LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HER SON MR. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR JOHN:

I do not wonder that you announced to me the news of your adoption of a child through the clipping from daily paper without any comment. I cannot understand why you would do such a terrible thing, particularly after my telegram to you which I sent immediately upon receiving Mrs. Hamilton's letter telling me that you had some ridiculous ideas of doing this silly thing.

John, have you no pride of ancestry? When I think that you, a direct descendant of John Alden, should take into your home someone that whose mother had no more maternal love for her offspring than to leave it before your door, I turn sick. And that you further have insulted your illustrious predecessors by giving that child not only your name but the name of the ancestor of whom we are most proud—John Alden! It seems incredible.

Why John, do you realize that this child is probably illegitimate? No woman, no matter how poor, would give up a child in this way, refusing to disclose her identity, unless that child was born in disgrace.

The only reason I can think of whereby Mrs. Hamilton would agree to this awful piece of insanity is that both she and her husband have come, as you might say, from the soil, and they have no feeling of the duties and responsibilities that belong to us who count among our progenitors the splendid Puritan forefathers who built up this country.

I do not think I shall ever recover from this terrible disgrace. Of course you know it is all silly nonsense that Leslie would not have recovered if she had not had a baby given her. Other women have lost children and still retained their sanity. Leslie's mind must be weaker than even I thought it was.

You must never expect to bring that child into my house. You must never expect it to be given, in my will, any of the heliodes which have come down to us from the John Harriet Perkins, Agnes Gahagan, Gertrude Gahagan, Rodney Perkins, Virginia Lee Hosmer and Kathryn D. Hosmer. The lawn was decorated with American flags and Japanese and French lanterns. A garden party followed the plays. Mrs. Hosmer was assisted by Mrs. Edgar A. Perkins, Mrs. Leola D. Underwood and Mrs. William Roland. There were 150 guests.

Mrs. Hannah Means, 2138 N. Emerson Ave., will entertain with a euchre and bunco luncheon Thursday at her home.

Each day suggestions are heard William Birk, 5550 Central Ave., has returned from a month at Bay View, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meise, 3219 N. Meridian St., have gone to Bert Lake, Mich., for a month.

Frederick Ross, an artist of New York City, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Ross, 2436 N. Talbott Ave.

Miss Jessica Jane Boyer and little brother Leonard Louis of Atlanta, Ga., are the guests of Mrs. T. W. DeHaas, 2152 N. Meridian St.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Donahue, 1719 N. New Jersey St., will go Sunday to Yellowstone Park.

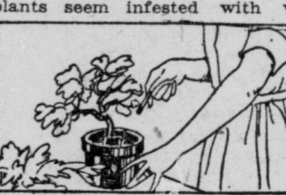

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Laird, 895 Middle Dr., Woodruff Place, are at Lake Wawasee.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Allen of Chicago, Ill., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Hammer, 4230 Carrollton Ave.

Household Suggestions

Household Plants

If the roots of your household plants are infested with worms, stick the sulphur ends of matches in the ground around the roots. This will not injure the plants.

Old Straw Hats

To make a black straw hat look as bright and glossy as it did when you bought it, smear a little butter on an old piece of velvet and rub the hat with it. Leave the butter on for about fifteen minutes, then polish with a dry piece of velvet.

Ironing Hints

Starched articles require a hotter iron to make them smooth than unstarched ones. Hence it is well to begin the ironing with the coarser things until the heat becomes even and the iron smooth.

Stored Clothes

If you will put light washable covers over your dresses that hang in the clothes closet, they will be saved much dirt and dust and will need cleaning less frequently.

Stored Vegetables

Always store your vegetables and fruits in the coolest and driest parts of the basement.

Bluing Water

A little common table salt or a little soda added to the bluing water will distribute the bluing evenly and keep your white clothes from looking streaked.

Harding's Last Words as Private Citizen Just Before Inauguration

HOW President Harding as President strove to fulfill the ideals he cherished as a private citizen is forcibly shown in the following statement, made by him March 3, 1921, just before he was inaugurated—his last words as a private citizen of the United States:

This republic cannot and will not fail if each of us does his part. If we but work as thrifty and seek that understanding which reveals mutuality of interest, no differences can long abide. Our great assurance at home lies in an intelligent, resolute people, in a land unravaged by war, at enmity with no people, envying none, coveting nothing, seeking no territory, striving for no glories which do not become a righteous nation.

If there is one thing in my heart more than another it is that at the end of the coming Administration there remains the America we inherited from the fathers without the surrender of a single part, I only wish for our America a soul truly American. I know there is not a man or a woman who does not rejoice in American solidarity and who does not want it preserved.

