MANY ARE INJURED IN KU-KLUX FIGHT

Mob Attacks Klan Members at Steubenville, Ohio.

By United Press
STUEBENVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 16.—One man is near death and fifty are injured as a result of a spectacular battle on the streets of Steubenville last night between 3,000 citizens and 100 members of the Ku-Klux Klan.

The fighting is said to have been an outgrowth of Tuesday's city primary election, in which four Klan candidates were successful.

The mob of citizens attacked the Klansmen as they were coming out of a meeting hall shortly before midnight. Darwin L. Gibson, said to have been watching the melee, was shot and is not expected to live.

The Klansmen caused a stir when they drove into town from Wierton, W. Va. They were in a caravan of twenty-five automobiles and carried illuminated crosses.

The procession went direct to the Klan meeting place, a crowd soon gathered outside the hall and began heckling the Klansmen as they came out.

The clash followed. Several members of the mob were said to have had firearms, but they were armed largely with stones and clubs.

Police succeeded in rounding up the Klansmen and escorting most of them across the river into West Virginia.

A few members were forced to stay behind because of injuries.

Two men are held in connection with the shooting. Police say they were armed.

RETAIL PRICES STEADY

So-Called "Temporary Slump" Proves to Be Permanent.

Retail prices on city market today remained about stationary. The slump in prices that wholesalers dubbed "temporary" over a week ago has proved to be far from temporary. No great change in the near future is in sight, stand-holders said.

Butter and eggs are also stationary in price. Eggs are still selling at 30 cents. Butter varies from 42 cents to 51 cents, according to the brand. The tendency seems to be upward, rather than down, however.

Free State Coup Expected to Clear Internal Situation in Ireland.

By United Press
DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, arrested in Ennis, County Clare, yesterday, will be held "until such time as he can be released without injury to the public safety."

The Free State government appeared confident that its coup in arresting the Republican chieftain would clear the internal situation and would not damage the prospects of the government in the coming elections.

It was generally believed today De Valera would be detained until after the elections. The government press bureau issued a long statement placing blame for disorders and open rebellion on the arrested Republican leader, and saying: "He now tries to shelter himself behind the political campaign, but he must take his place with his associates."

RUDDY CUTS SWATH IN 'DEAH OL' LUNNON'

Sheik Valentino Gets 500 Mash Notes From British Flappers, but Answers None.

By United Press
LONDON, Aug. 16.—Sheik Rudolph Valentino took his gorgeous way to Paris Wednesday, having bought a new suitcase in London in which to carry the mash notes he acquired here.

There were 500 notes in all, tender pink, blue and green epistles, addressed in the square hand-writing of London flappers.

But analysis of the missives indicated a practical turn of mind on the part of the British belles who sought Ruddy's attention.

One proposed he buy her a new dress, another sent a batch of pawn tickets, together with a note hoping the American would provide money for the redemption of the family jewels.

Sentimental missives sought looks of hair, while stage struck ones clamored for a chance to get into the movies.

One beauty, who enclosed her photo to prove she was well fitted to reign in Hollywood, suggested Valentino finance her trip to America and thereby earn fame for himself by providing a new star for the silver screen.

Ruddy, however, stood pat, bought some new English sports suits, and left for gay Paris without answering the letters.

MINER-OPERATOR AGREEMENT HITS SNAG IN PARLEY

Union Officials Unwilling to Give Up Check-off System.

BULLETIN.
NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The conference between miners, coal operators and the government coal commission reached a deadlock this afternoon when John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers, announced the tentative agreement promised on the check-off system could not be followed out.

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A demand by anthracite miners for an increase in wages of $2 a day, new problems raised by the operators in a morning session with the United States Coal Commission and a general air of dissatisfaction among the union officials over the unexpected and informal agreement for mutual abandonment of "check-offs," made it evident this afternoon there was still much to be accomplished before the expected of a hard coal strike this fall can be said to definitely abated.

There was a generally voiced optimism a new direct conference of operators and miners might start at Atlantic City, but little tangible evidence of immediately impending agreement.

The miners emphasize the fact their agreement to give up the union "check-off" if the operators give up company "check-offs" has not been signed. It is intimated they would prefer to retain both systems, rather than see their own abolished.

John L. Lewis and his associates went into conference with the commission shortly after noon, the operators having had their turn this morning, and having raised new issues that will require considerable ironing out.

The first thing the miners' officials did was to inform the commission of their insistence upon a $2 a day raise—equivalent in the running scale to approximately 20 per cent.

One beauty, who enclosed her photo to prove she was well fitted to reign in Hollywood, suggested Valentino finance her trip to America and thereby earn fame for himself by providing a new star for the silver screen.

Ruddy, however, stood pat, bought some new English sports suits, and left for gay Paris without answering the letters.

COLLEGE BOUGHT BY KU-KLUX KLAN

Local Officers Go to Valparaiso to Close Deal.

