SOCIAL WORK MAY BE CONSOLIDATED

Welfare Agencies of City to Discuss Union.

More than 100 reservations have been made for the dinner to be given by the Community Chest next Monday at the Lincoln.

C. M. Bookman, Cincinnati, secretary of the Community Chest and council of social agencies, will speak on "A City Plan for Social Work."

The question of forming a council of social agencies in Indianapolis, uniting all welfare organizations, is to be discussed. "No definite action will be taken on the question at this time," declared Fred Hoke, president of the Community Chest, who will preside. "We want to get better acquainted with one another first."

Directors of practically all the thirty-six organizations in the chest have already voted in favor of forming a central council with a wider scope for study of local needs. The chest plan will continue unchanged as a means of joint money raising, but institutions supported by taxation are also being invited to join the council.

The Marion county Juvenile Court, Board of Children's Guardians, Robert W. Long Hospital and city hospital are among the public agencies which have agreed to enter the council if it is adopted.

GREAT BENEFIT FROM CARDUI

Georgia Lady Says She Has Avoided Much Suffering by Taking This Well-Known Tonic Medicine

Clyattville, Ga.—In a statement which she gave at her home on R. F. D. 1, here, Mrs. T. A. Copeland said: "I have, I believe, avoided a good deal of suffering by the use of Cardui, and am thoroughly convinced that it has been a great benefit to me. "Before the birth of two of my children, I grew so weak and nervous I could hardly go and suffered—I had a friend who told me of Cardui, so the next time when I grew so weak and run-down I began to use it. It used it three months. I grew stronger and less nervous. The baby was stronger and a better baby, and I really believe it was because I built up my strength with this splendid tonic. "Cardui has been in successful use for more than forty years. Thousands of women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others. It is a mild, harmless, purely vegetable medicinal preparation—a product of practical experience, scientific investigation and pharmaceutical skill."

Martha Lee Her Column

Questions of Etiquette

Martha Lee: 1. In introducing a woman, is it proper to say, "Mr. Brown, meet Miss Smith," or vice versa? I am told that it is proper to introduce a woman, if on the street? 2. Should a man remove his hat when introduced to a woman, if on the street? 3. Is it proper now to remove your hat in an elevator? 4. When at table and the knife is not in use, should it lie on the plate or on the table? 5. When you have a man with you and wish to introduce him to another man, should you introduce your partner or the other first? 6. Should you shake hands with a woman when introduced? 7. In a show should the man or the woman lead the way? INQUIRITIVE. 8. Mention the woman first. "Miss Smith, allow me to present Mr. Brown," or just "Miss Smith, Mr. Brown." 9. Yes. 10. Yes, if women, including the operator, are present. 11. Mention the older man first; or, if one is distinguished, name him first. Otherwise, it does not matter. 12. Wait for the woman to extend her hand. She may, but it is not necessary. 13. The woman.

What a Sheikh!

Dear Miss Lee: I am a boy 15 years old, a freshman in high school. I have "baby blue eyes" and pretty black shiny hair and wear bell-bottom trousers and am what I should call a "regal" sheik. But the girls do not seem to think me so, especially one girl I am desperately in love with. Every time I speak to her she says "Run along, little sissy," and asks me if I have any extra cash. Really, it makes mother mad to have girls say such mean things to me. Please advise. LITTLE HEKMAN.

More credit to the girl, Hekman.

You see, some of them may be like a "cake-eater," but most of them prefer a "sheik."

The remedy: Natural hair, minus grease, normal trousers, and some good boy sports.

Starting Young

Dear Martha Lee: I am a girl 14 years old. I go to the show every night and every night many of the boys ask to see me home. Two weeks ago I met a boy who asked to see me home. Two other boys also asked. Of course, I went with the one who asked first. But my other friends asked to go with me. I told him to take her and other girls, some nights, but he said he would not. I told him I should give up my boy friends just for her. My mother knows I go to the show with boys and she said she does not mind if I do not stay out too late. I do not wish my friends to get sore. I like her. Please tell me how I may please her and keep the friendship of this boy. ANGEL CHILD.

I don't think, either, that you should give up your boy friends for any girl. But I do think that you should give up going to shows with them at night, for your own sake. You will have both shows and boys in a few years, if you keep up your present pace.

