CATHOLIC WOMEN RAP STATEMENTS

Daughters of Isabella Denounce 'Mrs. H.'

The Daughters of Isabella, a Catholic organization, today have on record a resolution taking exception to statements said to have been made by "the mysterious Mrs. H." at a "100 per cent American" meeting at the Englewood Christian Church Thursday night under the auspices of the Englewood Hustling Hundred, a civic organization.

The resolution, adopted at a meeting at the Claypool Saturday afternoon, gives the name of the woman introduced as "Mrs. H." as Mrs. N. C. Hurlbert of Indianapolis. The resolution said she made the statement the American flag could not be displayed in a Catholic Church. The resolution denounced the statement as untrue and un-American. It said the flag frequently is in Catholic churches and during the war was placed next to the cross in many churches.

"Only the highest endure," he told the graduates. "It is true in the highest sphere because God's will is the supreme factor in the ongoing of history."

By WALTER D. HICKMAN.

A PRIZE FIGHTER is a fighter whether the mercury is "boiling" in the sun or "freezing" at 10 below zero.

That was my impression after seeing Reginald Denny in the "Third Leather Pushers Series," which opened yesterday as one of the features at the Apollo.

The fight was staged in a northern log camp where the mercury was considered tame when it registered 10 below zero. The fighters didn't seem to mind the cold, but the sponge froze up and turned into an iceberg.

The "Leather Pushers," first edition, paved the way for the so-called "knockout" photoplay. Since then there have been various series.

In the new series we see the "Kid," played by Denny, trying to recover from some serious financial reverses. The first fight staged in the coming back is an open-air fight staged in mid-winter. Here indeed is a novel idea.

I can easily see the great vogue of Denny and the "Leather Pushers" series. Each one I have seen has been a complete story in itself and all the fights have been scientific, not brutal knockout affairs, but nearly evenly matched bouts.

Every one likes a square fight and these series have championed clean fighting. The whole idea is pleasing and the movie population all over the country seems to like 'em.

On the same bill is a movie adaptation of Hal Reid's melodramatic thriller, "Human Hearts." King Baggot, formerly, was a matinee screen idol, has turned director. "Human Hearts" is one of his pictures.

The cast is full of well-known names, such as House Peters, Edith Hallor, Gertrude Claire, Mary Philbin, Russell Simpson, George West and others. "The picture is full of 'home and mother' touches. It is the small town and Main St. all dressed up like a Fourth of July parade. Even the old boys indulge in their favorite patime, throwin' horse shoes.

"Human Hearts" is a melodrama with a heart to it. There's much suffering, a wrecked home and a blind mother. There also is a fine gang of villains.

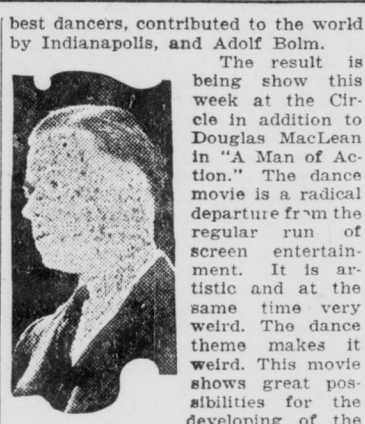

If melodrama is your liking, then "Human Hearts" is a good choice.

At the Apollo all week.

Our Own Ruth Page

Does Something New
Offer have I asked myself this question: Why doesn't some art director make a dance movie?

Well, the question has been answered and Ruth Page, one of the best dancers, contributed to the world by Indianapolis, and Adolf Bolm.

MacLEAN "Dance movie."

musical director a great chance. It really means a new day for the movie theater which loves to do artistic things. Ruth Page is a great artist of the dance, and she photographs remarkably well. She can tell an entire story by her facial expression. That is art. And she owns two expensive feet. Rather think you will enjoy this Page-Bolm dance movie.

I did.

Since Douglas MacLean made a home run in "The Hotter Than," we have been waiting for his return in another comedy. He has it in "A Man of Action." It might be called "What Little Bungalow Has the Diamonds?"

