'Globe Trotters' Prove World Is Small

"Radiator riding" is really nothing new for these dusty "globe trotters." In fact, they have been touring under such circumstances that Shirley West, shown on the radiator, and his two fair companions on either side, are beginning to believe "there is nothing new under the sun."

For these "citizens of the world" reckon distance by continents. In Indianapolis they indicated their general direction from here with a wave of the hand, and the brief answer "out West."

The group in the picture represent Unit No. 1 of the Wanderwell tourists, who are in a contest with a similar unit to see which can cover the most ground in five years. Both started from Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 22, 1919. The race closes next year.

Unit No. 2 is in Spain, 5,000 miles behind Unit No. 1.

"It's no sort job," said Nell Wanderwell, pilot of the car, "to tour as we are and earn our way, but we're out to win."

While in Indianapolis the party obtained services of Robert Stetson of Louisville, who will journey with the globe trotters and share their experiences.

STEP IS MAPPED FOR WATER BOOST

Company May File Application Immediately.

A petition for increased water rates in Indianapolis will be filed with the public service commission Tuesday or Wednesday, it was said at the office of the Indianapolis Water Company today.

The increase, which probably will average about 20 per cent, will be asked as a forerunner of a $10,000,000 expansion plan proposed by the company.

The company also will ask that all consumers be placed on a meter basis. A majority of consumers are now on a flat rate basis, based on the number of faucets and other water outlets.

The company is hoping to increase the amount set aside for depreciation. It was explained that with higher rates it will be easier to borrow money to finance the expansion.

Incubator Nurses Tiny Baby to Normal Size and Health

BABY EIRNEVA VEZA AND MISS ELEANOR GRIFFIN.

To Eirneva Veza, 2-months-old son of Theodore Veza, 1225 Bridge St., the world is an incubator. Electrically heated, it has been his home for two months. In it, he has gained slowly, until now he weighs 5 pounds 10 ounces, six ounces more than at the time of his premature birth.

"Mothering" Eirneva is the duty of Miss Eleanor Griffin, head of the social service maternity department at the city hospital.

Eirneva's mother died of pneumonia April 3, two days after the baby was born. Slowly, the tiny child struggled for life. Now doctors say he has won, although he must remain in the incubator for some time.

When Eirneva can leave the hospital a boarding home will be found for him. He will stay there for two years and then will be taken to Roumania, according to his father's plans.

'Welch Wizard' Will Seize Opportunity to Obtain Leadership in Labor Ranks, Is Growing Belief Among English Politicians.

LONDON, June 4.—Is David Lloyd George, the "Welch Wizard," about to turn another political handspring that will land him again at the head of the British government?

After his extraordinary record in having led the coalition through war and post-war crises, does he plan to seize the undoubted opportunity to lead the British labor party into the victory that seems surely theirs within the next few years?

"We shall have a labor premier and a labor cabinet within five years," the labor party leaders say. Even the most conservative realize the probability of such an unprecedented government. Today there is a growing belief that Lloyd George may be its head.

It is only in the last few weeks the voice of the lion has been heard again. Re-entering the arena, he has made two quiet, but significant statements:

1. He will not show to the Baldwin government "that consideration" which, for reasons of the premier's health, he afforded Bonar Law. He is going to attack.

2. He has urged the complete and unreserved recognition of soviet Russia. A simple thing—but a step that would set Lord Curzon, Austin Chamberlain, and those who served under Lloyd George very much on edge.

In political circles these two statements of the ex-premier are linked together, and the conclusion drawn is Lloyd George, ever the "opportunist," is playing, astutely but significantly, to the labor vote.

His coalition government finally crashed, but no one believes that Lloyd George is through with politics. The short, stocky, dominant little figure thatajoled, brow-beat, threatened, pacified, inspired and terrified the parliaments of war cannot be wiped off the political stage by the mischance of an election. England watched, astounded, when he retired, and for a long time said nothing.

But that silence was ominous. England believes, and rightly, he will again thunder at Parliament, will shake his mane of white locks, sweep out his flowing phrases, gesture and storm across the benches of Parliament at a spellbound opposition.

May Lead Labor
Next time, however, that opposition may be the conservative or liberal benches. Lloyd George may be leading the labor side.

The vote and power of the labor party is increasing. Royalty, worried a bit, invited labor leaders to dine, wishing to look at these men who boast they will yet lead Britain. Young collegians, men trained in the best schools and the best of parliamentary logic, are in its ranks. In dealing with the English party, the government is not dealing with a group of political simpletons who can be handled at finger tips.

There are, on the labor benches of parliament today, long haired radicals, iron-browed rough-necks, and a group of the most brilliant, polished young statesmen in the House.

DEPRESSION DURING 1921 CUTS INCOME TAX IN INDIANA

Tax Returns From Marion County Numbered 34,317, Report Shows.

By JOHN CARSON
Times Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 4.—For every dollar the Government tax collector took from Indiana in income taxes in 1916, he took approximately $15.50 in 1920 and $8.75 in 1921.

These figures made public today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue showed not only how the burden of Government taxes has increased but incidentally how the business depression hurt the State in 1921.

Despite this showing, conditions in Indiana did not slump as badly in 1921 as they did in many other States. In fact, the showing from Indiana was relatively good and especially good as compared with the agricultural States West of the Mississippi River.

In 1916 the income tax collector was interested only in incomes greater than $3,000. In the years following, his interest was in all incomes of more than $1,000.

Indiana had 2.08 per cent of the total net income reported from the entire country in 1921 and paid 1.25 per cent of the tax. Five out of every 100 persons in the State made a return and the average income tax for every person in the State was $3.05.

The tax returns from Marion County numbered 34,317, by far the largest number of returns from any county. The returns from Vanderburgh numbered 7,162, which was surpassed by Allen, Lake, Marion, Vigo and St. Joseph Counties. Tax returns from Vigo County numbered 7,906.
