Ninety-six men and seventeen women were arrested here during the week-end. The turnkey's slates showed today that fourteen men and four women were charged with operating blind tigers and twenty-four men and two women, with drunkenness. Three men and two women were held on statutory charges.

Oscar Prager, 32, colored, 2254 E. Louisiana St., was arrested on a blind tiger charge when Lieutenant Johnson alleges he saw Prather hand Pete Wise, 605 E. Market St., a half-pint bottle of white mule whiskey. William Young and his wife, Nolia, 705 N. Senate Ave., charged with operating a blind tiger. The police said they found a gallon jug half full of white mule whiskey in their apartment. They arrested Letha Roberts, 615 E. Twenty-third St.; Barney Andrews, 607 N. Senate Ave.; and Sam Fletcher, 705 N. Senate Ave., who were in the apartment.

The police broke in and arrested Applegate on charges of operating a blind tiger, interfering with an officer, vagrancy and associating with a merman woman was charged with interfering with an officer, vagrancy and a statutory charge. The police also arrested two men found in the place.

NEGRO BETTER THAN IMMIGRANTS—WIZARD

Evans Says Industries of North Sought Colored Labor.

By Times Special
FRENCH LICK, Ind., May 28.—The American negro is a much more desirable citizen than hundreds of immigrants who come from southern Europe, said Dr. H. W. Evans, Atlanta, Ga., imperial wizard, Knights of the Ku-Klux Klan, who is stopping here. The negro problem is one that must be solved by the people of the North. The constitutional rights of the negro cannot be taken away except by a constitutional amendment. "During the last year great industries of the North, which usually recruit their unskilled labor from the flow of immigrants from Europe, have had many agents in the South who have taken advantage of the present agitation about the Klan to misrepresent the Klan to the negro and scare him into emigrating from the South."

'Girl' Is Screen's Choicest Cameo; Hard Job to Fit Elephant Into Movie

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN
"THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST" is the screen's choicest cameo.

I compare this photoplay to a cameo because "Mister" Webster in his big book of words defines as "a gem carved in relief."

The "Girl" movie dates back to those days of play construction when the play was the thing. It tells a big love story in a big way. The people concerned are real men and women, not steam-heated imitations. It is an old fashioned melodrama and weak does some of our "current day" cream-puff dramas appear in comparison. This old play has teeth and a backbone. Its very name as a photoplay attracts attention and invites respect and after you have seen it, it is my prediction you will think the movie is more grand and glorious than ever before.

I wanted to stand up on my feet and yell with real joy while I witnessed this movie at the Circle. I know that such a yelling stunt isn't just being done this season, but I nearly yelled, but I can "yell" with joy as much as I please in this department.

"The Girl of the Golden West," as a photoplay rather challenges the entire movie world. This picture takes its place right alongside with the few top-notch photoplays. This Edwin Carewe production has the real stuff in it which makes a super-photoplay. As a movie the "Girl" is just as glorious entertainment as it was when Blanche Bates played it in the stage many years ago.

The Cast Is as Good in Every Detail as the Story

Sylvia Breamer plays the role of the "girl" and she puts a real heart and soul in the body of our heroine who stakes all in one game of cards. She is nearly magnificent in the car scene with the sheriff where the stakes are the "girl" of her bandit sweetheart. Here is true heart melodrama, wonderfully acted.

Russell Simpson has made a name for himself in this movie. In any production of the "Girl" it seems that the sheriff makes individual history. Simpson seems to be a "coming" actor to life on this magnificent cameo. This sheriff is a queer mixture of the law and a high sense of duty when he is at stake in a card game. He is a good gambler. He always plays straight and is sure of his aim when he trains his trusty "shooters" on an outlaw, but he loses his biggest game of cards. I doubt if you will find a better drawn character than the sheriff of Simpson in all the movies which have been made.

Our hero, of course, is the bandit who falls head over heels in love with the "girl." This good bad man is played by J. Warren Kerrigan. Never has Kerrigan looked so "sheikish." Our hero is a most gallant gentleman. The best work that Kerrigan has done in the last ten years.

