

SIDENER NAMES BUSINESS CRIMES BEFORE ROTARIANS

Indianapolis Man Speaks in Plain Terms of Questionable Methods.

By United Press
ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 20.—Business ethics and the influence of the individual Rotarians in bringing about honest business methods were discussed at the morning session today of Rotary International at the Coliseum.

Those who spoke were Merl Sidener of Indianapolis, a member of the vigilance committee of the Advertising Clubs of the World; Sidney W. Pascal of London; Raymond Havens of Kansas City, president of Rotary International; Sherman Rogers of New York, known as the "lumber-jack orator"; and Bert Scribner of Pueblo, Colo., head of Rotary business committee.

Speaks in Plain Terms

Sneak thieves, forgers, embezzlers, plain burglars and yegmen of business were dealt with in plain terms by Sidener.

"First, let us look at the sneak thief business," he said. "Here is his identification card. It indicates he picks all available pockets while crowding his victims with the 'business-business' fallacy. The space left blank on this card, and it, per chance, the face of the offender which comes to your mind in the face you see in the mirror when you shave—take the matter seriously and try to reform him. Inefficiency in business, slow turn-over, high cost of production and selling, failure to use modern methods—these are the practices of the sneak thief."

Business Forgery

"The next offender is the forger, who disposes of merchandise by means of forged trade names. The manufacturer or distributor who misbrands or mislabels merchandise is guilty of business forgery. The adulteration of commodities, the substituting of the products of one manufacturer for another by imitation, these are merely steps in business forgery. "Here is the embezzler who embezzles money held in trust by means of exorbitant or concealed profits. Following him is the burglar who robs the business of competitors through various tricks of unfair competition."

Commercial Bribery

"The outstanding offense under this classification is commercial bribery—the paying of commissions in money or other things of value to employees of customers for the purpose of influencing their buying power, bonuses to jobbers and retail salesmen, false and misleading advertising—even white lies in advertising are phases of business bribery."

"And finally there is the yegg—who blows up the reputation of competitors by false reports and destroys good will. The making of false statements concerning competitors and their products is the best weapon of the yegg."

"Rotary International gave the world a great inspirational doctrine when it formulated the code of ethics. But Rotary International made a constructive contribution to business as an institution when it devised a practical way of transforming those principles into action by means of the business methods committee."

LOCAL MAN BUYS POWER SITE NEAR SHELBYVILLE

C. C. Shipp Purchases Flatrock Mill for Water Development.

Clarence C. Shipp of C. C. Shipp & Co., Indianapolis manufacturers of ventilating and heating specialties, today announced purchase of Flatrock Mill, Shelby County, a water-power site.

An immediate expenditure of $125,000 will be made to modernize the plant now located there, and to supply Shelbyville and neighboring towns with electric power, Shipp said.

Shipp also contemplates the establishment of a summer resort on the Flatrock River. He acquired 176 acres on the south side of the river.

FIELD PARTIES TO SURVEY

Survey of Indiana's various geologic resources will be made this summer by field parties of the division of geology of the State conservation department, according to Richard Lieber, director. The principal field party will be led by Dr. W. N. Logan, State geologist. The party will study formations in southwestern Indiana.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

George Hanneford Learns Elephants May Be Used as Leather Pincushions

HERE IS THE FAMOUS HANNEFORD FAMILY, ALL DRESSED UP FOR THEIR CIRCUS ACT AT THE LYRIC THIS WEEK. THE CLOWN OF THE FAMILY IS GEORGE. HE IS FOUND ON THE EXTREME RIGHT.

AFTER MANY YEARS in the sawdust rings of this country and Europe, the Hanneford family, famous circus bareback riders, are experiencing their first season in vaudeville.

They are headlining this week's bill at the Lyric. George Hanneford, a riding clown, heads the act, having stepped into the shoes of his brother, "Poodles," who recently signed a contract with Joe Schenck, husband of Norma Talmadge, to star in a series of two-reel movie comedies. He is now at work in Los Angeles making the first of these.

"It isn't much of a jump from the circus to vaudeville," said George Hanneford, "We miss the smell of the old sawdust, and the sight of the many friends we made in our years with the 'big tops,' but the week stands in theaters make up for a lot of things. Circus life is a hard life, but a healthy one. And, say it's much harder to please vaudeville patrons than the ones who go to a circus."

Four beautiful horses are used by the Hannefords in their vaudeville turn. They are cared for by a special groom, and nothing is overlooked to assure their comfort and well-being. One of the animals is twenty-five years old, but shows no signs of growing old, and is in perfect physical condition. "You know our family had the first

SUNDAY SCHOOL INTEREST URGED

Speakers Say Every Person Has Place in Work.

"Every soul has some gift of God that can be used for others," declared Mrs. Florence Canine before the adult sectional conference of the Indiana State Sunday school convention at Roberts Park Church.

Mrs. Canine said there are three kinds of adult classes, the active, the passive, and the ought-to-be classes and the has-beens.