LONESOME MARIE: Write the boy friend a note, telling him you are sorry he is ill. You might send him a book or some fruit.

Brother Causes Trouble

Dear Miss Lee: I am a girl 17 years old and have been going with a nice young man 23 years old. He has an older brother who is a trouble maker. He is trying to win my friendship, but I don't care for him. I told him I was right to accept his love and go with him, after he has caused me so much unhappiness. He is much older than his brother. BROKENHEARTED.

The older man does not seem to me a desirable friend. As you do not care for him, I think you would be foolish to accept his company. Don't take this affair so seriously, my dear. It's not as bad as all that.

BILLIARD BALL COULDN'T STAND EXCESSIVE HEAT

Castle Hall Thrown Into Upward Explosion.

By Times Special
KOKOMO, Ind., June 22.—Sizzle, sizzle, crack. An explosion which sounded like a pistol shot resounded through the billiard room of Castle Hall. Members lounging on the front porch rushed to the billiard hall, breathlessly. And there, lying in the corner of a billiard table was a glittering white ball broken squarely in half.

The extreme heat, it was asserted, caused it to explode.

KIDNAPING INVESTIGATED

Boys Reported Taken From Wheatland Church Social.

An investigation of the reported kidnapping of Melvin and Kenneth Freeman, age 12 and 8, from a church social at Whiteland, Ind., Thursday night, is being made today by Charles Dweyer, juvenile court officer. The children are wards of juvenile court, and were placed in the care of John B. Dixon of Whiteland by their father, Norris C. Freeman of Indianapolis. The father has offered a reward of $50 for the return of each boy. They became wards of the court some months ago at a hearing in which both parents, who are separated, demanded the custody. The mother was last heard from at 4241 Penrose Ave., St. Louis.

LETTER FROM PAULA PERIER TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MON BIEN AMI:

Jamais, never, did I think that any one who had loved me so unkind could be as you have been.

Right it is that a man clings to his femme, mais surely no wife would give a pitiful kindness to a woman whose need was as great as mine.

Oh mon ami! Think I could not that such trouble could to me come. Poor little me who has never any one hurt but herself.

And I was so happy at first. To me you were so good—I did not of the future think at all.

All red with weeping are now my eyes. Turned down is my mouth with sorrow. You would not know the girl called Paula.

No longer is she one that men might call beautiful.

Turned I have all my mirrors that I may not look into the sad eyes of the Paula who is here today—they make the heart of me ache so hard.

A friend to me said the other day, "You must have many letters from Mr. Prescott. Of money you are much in need. Why do you not sell them back to him? He would doubtless pay well for them and at least to you it would do something."

I will confess, mon ami, at first this to do I was determined but I cannot—I cannot do it. Those billets d'ou trop précieux are.

So I am sending them to you all but one—that one that you sent me when you left me in New York. When for the last time I read them, in my heart I knew I could never give that one up for it is all that in the future I shall have to keep me for my self.

Do not be afraid, my friend, Paula does not wish to make you trouble. You she loves too much. At first she did not know this and she said to herself that she could be as insouciant as were you. But, alas! it was not so.

Poor little Paula's heart began to crumble into bits when staring in her face she found great sorrow, great disgrace. And now the wish that is her greatest is that she may hide away for herself, and never, never see the face of you again.

Instead of selling you the letters, compelled I have been to sell that lovely necklace which you gave to me when we were in New York together. It seems you got a bargain, Jacques, when you bought it even if to me it was only a token of a thing spurious.

I got for it one thousand dollar. I remember you paid of that but half and so I am saying adieu and praying that out of your life the Fates shall let me go.

PAULA.

Next: Sydney Carton and John Prescott correspond—Glad "the thing" is over.

Simple Home Remedy for Wrinkled Faces

Thousands of the fair sex are spending fortunes in frantic efforts to remove the signs of premature age from their faces. Such women willingly pay almost any amount of money for worthless wrinkle removers, of which there are many. If they only knew it, the most effective remedy imaginable is a simple, harmless lotion which can be made up at home in less than a minute. They have only to get an ounce of pure powdered azoosine and half a pint of witch hazel at the drug store and mix the two. Apply this daily for a while as a refreshing face wash. The effect is almost magical. Even after the first treatment a marked improvement is noticed and the face has a smug, firm feeling that is most pleasing. Advertisement.
