

Town Band to Practice Outside City Limits

By WALTER D. HICKMAN.

CHARLES WITHERS, town marshal, editor of the weekly paper, manager of the "opera house," bill poster, orchestra leader and several other important positions in the village, announces that the town band will not hold its summer practice in town, but will go out into the country so nobody will be disturbed.

This announcement is one of the many made by Witherers during "For Pity's Sake," a travesty on the old-time melodrama, at the Palace this week. It reminds one of the good old 10, 20 and 30-cent days.

Some of the effects, such as the limited express, would not make David Belasco jealous. There is a lot of hokeyum to this act, but it is different. It handed me several good laughs.

Maurice Golden, with the aid of two dancers, presents a movie dance idea. Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Harold Lloyd, Theda Bara and Mae Murray are impersonated in dances. Nice idea. Well done.

Florence Hobson admits that she was once a vampire, but the flapper has stolen her material. "So now I am making a poor but honest living playing the piano," she states. She realizes the comedy idea in song.

Pleasing. Moore and Kendal appear in character concerning Adam, Eve, the costumes of the era and other things. Rather tiresome in spots.

Lowe and Stella sing "Don't Do That" and other songs. The woman wears an appropriate summer costume. Reo and Helmar open the bill with a gymnastic offering.

The movie feature is "All the Brothers Were Valiant" with Lon Chaney.

At the Palace today, Saturday and Sunday.

Mayo in "First Degree" on view at the Isis.

The new movie offering at the Isis today features Frank Mayo in "The First Degree." It is dramatic. The bill includes Leo Maloney in "When Fighting Is Necessary."

Other attractions on view today in-

Man Shoots Self

LA PORTE, Ind., June 22.—Asa L. Murten, 67, business man of Hanna, killed himself with a shotgun in a barn near his home. It is believed he was demented from injuries received in a fall on the ice last winter.