Milton Elrod, Editor of the Flery Cross, a Ku-Klux Klan publication, and C. C. Watkins, Klan official, went to Valparaiso today to close negotiations for the purchase of the Valparaiso University.

The purchase price, according to Elrod, was fixed at $350,000, the approximate indebtedness of the institution. Elrod said a fund of $500,000 will be raised for betterments and another $500,000 for permanent endowment.

The school will be non-sectarian in every respect, Elrod announced. Five trustees will be appointed from Indiana to take the places of present trustees. Local trustees representing various Klan organizations in the United States will be named, it was announced.

It was announced a full college course will be offered and degrees awarded.

Valparaiso was once one of the largest universities in the United States. It was known as the "poor man's Harvard." The Klan statement said more than 350,000 students had passed through the doors of the university and that 141,000 graduate alumni hold degrees.

New buildings will be erected on the campus this year. It was announced, Rogers Woods and lake will be made a park, in which fraternity houses will be built.

Champ Mermaid Says Fear Worst Enemy of Swimmer

Woman Dolphin States Fair Sex Produces Many Poor Alibis.

Women learning to swim are prone to lay their disability to all sorts of physical shortcomings and forget the handicap of their natural fear of the water, according to Miss Edna O'Connell, national championship breaststroke swimmer who will participate in the championship swimming meet to be held at Broad Ripple pool next Thursday and Friday.

MISS EDNA O'CONNELL

Saturday under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

Miss O'Connell says she has heard many excuses offered by the fair sex—and some by the "unfair sex"—too—blaming their general physical condition for what is in large part a psychological manifestation.

"I am too short of breath," is one of the most popular offerings. "I tire too quickly," is another.

Psychic Inhibition
"Beginners are likely to be short of breath and they are likely to tire quickly," said Miss O'Connell. "But this is partly merely a physical reaction to a mental condition. If the element of fear were removed, those beginners could probably stay on the job twice as long."

"Every one notices the physical reaction to fear that occurs in everyday life. The heartbeat is accelerated. The breath comes in short gasps as if the body were undergoing a terrific physical strain. The muscles become weak and a general feeling of weariness comes over the victim."

"Instances are common where beginners are drowned because they get in a panic and their bodies naturally fail to respond in an emergency. If those same beginners kept their heads, they would probably learn that swimming is a natural function of the body and would be able to get to safety."

Method With Children.
"With young children, there is only one way to overcome this handicap, and that is by keeping them in the water playing around and 'ducking' and doing other simple stunts until the fear is largely dissipated."

"With older people, merely keeping in mind that fear is the greatest obstacle to swimming and that most drownings result from an obsession of fear should be helpful. It is not easy to get rid of the fear handicap entirely, but the knowledge that it is the beginner's own worst enemy will result in an effort to eliminate the trouble at its source, instead of blaming everything on the body."

GENERAL AULTMAN WATCHES INDIANA TROOPS IN REVIEW

139th Hoosier Artillery Stage Imposing Event at Camp Knox.

By DOROTHY STANHOPE
Times Staff Correspondent
CAMP KNOX, Ky., Aug. 16.—The 139th Indiana had its big review on Tuesday afternoon, the event for which it has been drilling and planning ever since its arrival in camp on Aug. 5.

The regiment has had some practice in having parades by batteries, but this was the first time that the entire regiment has been mounted and assembled for the function. A shortage of horses has stood in the way. Some of those used in the review were the property of the 138th Kentucky, also in camp. When the Kentucky regiment has its big function on Friday, Indiana horses will help mount its men.

Parade on Goodman Field
The parade was on Goodman Field. The field is large, slightly rolling, but very smooth. In the distance encircling the whole camp, are densely wooded hills. Nearer in are the buildings of the camp, ugly individually, but half hidden by the giant trees that grow here are picturesque.

Off to the right across the Dixie Highway, half a mile or more, is the Polo Club, surrounded by the same big forest trees. By the clubhouse is the tent city where the 139th is encamped.

From this tent city the 139th emerged. It was near the hour of 4. Slowly the cannon and dissons made their way to the air field and took their places.

General Aultman Reviews Troops
General Aultman and his staff rode on the field from the direction of the camp headquarters, and took their places between the white flags marking the reviewing stand.

Col. John Fishback of Indianapolis, commanding the regiment, accompanied by his staff, joined General Aultman and together they galloped down the line inspecting the regiment.

The general again took his place on the reviewing stand; Gen. Ellerbe Carter, commanding the brigade of which the 139th is a part, joined him.

The regimental band played a stirring march. In review, first at a walk then as the regiment band quickened its time it came by at a trot.

Crepe on the Flag
The crepe on the flag told of the mourning of the regiment. There were no individual crepes and dissons made their way to the air field and took their places.

With the second time around the review was over, and the long line left the field. The reviewing party galloped off in the direction. The automobiles which had been in the visitors' line disappeared and the field was deserted.

"Good work!" one of the generals was heard to exclaim afterwards. "The regiment has made great progress."
