture which was most active concerning this phase of this most dramatic "Broadway" case.

Danderine is the best, cheapest and most delightful
