

CULT QUIZ MAY PROVE FRUITLESS OF INDICTMENTS

No Evidence of Immorality Within Statute of Limitations.

By United Press
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 16.—Group weddings in the House of David were probed by Judge Dingsman today.

Five of the brides in the recent "wholesale ceremonies" that followed announcement of the investigation were summoned and questioned.

The girls summoned: Myrtle Bell, Hartman Bully, 16, Mary Bell, 19, Elizabeth Julia Stroup, Rowe, 14, Florence Edith Sells Hansen, 26, Mary Ellis Vitz Boyersmith, 18. All participated in a wedding of seven couples. They were examined as to ages and asked if their marriage were voluntary.

Took Off Gloves
Judge Dingsman today "took off the gloves" in handling the case with the commitment of Gay Crowe, 17, a cult "virgin," to jail until she answered questions satisfactorily.

"There is plenty of evidence of immorality outside the statute of limitations, but nothing within the statute," the judge said. "I do not propose to return an indictment unless there is evidence to sustain it before a jury. This is not an ordinary investigation—it deals with religion and a class of witnesses unlike those whom ordinarily come before a court."

Cash In on Publicity
Like the cult members now preparing for a big tourist season at the amusement garden of "Eden Springs" former members have begun "cashing in" on publicity obtained in the probe. LeVina Johnson Henger, pretty 20-year-old hula hula dancer, a witness who says Benjamin accosted her in a pantry, signed a vaudeville contract.

Bennie Hill, former leader of the cult's crack band, also signed up for vaudeville.

Densford was taken to the hospital from Greencastle, Ind., where he was a student at De Pauw University, last Friday. He had been found on the street unconscious.

PITCHER HAS 'GLASS ARM'

Youthful Twirler Loses Control; Neighbor's Window Broken.

Even the best baseball pitchers occasionally lose control, as Gerald Gordon, living at apartment 12, 19 N. Oriental St., knows today.

Police investigating the breaking of a window in the home of Mrs. Jack Stump, apartment 2, 19 N. Oriental St., were told by Gordon's mother that a new glass would be put in the window. Mrs. Stump was satisfied.

Attempt to Seal Car Fails

Says There Is No Better Remedy for Kidney Trouble

Than Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777—Guaranteed.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 25, 1920.—After having been relieved of kidney troubles of several years standing by Dr. Carey's Marshroot prescription No. 777 am exceedingly grateful and loud in its praise—have recommended it to several fellow-workers who were also benefited beyond their belief by its use. It is my candid opinion that there is no better remedy than Dr. Carey's Marshroot.

August 3rd I received your letter asking permission to reproduce my letter to you (as above). If it will in any way help people to realize the true merits of Dr. Carey's Marshroot prescription you are at liberty to do so. I know that it cured me. I suffered great pain for several years and am certainly grateful and feel confident that if people who have kidney trouble will use it long enough to give it a fair test there will be more grateful ones added to the list.

—John E. Douglas, 103 W. Court St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

IMPORTANT—Marshroot Prescription No. 777 is Dr. Daniel G. Carey's own formula. It is not a patent medicine and was originally sold through drug stores to accommodate his patients. You can always get this effective prescription at Hook's Drug Store, Pearson Drug Company, and reliable pharmacists the country over.

"Legally Dead" Was Made in Secret and Promises to Be a Dramatic Thriller

By JACK JUNGMEYER.
HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—"Legally Dead," a picture produced in secret and steeped in the gruesome, presents the most unusual situation in movie plot.

It kills the chief character in an early reel, and yet has him logically alive at the end.

The resurrection, that of a man hanged and pronounced officially dead, is based on the currently exploited experiments with adrenalin, a glandular extract credited with life-restoring powers in many recent press reports.

Aside from its timely novelty, the film's preparation by Charles Furthmann, author, and William Parke, director, for Universal, has an interesting back-story—the story of how an alert scenarist "scooped" the journalistic world on the scientific marvel of the day.

Furthmann, for years associated with the State attorney's office in Chicago, was familiar with the first crude adrenalin ventures upon felons. A negro hanged in Chicago had been revived by an injection after the body had been delivered to a doctor, talked a few moments, and then expired again because of faulty manipulation.

Basing his plot on this and other actual episodes, he says, Furthmann prepared "Legally Dead," and the filming began, weeks before adrenalin phenomena with front-page features validated what many producers had rejected as wildest fantasy. So sure was the author of his hunch, that production was closely shrouded to keep others from adapting the idea.

Newspaper Reporter Is the Center of Interest

The screened story revolves around a newspaper reporter in Criminal Court, who, devising his own imprisonment to launch a crusade against conviction by circumstantial evidence, is caught in the web of apparent guilt and sentenced to be hanged. This part is played by Milton Sills.

Execution being inevitable, the doomed man recalls the wish of a surgeon friend to experiment upon humans with adrenalin. Planning slim hope of thus cheating the gallows, he arranges with the surgeon to make the test. The trap springs, and although the neck is not broken, he is officially declared extinct. The doctor, waiting in an ambulance, resurrects him with a combination of the fluid

"My Rheumatism is gone—"

There's glorious joy in knowing this—that more Red-Blood-Cells stops Rheumatism, and that S.S.S. builds Blood-Cells.

