STRONG TREND TO FORD IS SEEN IN SOUTHERN STATES

Democratic Senator Says Presidential Possibility Is Chief Discussion.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who returned from a tour of the country, asserted that Henry Ford would carry the primaries in all the southern States, except Alabama, if he entered the contest for the Democratic nomination for President.

The next Senate will ratify President Harding's world court proposal was also predicted by Mr. Harrison, who believes that this will not be an issue in the presidential campaign since it will be history before this campaign actually begins.

The country, he said, was not evincing any interest in the court proposal despite the efforts of certain Republicans to excite the people as they did over the League of Nations.

Travels Over Country

Senator Harrison, who is regarded as a keen political observer, has been in most parts of the country since Congress adjourned, as a member of a committee investigating the National forests, with an idea of recommending legislation for reforestation. This trip brought him into intimate contact with Henry Ford, with whom he and his committee spent a day.

"I was greatly impressed with Mr. Ford's grasp of national questions," he said. "He has decided progressive opinions on world questions and I came away from him convinced that he is not only a big man in the industrial world but a man who has studied public questions with something of the same concentration as he has his own business."

May Run on Third Party Ticket

"Do you expect that Henry Ford will enter the Democratic primaries as a candidate for President?" he was asked.

"As to that I do not know. He is not declaring himself a Democrat and some who view the contest next year would not be surprised to see him running on a third ticket," he replied.

"Of one thing I am satisfied, if he entered the Democratic primary as a presidential candidate he would sweep nearly all the southern States, Alabama excepted, if Mr. Underwood actually makes the fight. Mr. Ford is strong in the South because of his espousal of Muscle Shoals, and this has given him much strength among the farmers of the country."

Habeas Corpus Instituted for Release of 'Chuck' Palmer.

By United Press
CHICAGO, May 18.—Charges that Charles "Chuck" Palmer, football star held for questioning in the Leighton Mount mystery was kidnapped from home by authorities who detained him were made in habeas corpus action for his release today.

Edith Palmer, a sister, filed the petition through attorneys. She also alleges that Palmer, accused by Mrs. Violet Bachman of having declared he "knew where Mount was," is held without authority and denied legal advice. Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley ordered forthwith hearing.

Palmer was released by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley after promising to return to court for the hearing on the writ this afternoon.

Palmer's greatest fear seems to be he will not be released in time to pitch for Northwestern University in the baseball game with Notre Dame tomorrow.

Mrs. Bachman said she was an acquaintance of Palmer's before she was married.

She asserted shortly after Mount disappeared during the 1921 class fight at Northwestern, Palmer made the alleged statement to her he knew where the freshman was.

He said he (Mount) was all right but he could not tell me anything about it," the girl said.

"I never talked to her about Mount, and I don't know anything about him," Palmer declared.

Mrs. Bachman said she met Palmer in 1921, when she worked at a counter in a pie factory and Palmer, working his way through school, drove a wagon for the same firm.

A skeleton alleged to be Mount's was found a few weeks ago in a Lake Michigan cave. A grand jury is probing a theory he was slain by hazers.

BRYAN TO REFUSE COMMITTEE PLACE

tee, he has indicated that he will consider himself free to fight for his principles on the floor of the convention.

The committee on bills and overtures is the only which digests the business of the assembly. It is before this committee that all new doctrinal questions as well as new governmental rules are first discussed.

This committee will report on the case of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick of the First Presbyterian Church, New York, who has been attacked by conservatives for his doctrinal views.

The assembly voted to "bring attention of the church and lay upon the conscience of individuals and congregations, the church's responsibility to build up and maintain at their highest efficiency the Presbyterian agencies in our National Capitol."

This is the first step toward the building of a Washington City Memorial.

Commission Report

Reports of the executive commission and the permanent commission on evangelism were made. A number of laymen spoke in interest of evangelism.

An hour was devoted to celebrating the 100th anniversary of Presbyterianism in Indianapolis. The chief speakers were Governor Warren T. McCray and Dr. Edward Haines Kistler, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church.

The Governor welcomed the assembly and made a plea for church influence in molding character.

No Personal Attack

In one of the nominating speeches for Dr. Wishart, it was made clear that if he were elected, he could win consideration before the students of the country.

Although Bryan declined to make a statement following his defeat, it was apparent that he considered it a personal defeat and a possible repudiation of his doctrinal views.

At no time during the making of the nominations was Bryan attacked as an individual, but several speakers made it clear that there was a possible majority which differed from his doctrinal views.

At the close of the session, Bryan and Dr. Martin D. Harzin, Ithaca, N. Y., who placed Dr. Wishart in nomination, engaged in a short controversy on doctrinal questions. Harzin sprang a surprise by praising Bryan highly and then suddenly launching the candidacy of Wishart.

It was apparent that Bryan was surprised and hurt by his defeat.

Church leaders maintain that there will be no division between the ultra-conservatives and the liberals following the assembly and that the election of Dr. Wishart is considered a safe indication that "harmony and unity" will be maintained by the majority.

At least, of the commissioners.

It was evident during the balloting that Bryan's strength was a decided surprise to those who maintained that his election would be considered an ultra-conservative victory.

Bryan's failure to win the majority vote of the California and other western commissioners was the direct cause of his defeat.

The ovation given Dr. Wishart was tremendous when he was escorted to the platform following his election. A motion was passed to make the election unanimous.
