Voters' Executive Committee Selects City for Next Convention.

Word from the national executive committee of the League of Women Voters was received today that Buffalo, N. Y., has been chosen as the meeting place for the national convention late in February or early in March.

The executive committee was in conference over the Fourth of July at Lymo, Conn.

Lebanon Girl Wins Prize Essay Contest

By Times Special
LEBANON, Ind., July 7.—When it comes to the art of writing essays, there aren't many who wield a neater pen than Miss Martha Jane Edwards, her friends say. She won first prize in a contest conducted by the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company. The prize was $20.

Miss Edwards is an eighth grade student at the Lebanon school. She was one of about 300 contestants.

SCARLET BAGS

Scarlet leather bags or bags of scarlet brocade are very effective when carried with white frocks.

DANCE FROCK

An unusually lovely dance frock is of pastel blue chiffon over orchid, beaded with tiny coral beads.

Table Silver

It is no longer considered good form to make a display of your table silver, and those pieces that are not in frequent use are best put away where they will not tarnish.

Indiana League of Women Voters

County and district conventions characterized by informal discussions of the summer and fall program of the League of Women Voters are featuring league activities during the summer. The close of the fourth year of existence of the Indiana League finds it with more than 100 branches throughout the State and with a splendid record of civic and legislative achievement.

The fourth annual conference of the Jasper County League of Women Voters was held at the Presbyterian Church in Rensselaer. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Walter S. Greenough of Indianapolis, first vice president of the State league and formerly the president of the organization, spoke, dwelling especially upon the growth of the organization in Jasper County. Music and readings were given during the afternoon by Miss Mary Jordan of Carpenter Township, Miss Madge Barker and Miss Lois Campbell of Fair Oaks and Miss Helen Ranton of Rensselaer.

Michigan City was hostess to the members of the League of Women Voters in the Thirtieth district at a picnic held at the Haskell & Barker clubhouse recently when sixty women were present from Elkhart, South Bend, La Porte and Michigan City. At the business session, reports of the State were given by Mrs. H. B. Beardsley of Elkhart, president of that league; Mrs. J. C. Boss of Elkhart, State treasurer; Mrs. Wilbur Templin of Elkhart, chairman of the State committee on child welfare; and Mrs. L. S. Pickinger of South Bend, the district chairman. The entertainment movie was presented by the members of the Michigan City league, including Mrs. H. R. Miesner, Miss Cora Nae, Mrs. A. E. Savage, Mrs. W. C. Haviland, Mrs. Glen Ross and Mrs. A. A. Cash.

Miss Vida Newsum was re-elected president of the Columbus League of Women Voters at the annual meeting held in the council chambers of the city building Saturday, June 30. Other officers elected were Mrs. Alice Wells as vice president, Mrs. Laura Fix, secretary, and Mrs. William Budd, treasurer. Reports of the State convention in Indianapolis were given by Mrs. Wells and Miss Fix. Miss Newsum also gave brief reports of

Land of Missing Girls Full of Bitterness

If the myriads of girls who have gone to the Land of the Missing could come back and tell their stories, many others might be saved from following in their footsteps.

They would tell of leaving home because their parents put restrictions on them; of being lured away by dreams of luxury or of love—dreams that never materialized; of starting out too early to win success, because they were too impatient to wait until they had a firm foundation of home training and home ideals.

Then they would tell of the disappointments—the downgrade that leads to despair.

Their tale would strike deep in the hearts of the girls who tire of home. And the girls would turn back, thankful for the families who love them and want them.

In the Theater

Dear Miss Lee: Is it proper when you are in a show with a fellow, that he leads the way out, or the girl?

2. When you are in the show with a fellow, what do you talk about?

3. Is it right for a girl to kiss and hug a fellow at the show at the

1. The girl goes first.

2. If you are considerate of others in the show, you don't talk at all, except between acts. Then, comments on the show usually start the conversation, which may run into various topics.

3. Not for a girl of 14 or of any other age.

Can You Help?

Dear Miss Lee: I am married and do not get along with my husband. He will not let me have a home and I don't want to live with him. He tells me I am not to believe them. He tells me I am not to believe them. He tells me I am not to believe them.

Now, E. F., surely your common sense shows you how ridiculous it is for a girl of 14 to be jealous because she cannot have a boy all to herself. This boy should be just a friend, for years to come. Keep him that, and you will be much happier than if you let imagined love and jealousy intervene.

