Uncle Wilbert Robinson, the vast manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, seems well satisfied with the decision of Jacques Fournier, the first baseman whom he sought, but didn't get, from the Cardinals, to remain aloof, so to speak, this summer. Fournier decided it would lower his professional prestige to play with the Dodgers, and so he has leased himself out as manager of a semi-pro club in lower Illinois.

Robinson has found an able understudy in Fred Schliebner, a recruit from Little Rock, who has developed in the last few days a priceless confidence in himself when at bat. His fielding has been excellent from the start, but it did seem for a time he was not capable with the stick.

The general opinion of those who have seen the Dodgers and Yankees together is that the Brooklyn team is in far better physical shape than the American League Champions.

WILLARD ORDERED TO RETURN EAST

New York Dubious About His Training Methods.

By HENRY L. FARRELL United Press Staff Editor

NEW YORK, April 3.—Reports that Jess Willard is leaving ready for the Floyd Johnson fight in the way he prepared for Jack Dempsey caused the New York boxing commission today to summon the former champion to New York to finish his training.

Willard, it will be remembered, took Dempsey so lightly when he was preparing to defend his title in Toledo that he refused to work when the sun was too hot, and it was not most of the time. Through some of the underground channels in which most of the fight gossip is transmitted, it is reported here that Willard had cut the pay of his sparring partners in his Excelsior Springs camp and that they were preparing to call a strike.

The boxing commission apparently heard the stories and William Muldoon ordered the huge Kansas to come on to New York and let some of the big experts see him doing his stuff.

Upon investigation it was found that the reports were at least partially untrue. It seems that Willard was not satisfied with the work of his trainer, and he set about dismissal of his handler by cutting his pay.

Willard, who is to fight for the New York milk fund and $25,000—has been considered more or less of an unknown quantity to go against Floyd Johnson, and provisions were made some time ago to shoot Luis Firpo, the South American giant, against Johnson if Willard should not be ready.

Hamilton and Walton were close behind with 1,123. Strassack also led in the singles with a count of 408. Gehlert went over 600 with a score of 619.

Baseball Picture Puzzle Contest Closes Tonight

O'MARA LOOKING AHEAD TO FUTURE PLAY WITH TRIBE

Ollie Visits City on Job Hunt—Lees Accepts Terms—Hickey Expected.

Business Manager Neal of the Louisville club reached the city shortly after noon Monday. He is still in the hands of the American Association was due from Chicago later in the afternoon. Ollie Smith of the Indians and Neal were awaiting Hickey's arrival, and it was evident efforts would be made to reach an agreement between the Indians and Louisville over the Ellis-Hagman deal.

By EDDIE ASH

Ollie O'Mara is in town. The former Tribe pitcher and heavy hitter, who jumped the Indians in 1922, was shaking hands with former Tribe mates and acquaintances among the New York Giant Yankigans.

O'Mara is still an insoluble in organization, but he can clear himself by remaining away from the outlaws during 1923. He is thinking seriously of doing that very thing, and he was here today to look over the employment field. Here are the facts: If Ollie can obtain employment in Indianapolis and a week-end semi-pro baseball job in addition, he may decide to remain hereabouts. He may decide to remain hereabouts. He may decide to remain hereabouts. He may decide to remain hereabouts.

Must Avoid Ineligibles

Of course, if Ollie plays semi-pro ball in Indiana he will have to guard against playing with or against ineligible men.

If O'Mara can't find employment and a semi-pro berth in this city he may consider the same line of employment in one of the State towns. He can still elude the ball and he surely would make a splendid drawing card for a State independent team.

Ollie has a family to support and it is necessary that he be employed at something in order to meet the household bills.

There was no ball game at Washington Park this afternoon. Wet grounds forced the cancellation of the scheduled Tribe-N. Y. Giant Yankigan contest. The Tribe-N. Y. Giant Yankigan contest. The Tribe-N. Y. Giant Yankigan contest. The Tribe-N. Y. Giant Yankigan contest.

Tribe Turns to Indoor Work

Washington Park was closed entirely to the Indians and Giants today. Manager Hendricks planned to work his athletes out in the gym at the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon. He desires to keep the boys moving, even if outdoor drills are denied.

Catcher Lees, who was obtained from Columbus in a winter trade, notified the Tribe officials today he would report here shortly. He has accepted terms. Pitcher Weaver and Third Baseman Batli were traded for Pitcher Burwell and Catcher Lees. If Lees doesn't hit better than last season he will have a hard time making good here, but he's going to be given a chance nevertheless.

The veteran Steve Yerkes is still among the absent at Washington Park, but it seems to be an assumed fact that he will arrive within a few days.

Hickey Due in City

President Thomas J. Hickey of the American Association was an expected caller in Indianapolis late this afternoon. Hickey once expressed the opinion that Louisville would be ordered to return Outfielders Rehg and Hamel to Indianapolis if Outfielder Ellis failed to report to the Tribe.

Rehg and Hamel were traded to the Colonels for Ellis the past winter, and Rehg and Hamel joined the Louisville team, but Ellis is still a missing tribesman. Louisville officials have been hearing over the opinion expressed by Hickey regarding the cancellation of the deal if Ellis remains out of organized baseball.

What Indianapolis desires to know is, will Hickey hold to his original view, or will he change his verdict in favor of the Colonels?

Outfield Is Doubtful

For his outfield Mack has three veterans, Tilly Walker, Frank Welch and Bing Miller, also three youngsters in McGowan, French and Matthews. The last three are right-handed batsmen, the latter trio left-handers.

McGowan is a beautiful felder. He has a nice position at the plate and should hit. If McGowan is able to hit there will be no keeping him out of the line-up. He has every other asset.

O'Rourke and Muldoon

IN FIGHT FOR POWER

Fistic Situation in New York Sees Clash of "Influentials."

By United Press NEW YORK, April 3.—One Irishman or another is bound to be whipped in the present struggle of mighty Celts over the Kilbane-Crichton fight, which is on the schedule for June at the Polo grounds, with Kilbane's featherweight title at stake.

Tom O'Rourke, former member of the boxing commission, a physical giant like Commissioner Muldoon himself, has slapped the commissioner with heavy verbal wallop. O'Rourke is promoting the Kilbane-Crichton show and Muldoon is opposing it, because he long ago saw fit to vote the title away from Kilbane.

The betting favors O'Rourke because it is believed that Muldoon's life-and-death powers over boxers are to be shown close to his scalp by the appointment of a license commission.