We crave fraternity. We wish amicable relations everywhere, we offer peace and choose to promote it, but we demand our freedom and our own America. I believe an America, eminent on the seas, respected in every avenue of trade, will be safer at home and greater in influence throughout the world.

I like to think of an America whose citizens are ever seeking the greater development and influence of the republic, and I like to think of a government which protects its citizens everywhere they go on a lawful mission—everywhere under the shining sun. There is a new world relationship and when the next Administration comes into power we're going to play our part. We're going to ask for nations associated together in justice, but it must be an association which surrenders nothing of American freedom.

Our governmental good fortune does not lie in any surrender at either end of the avenue (at either the Capitol or the White House), but in the coordination and co-operation which becomes the two branches in a great and truly representative popular government.

I have been thinking all the time of getting an organization best fitted to serve this country. I am a partisan. I believe in party government. I have chosen a Republican cabinet, but no selection has been made because of party obligation without consideration for the best service of the country.

I would rather have the respect and confidence of my home-town people, who have known me intimately all my life, than to have been elected President. And I have a feeling that so long as I can continue to hold their respect and confidence I will be content at least with doing my best for all the American people.

When I am through down at Washington I want to be a bale to come back home and again be a part of the home community.

Farmers Will Distribute Milk From Central Station.

By United Press. SOUTHEAST, Aug. 4.—Farmers of St. Joseph County are planning a large central milk distributing station to be run on the cooperative plan.

The farmers' move is in protest over the action of South Bend dealers in raising the price charged for milk without paying farmers more for the product.

CAPEs AND SHAWLS

Capes and shawls are very popular for evening wear. Besides the colorful embroidered Spanish shawls are those of lace or broad fabric, or of plain colors with long fringes.

Sister Mary's KITCHEN

BE sure that the sugar you use for canning, preserving and jelly making is pure cane sugar. Beet sugar will not make good jelly.

Clear, sparkling jelly is the result of quick work in boiling the fruit juice and great care in extracting the juice. The first juice which comes through the jelly bag will make the clearest jelly.

It is better not to try to make too much jelly at one time. The wider the kettle the better, because quick evaporation means a light-colored jelly. Heat the sugar before adding it to the juice. This does not cool the juice or retard the boiling as much as if cold sugar were used. The sugar is heated in the over after measuring.

Apple Jelly

Astrakhan apples can be used for jelly if practically ripe. The jelly will not be as light-colored. Other varieties are used for jelly when quite green.

Wash and quarter apples. Remove any bad spots and defective cores. Put in preserving kettle with just enough water to prevent burning. Cook rapidly to a pulp. Put into jelly bag and let drain over night.

Measure juice. Put juices in clean preserving kettle and boil rapidly. Skim as much as possible and add warmed sugar slowly. Do not let boiling stop while adding sugar. Boil rapidly until a teaspoonful of juice tried on a cold plate forms jelly.

Four into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when cold. Astrakhan apples will "jell" if three-fourths cup of sugar is used for every cup of juice. Most other varieties, containing less pectin, require measure for measure of sugar and juice.

Old-time jelly makers put a rose geranium leaf in the bottom of part of the jelly glasses. The boiling syrup extracted enough of the real fragrance to delicately flavor the jelly. Mint was often used in the same fashion, except that the sprig was removed from the glass before the jelly hardened.

Grape Jelly

Grape jelly should be made before the grapes ripen. Strip grapes from stems and wash. Put in preserving kettle with a very little water, just enough to prevent burning. Bring to the boiling point and boil rapidly until the skins burst

Self-Centered Person Is One Kind of Egotist

Every one is an egotist. In some persons, egotism is more pronounced than in others.

The most common sort of egotist is the braggard. Then there is the self-centered person, who may not boast, but who cannot keep his mind off his own affairs for more than a few minutes.

A third type of egotist, the most to be pitied, is the self-conscious one, a bit different from the self-centered. He fails to realize that other people are not constantly thinking of him as he is thinking of himself, "sizing him up." He cannot carry on an interesting conversation because he is thinking of the impression he is making.

The only way he can overcome self-consciousness is to transfer his attention from himself to others.

Difficult Task

Dear Miss Lee: I wish you would advise me some way to overcome self-consciousness. I have tried hard to master myself, but so far have been unsuccessful. It seems to be a very difficult task. I cannot concentrate on one subject two seconds up. What is the cause of this, and is there no remedy?

SELF-CONSCIOUS GIRL.

Your failing is a common one. Don't you find other people interesting? Of course you do. Then remember your interest in them, instead of worrying about how you are getting on, when you are talking to them.

Another thing to crowd out the "half-dozen other things," be really interested in what you are doing or discussing. Read enough, especially current papers and magazines, to have a fairly good knowledge of a number of subjects. Then you will be able to converse intelligently, interestingly and interestingly. It will take will power, at first, to keep your thoughts from wandering.