"There are thousands of you men and women, just like myself, slaves to rheumatism, muscle pains, joint pains, and horrible stiffness, I had the wrong idea about rheumatism for 15 years. I didn't realize that increasing blood-cells had the effect of completely knocking out rheumatic impurities from the system. That is why I began using S. S. S. Say what you will, I never knew such startling results were possible. Well, folks, besides knocking out my rheumatism it gave me back some of the strength I used to have way back! I've got a better color in my face, my appetite is dandy. I don't use my crutches any more. I'm walking around straight-up on two young legs! S. S. S. makes people talk about themselves the way it builds up their strength. By building blood-cells it builds nerve strength for young folks who ought to have more, and for older people who have little. It stops pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema, chases away blood impurities. You can always rely on it. Start S. S. S. today for that rheumatism. You'll feel the difference shortly. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is the more economical.

His wife collects insurance and remarries. He himself, divorced by the act of execution, rewards the law, finding itself thus cheated, is powerless to act because its "victim" is legally dead. The prosecuting attorney helps speed him on his honeymoon. These predicaments give the picture comedy relief for the ghastly motif.

Skelton Finds Relief From Long-Standing Indigestion and Eats Anything Now. Thanks Tanlac For Complete Restoration.

"After searching for two years I found the right medicine for my case, and I don't believe this Tanlac treatment has an equal," said C. E. Skelton, Elbeek Hotel, Terre Haute, Ind., the other day.

"Indigestion and nervousness had me all played out, and my appetite had lost its edge. I had gnawing

"Well, sir, Tanlac has rid me of the indigestion and nervousness, put a keen edge on my appetite and made my sleep as sound as a trooper's. I might say that Tanlac does my day's work for me, for it has put me in shape to where it is easy for me now. I never miss a chance to speak a good word for Tanlac.

The Operation I Avoided—

IF there is one thing more than another a woman dreads, it is a surgical operation, and to be told that one is necessary is very disheartening.

Hospitals are grand institutions, and undoubtedly many operations are necessary. However, we have received hundreds of letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation had been deemed advisable.

Every woman who suffers as Mrs. Coffman did naturally wishes to avoid an operation if possible, and the remarkable statements which she makes in her letter will be read with interest by women everywhere.

Mrs. Coffman's Letter Follows:

SIDELL, ILLINOIS.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was noticeable at all times but sometimes it was almost unbearable and I could not even let the bed-clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years but not so badly until the last 18 months, and then I couldn't do my work without help and the doctor told me that an operation was all there was left for me. I would not consent to that so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I began to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house and when my two little girls reach womanhood I shall advise them to take it."

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. R. No. 2, Sidell, Illinois.

Another Operation Avoided
CORONA, N. Y.—"I had a terrible pain in my left side and had to go to bed every so often. Doctors had told me I must be operated on, but I do not believe in the knife and would rather suffer than go through it. My mother also did not believe in it and she made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped her. It has also helped me for I am better and am able to do all my work. I recommend your medicine and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."

By United Press

Wives of Dentists Hear Part They Play in Life

"Dentist's life is short, but he can live much longer if his wife flatters him and feeds him right," declared Dr. George Wood Clapp of New York, editor of the Dental Digest, in a talk late Tuesday to wives and assistants of members of the Indiana State Dental Association, holding their sixty-fifth annual meeting in the Claypool.

His subject was, "The Dentist's Wife as His Partner." He said the dentist's success lies in the character of his assistant and the influence of his wife.

"The average dentist is the biggest dub in the world," he said. "The wife should use her influence to keep him from buying stocks and bonds for one thing. A dentist has no business with them because he generally buys at the top price and sell at the bottom. A dentist would require ten times as much business and technique as he has to make money on bonds unless he is going to stay in it as a business."

"Influence him to buy insurance. If I should tell the dentists to do that in a talk before them picturing old age, it would go in one ear and out the other. So I tell you."

"The dental profession is not the biggest paying job in the world," Dr. Clapp said. He pointed out that 30 per cent earn less than $2,500 per year and 50 per cent between $2,500 and $4,500, and urged the wives to assist as much as possible and see that the dentists have the best of assistants, who he said are a big factor in a dentist's business success.

'BLOODY SHIRT' REMAINS MYSTERY AT MUSEUM

George Herschman Gets Strange Requests in Capacity of Curator.

Mysteries come and go, but none ever bettered that of the bloody shirt. According to George B. Herschman, curator of the Indiana museum, a woman called at the museum recently and inquired: "Where is the bloody shirt?"

She said it was rumored that a sanguine woman had held her babe by the heels while her husband beat it to death with a broomstick, and that the bloody shirt had found its way to the State museum. Herschman said he tried to faint.

Among other things the public frequently asks to see are five-legged pigs, three-eyed calves, two-headed colts and pickled Siamese twins, Herschman said.