It is a mystery comedy film. It has action and plenty of suspense. You will suspend every one in the cast, even our hero until the diamonds show up in the proper place.

I believe that MacLean has a good chance to become one of the dominating comedy figures on the screen. He knows how to develop a comedy situation. He doesn't overact any more. Lately he has been fortunate in obtaining worth-while vehicles.

This MacLean comedy is light, but pleasing screen entertainment. The bill includes a Marmaduke comedy, a news weekly and the Circle orchestra music.

At the Circle all week.

A Few More Words

On the Snow Movies.

This department previously has given much space and time to the H. A. Snow pictures, "Hunting Big Game in Africa."

These pictures are on view this week at Mister Smith's.

I cannot recommend these pictures too highly. Snow has given us an animated wild animal book. Nothing finer and bigger has ever been done along this line.

Don't get the impression that these pictures are "tame." Gosh, the animals are far from being tame. It is not dull science, but a marvelous adventure in wildest Africa.

Every parent should see that the children witness the Snow pictures. It is a combination of education and adventures. The city school teachers have a chance here to recommend a real picture.

Don't miss the Snow wild animal pictures at Mister Smith's this week. That's my idea.

Prize Fighters Live

"Fighting Blood" is another contribution the prize fighting' fad which now is so popular on the screen.

At the Ohio this week is the Seventh Round of "Fighting Blood." On the same bill is "Lost and Found."

The story concerns the daughter of an Indian chief, a proud member of the Black Foot Tribe, who falls in love with a white man. She is chosen as the honored virgin of a corn dance ceremony but refuses to go on with it and acknowledges her affair with the white man. This being a serious offense to the Indian tribe, they immediately prepare for battle.

The white man, whose name the girl refuses to divulge, is an expelled cadet from West Point who was given a position by the U. S. Government as the Indian reservation.

The chief follows the girl to the government agent's home. Believing him to be the guilty one, the chief forces the government man to marry the girl, which he does willingly to avert trouble.

The title of the South Sea Island movie nearly tells the entire story. It concerns a father who rescues his daughter from an island people by savages. Pauline Starke is transformed into an olive-colored heroine. Little Mary Jane Irving does some pleasing work.

I must say a word about the music this week at the Ohio. Schuyler Alward and his orchestra are jazzing up the atmosphere with some real syncopation. The saxophone players are real players. Every player knows how to play the music of the day.

Alward has assembled a band of good players and they are making a home for themselves at the Ohio. At the Ohio all week.

Well, Well, Tommy Meighan
Parts His Hair in the Middle

Who remembers when Thomas Meighan had dark curly hair parted in the middle?

We had forgotten it ourselves until we saw him playing opposite Norma Talmadge, who is starred in "The Heart of Wexona," the current attraction at the Isis.

Yes, Tommy with his "permanent wave" and Norma with her "youthful girlish figure," make an interesting pair, after having seen each of them in starring roles.

However, the chief's belief in the Government agent causes him to investigate further. He learns the truth, but by this time Wexona has also made some discoveries. Of course, she and the Government agent fall in love and are already married, so there you are. Interesting picture.

The program includes a Monty Banks comedy called "Please Arrest Me." (By the Observer).

The Municipal Theater at Brookside Park opens its season tonight by presenting a comedy drama, "Turn to the Right."

Other attractions on view today include: "An Ideal Husband," at the Murat; "Tiger Rose," at English's; Josie Heather at the Lyric; Art Lannury and his orchestra at the Palace; "Lady Minstrels," at the Rialto; and "Harvey's Greater Minstrels," a colored organization, at the Broadway.

I had such weak, dizzy spells I was afraid to go out doors alone.

"Well, I was getting worse every day, but Tanlac has changed things right around for me. I eat three big meals every day now and enjoy them heartily, for my digestion seems perfect. I am so strong and well my housework is easy. What Tanlac has done for me surely is wonderful, and I'll always praise it to the highest."