Foolish Flirtation

Dear Martha: We are three girls 15 years old. We are in school, but find our studies monotonous. Last night we went riding with three fellows we met in a show. It was love at first sight. They want us to be their "steadies." Do you think we are too young? What time should we leave?

These fellows are 20 years old. They are very pretty; in fact, all of us have won beauty prizes. Do you think this is the reason for our popularity? They are too old for us? They are wealthy and we are sure they would make ideal husbands.

THE THRILLING THREE.

You are too young for "steadies," but old enough to know better than to go riding with three strange men. Tell your mothers, yes. Then follow their wishes. Why worry about "ideal husbands" now, girls? Your prettiness may make you popular now, but it will take more than mere looks to keep you popular as you grow older. Character will help you with that. So, when you return in the fall, study earnestly. Think of your school work as part of the big game of life. Instead of just something you are forced to do, and you will find it less monotonous.

Love Lacking

Miss Lee: I am a girl 19 years old. About a year ago I went with a fellow whom I loved. We were engaged to be married. But a girl came between us. I then went with a fellow of whom I thought a awful lot, but not as much as of the first. A bunch of fellows like to get him drunk. The other night I told him not to go. He said he would not, but as did. We are now engaged. The first fellow did not believe in running around much. Which do you think would make a better husband? Should I make up with the first second fellow?

2. The first fellow gave me a manicure and a signet ring. Should I return these? Everyone says I would be foolish to.

UNDECEID.

1. It is quite evident you do not love this second man, so you should not marry him. Is there any reason you could not have both men as friends, and other men friends, too, without settling the question of marriage until you are sure of love? That would be the best way.

2. You should return any expensive gifts from your former fiancé.

Chafes at Punishment

Dear Miss Lee: I am 15 years old. About three months ago I met a wonderful boy of 20. He asked me for dates, but my parents would not let me have any. I refused for a while, but finally I began to get away and see him. My parents found this out and now they won't let me go out at night.

This boy wants me to elope with him, but I don't want to get married yet. But can't stand this much longer. I don't think it's fair for my parents never to let me out, do you? If this keeps up much longer, I know I will run away. Please advise me, Miss Lee.

Dolly, you showed your parents you were not to be trusted, by deceiving them. Now take your punishment without whimpering. Then prove to them that you have learned your lesson, by never breaking trust again.

Of course you will not run away. That would only make matters worse. Your parents are trying to do their best for you. Help them, and yourself, too.

NEWEST LACES

Bohemian laces have been introduced into some of the newest dinner frocks and will share the popularity of Chantilly and the other fine laces.

FASHIONABLE GREENS

Almond green is said to be less popular in Paris at the moment than the darker shades of bottle or ivy green. Blue, too, is said to be more popular.

GRAY AND PINK

A stunning negligee recently imported from Paris is of pink velvet with bands of gray fox on the edges of the long wing draperies.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, IN CARE THE SECRET DRAWER

I like Ruth Ellington very much, dear little Marquise.

On the night of my dinner party she asked me to go with her the next day on a shopping tour. She wanted her spring hat.

She was another woman when we were alone.

Talk about the joys of the chase! I venture that no man ever had as much fun with a gun in a well stocked game preserve as a woman does when she is stalking a hat at a spring opening.

"Let's go to that awfully expensive new hat shop," I said to Ruth Ellington.

"But I can't afford any of their hats," she answered.

"I know it, but we can get an idea of all the exclusive modes and ideas and then if we see the other kind we will know how nearly they come up to the standard."

"I think I'll get a black hat," said Mrs. Ellington as we entered. The pretty young woman who spoke French with an Irish brogue and called us both madamemoiselles, soon had us seated in front of the mirror.

While we were waiting for her to return, we saw in the next booth a woman who was surely over forty trying on hats.

"Don't show me a black hat. I can't wear it," we heard her say.

The obliging young woman brought her one of baby blue.

"My, do you suppose that woman is going to buy that hat?" asked Mrs. Ellington. "Some one ought to tell her it looks terrible on her. It shows up every wrinkle, and ageing defect in her face."

I looked over my friend's shoulder into the glass and found, thank God, that my heart was still young while from my eyes still shown youth.

Next: The letter continued—The "made-over" married woman.
