Disputed Holes in Keystone Ave. Being Repaired

This is one of the $3,000 worth of holes in Keystone Ave. which will be repaired by George Burk, county road superintendent. More than $1,800 already has been spent on the work.

For more than a year, the bad condition of Keystone Ave. has been a source of endless dispute between the county commissioners and the Timberlake Construction Company, contractors, who laid the road in 1920.

Later in 1921 it began to go bad. Efforts to reach an agreement as payment for putting the roadway in good condition have failed. The matter may find its way into the courts it is said. Meantime the county commissioners ordered the holes filled, to the great joy of motorists, who suffered everything from broken springs to upset nervous systems from riding over the bumps.

Contents Kept Secret, but Unofficial Sources Declare Provisions Are Unacceptable to Poincare—Premier Scores Lloyd George in Speech.

By United Press

PARIS, July 23.—Premier Poincare today summoned the French Cabinet to an extraordinary session Tuesday, when the British note to Germany on the subject of reparations will be discussed.

The French premier has an agreement with Premier Baldwin of Great Britain, whereby neither government will permit the contents of the note or the tenor of negotiations now under way through secret diplomatic channels to become known.

Premier Poincare, however, is displaying an anxiety to keep relations with England on the friendliest possible basis.

Consequently little is known regarding France's attitude toward the three proposals of the document which are understood to be:

1. An impartial commission to discover Germany's ability to pay.
2. France and Belgium to withdraw most of their troops from the Ruhr to permit resumption of German industry.
3. Germany to cease passive resistance and get to work.

Unofficial spokesmen and the inspired press have declared these proposals, with exception of the third, unacceptable to France. This country insists upon unconditional capitulation by Germany.

Blitterly and sarcastically flaying Lloyd George for finding it "amusing" that France could simultaneously restore the devastated regions and complain of Germany's voluntary bankruptcy, Poincare Sunday attacked the ex-British premier.

Dislike Is Revealed
Smouldering dislike between the two dominant figures in Europe during the last days of Lloyd George's rule, was revealed in Poincare's speech at Villers-Cotterets, in the forest where Poch made his great July, 1918, offensive and turned the tide of war to victory.

"This is the moment chosen by a former premier of an allied nation to establish between Germany and France the most iniquitous confusion," he said. "He declares it amusing that we can simultaneously restore our devastated area, and complain of Germany's voluntary bankruptcy."

The premier pointed out Germany has again put her commercial fleet into operation, and is developing railroads and digging canals to the detriment of French rights.

Intolerable to France
"All this may be amusing to Lloyd George," he declared, "but it is sorrowful, even intolerable, for France." Poincare cited proofs Germany had deliberately attempted to ruin

French industry, saying "she applied a grotesquely monstrous program, drawn up by specialists. We have authentic copies of this, which show it was aimed to kill our activity and prevent our rehabilitation."

Pointing to a German brochure which exulted over damages to the French from industry which set back the national economic situation, he said: "Lloyd George himself had these cynical publications in his hands when the treaty was written."

"Is it possible to have these infamous pages and to have forgotten them?"

Would Escape Measures
"If we commit the imprudent act of today definitely fixing Germany's capacity to pay she will quickly escape our arbitrary measures and under the influence of an extraordinary agglomeration of industrial forces, take unforeseen proportions and impose upon the world a scandal of most retrograde and immoral political domination," Poincare continued.

"To parry this peril, it is necessary England, Belgium, Italy and France should unite closer together than ever. It is necessary to face realities, and not to permit ourselves to be deluded by deceitful image of an impoverished Germany—forever powerless."

MARION CLUB TALKS OVER NEW LOCATION

Secretary Files Friendly Suit for Appointing Receiver.

Members of the Marion Club today discussed the question of seeking new quarters.

Necessity for disposing of the present property at 243 N. Meridian St., was brought to the attention of club members in a suit for receiver filed by George F. Longstreth, secretary of the club, in Superior Court, room 4, Saturday.

According to C. M. McElwaine president, the suit was friendly.

The complaint stated that the club is not able to meet bills of about $25,000.

Police hold Samuel Wilson, colored, 26, of 1234 N. Senate Ave., for questioning in connection with the investigation of presence of a colored burglar in the home of M. M. Atherton, 3833 Guilford Ave., Saturday afternoon. Police say they caught Wilson coming out of a woods, near the house, after Mrs. Atherton had awakened from a nap, saw the burglar in the room and screamed. The burglar ran into the woods, she said. Wilson denies any knowledge of the affair.

TO JUDGE FLOWER DISPLAY FRIDAY

Gladioli in Separate Section at Show Opening Saturday.

Judging of the entries in the gladioli show to be held Saturday in the lobby of the Bankers Trust Company, will be made Friday night. Entrants should enter their flowers at the lobby between 4 and 7 p. m., Friday.

The show will be divided into two sections, one for the gladioli and the other for garden flowers now in bloom. These will include the zinnia, the official flower of Indianapolis for 1923, lilies, peonies, and iris.

This show will be the fourth of five amateur events on the company's program this year. Members of the Garden Flower Society of Indianapolis are cooperating through a committee composed of Harry F. Dietz, Charles G. Morris and G. A. Fisher. The show will be free for all amateur flower growers to enter.

Quiet Burglar
"The man must have been barefooted or he may have had on rubber soled shoes, for he did not make any noise," declared Mrs. Briggs. "He did not say anything, but as I awakened and turned over he ran from the room. He was about 5 feet 6 inches in height, slender, and wore dark clothes, a cap and tight-fitting sweater. He had entered through the kitchen window."

Mrs. W. D. Thomas, 1118 N. Senate Ave., lost no time in getting busy when she found a colored burglar standing by her at 4 a. m. Sunday. She screamed and grabbed the intruder by the trouser leg when he started to run.

The burglar escaped but he left the trouser leg in Mrs. Thomas's hands.

Wilson denies any knowledge of the affair.

Find Light in Face
Mrs. Ida Galerman, wife of Albert Galerman, 1050 S. Illinois St., awakened at 3 a. m. today to find a burglar flashing a light into her face.

The burglar ran with Galerman's trousers. They contained $50 and a $15 watch.

"I woke up to find a man tiptoeing around the room with a flashlight and a gun. I was so frightened that I couldn't move," said Mrs. Galerman. "When he left the room I locked the door and awakened my husband. Then I called out a window to neighbors, who notified the police."

"Something awakened me at 1 a. m. today," said Mrs. J. J. Briggs, wife of Dr. Briggs, 4071 College Ave. "It was in time to see a colored man with a flash light run through the doorway of my room. I reached for the revolver by my bed. I did not scream, but I awakened Dr. Briggs and he took the revolver and ran down the stairway. The man was gone. He had prepared a way to escape by opening the front window."

The burglar took $10 and some railroad passes.

Quiet Burglar
"The man must have been barefooted or he may have had on rubber soled shoes, for he did not make any noise," declared Mrs. Briggs. "He did not say anything, but as I awakened and turned over he ran from the room. He was about 5 feet 6 inches in height, slender, and wore dark clothes, a cap and tight-fitting sweater.
