

'You Need Not Have Wrinkles!' Is Rubinstein's Message to Women

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN
International Beauty Expert
(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)
Wrinkles are a serious matter in a woman's life, apart from personal vanity.

To the business woman whose alertness of mind is often mistaken only judged by the face, wrinkles are a decided drawback. To the actress whose career is built on beauty they are almost fatal, but they are cruellest of all to the average married woman whose husband fell in love with her while she possessed the charm of youthfulness.

Wrinkles are deterioration. They come from different and combined causes. There are large loose wrinkles and tight wrinkles; there are wrinkles that seem to make the skin gather in tight little bunches and there are light wrinkles that seem to be traced on the surface of the skin. The same basic principles of treatment apply to all.

First cleanse the skin with cream. Then press in a good stimulant that will stir the tiny cells to life, then massage in a rich stimulating cream. Excellent as I know massage to be, I often hesitate to advise it because so many women have the idea that the harder they rub the better they are doing it. Just the reverse is the case. Take the cream in the palm of your hand and with sustained and gentle movements, slowly press it in. Avoid pulling or stretching any part of the skin. When you come to your eyes take a little cream warmed by your hand on your finger tips and with the lightest possible touch apply it, following the eye. During the day cleanse with cream and apply a little tonic, milder than the stimulant.

Be sure to protect your skin from the weather, from heat and cold, wind and sun, by applying a foundation cream and powder base because exposure to the weather dries the skin and wrinkles follow.

In massaging, work across the line and in a rotary movement, and always stroke upward instead of downward.

Martha Lee Her Column

Both to Blame

Dear Miss Lee: I work in a factory where there is a man of 30 or 40 years. He is exceptionally good to me. He has my candy occasionally he takes me home. He does not like for other fellows to talk to me and acts as if he really loves me. He is always telling me and insisting that I am his girl. His wife is and of her being so jealous of him and fussing about his taking girls in the machine with him.

I know he does not give his wife any money. She has been sick and he acts as if he does not care. I know he does not love her. But do you think he would treat me any better? I know I should not want him to be so familiar with girls and I simply would not stand for his handling other girls around and flirting with them as he does now. What must I do? AX1018.

You tell how you would feel if you were this man's wife. Then can you not tell him how she feels, not only toward him, but also toward you? You are as much to blame as he is, for accepting his invitations. You must certainly could not expect any better treatment than he gives his wife. Get another position if you can, or, at least, discontinue this friendship.

Too 'Mushy'

Dear Miss Lee: I am a girl of 18. I have been keeping company with two fellows. They both have graduated from high school and are now boys, but I like one better than the other. He is very mushy and I do not like a mushy fellow. Would you advise me to quit going with him altogether, or just gradually to drift away from him?

UNDECIDED. If the boy is so objectionable that you wish to discontinue his friendship altogether, cut it off short. If not, tell him that you will not go with him unless he stops being "mushy." If he does not stop he will know why you refuse to go with him.

Loves Friend

My Dear Miss Lee: I am 20 years old and deeply in love with a fellow 21. He is in love with my best girl friend. She told me she does not care for him. How can I prevent him from falling more deeply in love with her and win his love?

A KENTUCKY BARE. Be friendly toward this young man, but be careful not to give the impression that you are "running after" him. Look your most attractive when you know you will see him and be especially careful not to seem jealous. Your friend really could make it easier for the young man, as she does not care for him, by letting him know your good points.

Keep 'Em Both

Dear Miss Lee: I am 18 in June and am going with two fellows, Shiek and Valentino. Both want me to go with them. Neither seems to care for the other and my parents do not object to my going with either. Shiek is a little bit rougher than Valentino and if it was not for that I believe I could make up my mind whom to go with. Under the circumstances, I am asking your advice.

Keep on as you are now. You are too young to limit yourself to one boy friend.

'Puppy Love' Again

My Dear Miss Lee: I am 15 and of course you will say I am silly when I tell you I am in love. I met a fellow who is 17. I have been with him only once. That was before New Year's. Last evening his brother, 15, asked me for a date and I hesitated, but I said "yes." Should I have done that? I love neither and I like him. I am afraid his brother does not love me. Can I win his love if I have never loved him?

SNARLS HIS. No, I do not call you silly. You are just like the rest. All I say is that you are having a case of "puppy love." We all go through that stage. You'll recover.

Now just stop worrying about this boy's love, and be his friend and his brother's friend.

Husband Is Jealous

Dear Miss Lee: I am 23. I was married when I was 20. At first we got along very well. He always told me he was not jealous, but lately I have found out he is. Always have had lots of friends, both boys and girls. He can hardly speak to any one for fear he will get jealous. I would like to know what I could do to "cure" him of jealousy. He thinks it is all right if he can talk to any one at any time, and I should get still.

JESSIE B. Treat him as he treats you. Become as angry when he speaks to a woman as he does when you speak to a man. Then show him how very foolish it is. Show him, too, that you trust him and that your marriage cannot be happy unless he trusts you, also.

STUFFED DATES

Remove stones from dates any amount desired. Place nut meats (walnut meats are fine, but any will do) in place of stones. Then roll dates in sugar (either granulated or powdered). This is a most healthful and delicious recipe. It is a great sweet-tooth satisfier. A seeded raisin combined with the nut meat is delicious and nutritious.

Note—Save this recipe for use after the sugar boycott.

NEXT—Sugared Nuts.

Curl Hair This Way and Keep It Healthy

It has been found that the use of a harmless fluid, which druggists know as "stimulating," will keep the straightest hair in curl for the longest time, giving it the appearance of true naturalness, besides keeping the hair softer and glossier than possible with the heated iron. The liquid should be applied with a brush before doing up the hair. A few ounces of liquid stimulant will last for months and as it is really beneficial to the hair, it should be generally adopted by the fair sex. It will not scorch or discolor scalp or hair, and it's not greasy or sticky.—Advertisement.

For Indigestion

Mi-O-Na Is Guaranteed To Promptly Relieve Stomach Distress.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat and force on the stomach a lot of extra work. But they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do extra work.

If these people would take a Mi-O-Na tablet with or after meals it would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of overwork.

Mi-O-Na helps your tired stomach to do its work and banishes the cause. No matter what you eat or drink Mi-O-Na will sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in five minutes. The heaviness disappears and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

And Mi-O-Na not only promptly relieves all distress but if taken regularly will banish indigestion.

Druggists everywhere and The Haag Drug Stores sell Mi-O-Na on the money back plan.—Advertisement.