Must heap lot of applause on Rosemary Theby as the worthless dance hall girl. Here is an insolently but splendidly played role. Excellent. The entire cast is as excellent as the chief players. The direction masterful and the photography wonderful.

I am my watching words—No better movie has ever been made than "The Girl of the Golden West."

See it at the Circle this week and see if I am right.

And Don't Forget the Wonderful Music
I always look for the dew upon the flowers in the morning. Dew is always appropriate. So when I go to the Circle I expect to hear appropriate music. This week is no exception to the rule but it proves the rule to better advantage.

Modest Altschuler and the Circle orchestra are playing the big overture, "112" by Tchaikowsky. Here is splendid musical food and the

It's some job to fit a full grown elephant into a movie.

Am sure that after seeing "Oscar," a trained elephant, in "Soul of the Beast" at the Ohio.

"Oscar" isn't the sort of an animal which one would want to put his arms around, because it would be some job. "Oscar" is able to prove that an elephant can do more than push circus wagons and march in a parade. "Oscar" is pretty much of an actor. At least I found the big boy to be such a critter. The camera man must have had one awful job to make "Oscar" fit into the lense of the camera, but he did a good job. "Oscar" plays one of the chief roles in this movie.

I consider "Soul of the Beast" a novelty film. It isn't often that one sees an elephant playing opposite human beings, but that is what actually happens in this movie.

Madge Bellamy and Cullen Landis seem like midgeets when "Oscar" is around. Might add that "Oscar" slings a wicked trunk. This elephant gives the villain a well deserved shower bath. I believe that "Oscar" would have drowned the villain if Madge Bellamy had not told "Oscar" to turn off the shower.

A small town circus is first presented. It exposes the fact that the "wild girl" of a circus show isn't as wild as the announcer would make one believe. Miss Bellamy is first seen as the trainer of "Oscar" and later she is pressed into service as the "wild girl" of the circus. She gets her freedom when a storm tears the big top to pieces. Madge and "Oscar" become children of the forest. Then Cullen Landis as a cowboy violinist in a Canadian dance hall is introduced. Then the romance begins. "Oscar" becomes jealous and the villain becomes active.

AERIAL CIRCUS TO WELCOME FLIERS OF T-2 AT DAYTON

Coast-to-Coast Plane and Pilots Due Home Today.

By United Press
DAYTON, Ohio, May 28.—All Dayton prepared today for the triumphant arrival of Lieut. John A. MacReady and Oakley G. Kelly. They were to wing their way into home-town atmosphere in the veteran plane T-2 late this afternoon.

America's greatest aerial carnival was to attend their return from San Diego, Cal., whence the two premier army pilots flew from New York in one hop.

Mrs. MacReady, who married Lieutenant MacReady in California a few days after he had spanned the continent, is scheduled to arrive by train from the West at the same time the huge T-2 noses in to the vicinity of McCook Field.

Thousands of Indiana People Praise Tanlac

Mrs. Loncrema McDonald Among The Latest To Be Restored By Celebrated Medicine—Three Years' Trouble Ended.

Joining the thousands of other Indiana people who are praising Tanlac for restoring their health, strength and happiness, Mrs. Loncrema McDonald, R. F. D. 1, Terre Haute, says: "Since taking Tanlac myself, I can understand why so many people are praising it, for it's one medicine that does just what they say it will. It has rid me of a case of stomach trouble that had just about made a nervous and physical wreck of me. My stomach got out of order three years ago, and I got to where what I ate hurt me so bad it seemed to do me more harm than good, and at times I was actually afraid to eat anything. I had headaches and weak spells, was so nervous I couldn't get any restful sleep, and many a day I was so weak I had to let my housework go undone. "Tanlac was the only medicine that helped me. I now eat and enjoy three good meals every day, sleep just fine and never have a headache or weak spell. In fact, I never felt better in my life, and since Tanlac has restored my strength, my housework is just good recreation for me. I always praise Tanlac."