Friend Changes

Dear Miss Lee: I lost my best friend last month. I went away on my vacation and when I came back I found my old friend changed very much. She runs around with "trashy" boys. She calls me an "old Molly," because I will not allow "petting parties." I love her, but am not allowed to go around with her on account of her company. Mother says I may go with her if she improves her ways. How can I win her friendship?

I have stopped going with boys because there is not a "decent" one to go with. Don't you think that's right?

Oh, yes, there are quite any number of "decent" boys, Jane. But you are right to wait until you find some of them.

It will be difficult to handle your girl friend, as she probably would not worry about your opinion just now. Don't express any opinion about her new friends, but let her see that it is possible to have a good time and still not mix with undesirable.

HEARTBROKEN J. M.: The only way you can win this man back is to show him that your love for him has regenerated you. Do not call him or go to see him. Instead, tell him that you will be waiting, if he ever regains the trust he has lost. Try to make him see that it is the future, not the past, that counts.

At the same time, do not let your self become discouraged. If life were worth living for no other reason, it would be worth while for you to try to keep other girls from making the mistake you made.

Not Sheiks

Miss Martha Lee: After talking it over with a fellow friend, I find that we both have the same view on girls and their complications. We think that if a girl is gifted with a beautiful complexion, she should have of painting like an Indian and using powder enough to make one's skin all wrong. Of course, we are no "Valentines," so cannot expect to be much of a judge of beauty, but we hope this letter settles arguments on such an important question.

H. J. L. AND J. E. B.

Finish School

Dear Miss Lee: My father is unkind to my mother and about $17 every two weeks. I have graduated from grade school, but everybody wants me to go to high school. Should I go or stay at work to help my mother? I am 15.

I think you can help your mother more by continuing your school work, so you will be able to earn more money, and advance more rapidly, when you are through school.

Father Troubles Girl

Dear Miss Lee: My father is 31. He goes out with other girls and stays at 2 to 3:30 in the morning. He has a car for which my mother paid part. He goes out every night. Every night a lady comes to his house to win his love. M. First, may you advise a lonely girl how to win his love?

Then be quite frank about your losses. Tell him that you like to have him at home and that it makes you unhappy for him to leave your mother alone. Tell him, too, that you don't like for other people to talk about him.

Friendship First

Dear Miss Lee: I am a boy of 17 and I love my girl. If I say her name her attention is drawn to some other boy, whom she says she does not love. Please advise me how to win her love. I am 17.

It would be better, and easier, I think, to keep her friendship now, and not bother about love for a few more years.

Indiana League of Women Voters

Look to Women of America

"The women of Europe look to the women of the United States to lead a movement for the establishment of permanent world peace," Mrs. Maude Wood Park, national president, said on her return from touring European countries. Mrs. Park discussed the question with feminist leaders of various countries, and believes that the American woman is universally regarded as the foremost woman of the day. Her views were concurred in by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage leader, who has recently returned from a trip, during which not only European conditions were studied, but also those in South American countries.

INDIANA NATIONAL GUARDS AGAIN AT KENTUCKY CAMP

Air of Sadness Prevails as Silent Tribute to Harding.

By DOROTHY STANHOPE, Times Staff Correspondent.

CAMP KNOX, Ky., Aug. 4.—The Indiana National Guard are again to be here for a time. The advance party of the 139th Field Artillery arrived Thursday and consisted of Capt. Theodore Taylor, Indianapolis, commanding service battery.

Capt. Garrett Olds, Indianapolis, commanding headquarters detachment, and combat team and forty-eight enlisted men. On Friday Col. John Fishback, commanding the regiment, and Capt. Gilbert Inman reached here.

They are preparing the way for the regiment, which comes on Sunday for its two weeks of training. Horses have been arriving for the past week for this regiment and presently the full quota will be reached.

C. M. T. C. Settling Down

Besides these horses, those belonging to the polo team of the 5th Corps have come down from Columbus. The players are also here. They will play with the three other Army teams for the championship of the 5th Corps.

While the National Guard is going and coming the C. M. T. C. is settling down for its four weeks of training. On Friday afternoon a part of them were taken out for a demonstration. First there is a lecturer under the trees, with the boys seated on the grass and the lecturer on a platform. He exhibited the gas masks used by the various nations in warfare.

Gayety Suspended

Everything used in a gas attack was shown and the lecturer was of a type fitted to the boys' understanding.

Then the scene was shifted to the range where a demonstration was given with gas shells. Tracer bullets going through the air were a most interesting feature of the attack.

All gayety at camp has been suspended on account of the death of the President. There will be no dancing until after the funeral. The flag flies at half-mast and there is a subdued air over the whole camp.
