New English Lutheran Church to Be Established

A new English Lutheran Church and Sunday school will be started Sunday morning, Aug. 5, in a room at Fifty-Second St. and College Ave. One of the vacant rooms on the first floor of the building occupying the northwest corner has been secured temporarily, and for the present both the Sunday school and church services will be held there. The permanent location of the church will be at Fifty-Second St. and Central Ave. A large lot, 100x170, has been purchased on the northeast corner and building operations will begin in a short time, and it is hoped that the building will be ready for occupancy by Oct. 1. This is an exceptionally fine location for a church, being, it is said, the highest ground in north Indianapolis. The plans, as now contemplated, call for the erection of a building in harmony with the surrounding houses and one that will be permanent. A pastor, Rev. John A. Aman of Washington, D. C., has been secured for the church and has been on the field for over a month engaged in the preliminary work. Mr. Aman holds the degrees of bachelor of arts (with distinction)

'Shades of Death' Popular Shrine for Autoists

The Shades of Death, northwest of Indianapolis, probably received its name from the dense shade that is cast by the many forest monarchs that are left standing, coupled with the many deep ravines of that park. It makes a very interesting destination for a one-day automobile trip.

The Shades are of sandstone formation, similar to Turkey Run. Sugar Creek runs along one side. The tourist and the summer resident have access to a splendid beach. The Shades is a privately managed resort. Many cottages have been placed there for the benefit of vacationists.

Go out W. Washington St., take Pike's Peak "Ocean to Ocean" highway to Rockville. Turn north at Rockville, go through Marshall and Turkey Run State Park on State highway No. 9. Continue to Shades of Death on the "Rock River Resorts Route." The entire round trip is 187 miles.

MARION (O.) SPORTS EDITOR MOURNS

Tells of Harding's Interest in Him When but a Kid.

By United Press
MARION, Ohio, Aug. 4.—One of the most pathetic figures in Marion is Fred Kraner, sports editor of the Marion Star.

Kraner's boast is that "Warren Harding took me when I was a kid and made a newspaper man of me."

The sports editor was so overcome by the President's death he could lend no assistance to putting out the extra editions.

Warren G. Harding's creed—expressed in instructions to his staff on the Marion Star—follows:

"Remember there are two sides to every question. Get both."

"Be truthful. Get the facts. Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy."

"I would rather have one story right than half a hundred wrong."

"Be decent; be fair; be generous. Boost, don't knock."

"Treat all religious matters reverently."

"If it can possibly be avoided, never bring ignominy to an innocent man or child in telling of misdeeds or misfortunes of a relative."

"Don't wait to be asked but do it without the asking."

"Never let a dirty word or a suggestive story get into type. I want my paper so conducted that it can go into any home without destroying the innocence of any child."