Marion Lawrence of Chicago, general secretary of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education, pleaded for more consideration for the home department of the Sunday school.

to put big trees and rocks in the road to block the wagons so they could see the animals and the performers. In many parts of the country the Irish had never seen an elephant.

"They were very skeptical about it, and didn't think it was real. On one occasion when the circus wagons reached the show lot there seemed to be something wrong with the old elephant we had. It acted in a most peculiar and sinister manner. On investigation we found that it had been stuck full of pins. The natives had used this method to discover for themselves whether the huge beast was real or a fake."

Yurka and Byington to Exchange Roles on Thursday

Immediately following the Wednesday night performance of "Captain Applejack" at the Murat Theater, Blanche Yurka, who has the leading feminine role in the play, will be transferred to the Cox theater in Cincinnati and Spring Byington, who has criss that ever visited Ireland," George said, and it was a great cur-

Orloff Trio Plays Musical Setting

An added interest to the production of "Captain Applejack," the comedy being presented by the Stuart Walker Company at the Murat this week, in celebration of the one hundredth anniversary, is the appearance of the Orloff Trio, Jean Orloff, violinist, Lenora Coffin, pianist and Genevieve Hughes, violoncellist giving a program fifteen minutes before each performance from one of the upper boxes in the theater, as well as supplying interesting entre' acte music during the intermissions.

The Orloff Trio have long been identified with the artistic forces of the Stuart Walker Company, and the many patrons of the Repertoire Company of Indianapolis will welcome them this week. In adding this artistic group of musicians to his company, Walker has again shown his high artistic sense of combining two of the great arts, music and drama.

The complete program for this week is as follows:

—From 8:15 to 8:30 p. m.—
"Gopak".....Mossoursky
"Andante Cantabile".....Tchikovsky
"Mazurka".....Wieniawski
—First Intermission—
"Amazilia".....Old French
"Water Lily".....MacDowell
"At the Brook".....Boisdeffre
—Second Intermission—
"Shepherd's Dance".....Edward German
"Land of the Sky Blue Water".....Cadman
"Passepied".....Debussy

losity there. The country people used the principal role in the Cincinnati production, will be brought here in time to open in Miss Yurka's part at the Thursday matinee.

Such an exchange of players from one city to another on such short notice is decidedly unique and unusual and as may be readily imagined is due to the pending success upon the well trained and evenly balanced casts in both cities.

It is probable that later in the season Walker will transfer entire casts from one city to the other during each week. Certain it is that in the future there will be a frequent changing around of leading characters in the various plays. Such a plan will work greatly to the benefit of theater-goers of both this city and Cincinnati, as it will practically enable the playgoer to select his own casts.

Wednesday night will mark the last appearance of Miss Yurka in this city during the current season.

Attractions on view today include:

Bids On Workhouse Property

Sale of eighteen acres of county land at Northwestern Ave. and Twenty-First St., site of the old workhouse, will be advertised today by county commissioners. Fairbanks Morse & Co. persuaded the county to put it up for sale, and intends to bid for the land as an expansion site. The county has set a minimum price of $150,000 while the company named $70,000. Other companies may bid.

Indorsement Stands

Indorsement of a book, "The Uncensored Source Records," by the national executive committee of the American Legion will stand, despite action of the New York Legion's State executive committee in repudiating official approval. The New York department said the indorsement "commercialized" the Legion.

WE move swiftly in America—change is the order of the day—industrial economics are changing—labor relationships are changing. The size of the oil business is changing and the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) keeping step with progress, is changing its methods of doing business, to meet the new conditions as they arise.

We invent, and improve, and learn, and go ahead.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed the Burton Process to increase the recovery of gasoline to meet the demand caused by the increasing number of automotive machines. It improved merchandising methods until its distribution and marketing systems are the standard of efficiency for the industry.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed new methods of handling its business. Many of these are applied to administration inside the organization,—as for instance, the Industrial Relations Plan, the Annuity Plan, and the Stock Purchasing Plan, all of which have resulted in bringing the Company and its employees closer together.

Other methods have expanded the Company's activities in new directions,—as for instance, in the development of a chain of service stations located at convenient points throughout the ten Middle Western states where the motorist may secure his requirements of fuel and oil in such quantities as he may need.

This is but one of the many improvements which the Company has adopted to better the service which it is rendering the people of the Middle West.

All these methods tend to hold down prices. This is recognized in a recent article in Petroleum Age which says, "No other product or power of like value, obtained at such expense and under such hazardous conditions, is furnished the people at such reasonable prices at all points of the country, as oil and its products."

In the petroleum industry the real problem of the hour is service. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is continually fitting new service to new possibilities and adapting its established service to meet new conditions. This policy makes for prosperous business, without which no nation can hope for general prosperity.

As the demand for petroleum products increases, it will be found that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has put itself, by progressive development of new possibilities, in a position to give a service commensurate with the increasing demand.
